SOLVES FRENCH GAS SHORTAGE — The general strike, which has gripped France for the past week, has caused many travel problems — including highway transportation. France Makes Cabinet Changes; Crisis Eases

Tanks On Stand-By Within Paris Radius

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Georges Pompidou today announced a major government shakeup while French armored columns moved into camps within easy distance of strike-bound Paris.

The first major break in the two-weeks of crippling strikes was reported, indicating an easing in the crisis, at least slightly.

Major changes in the cabinet, designed to put new backbone in the Gaullist regime in its struggle to break the back of the revolt, was the transfer of Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to the Finance Ministry. Finance Minister Michael Debre took over the foreign ministry portfolio.

Defense Minister Pierre Messmer remained in the same job.

The shakeup constituted largely a reshuffle of the previous government ministers, with only a few new names brought in.

Pompidou also announced parliamentary general elections will be held on June 23.

AIMS AT REDS

President Charles de Gaulle dissolved parliament yesterday, warning at the same time that he would take whatever measures are necessary to prevent France from being taken over by a Communist "dictatorship."

Pompidou announced his new government amid these other developments in the crisis which has plunged France into near-chaos and threatened the franc:

Three brigades of French troops, backed by scores of tanks and heavy guns, moved into camps in a 30-mile radius surrounding Paris. Officially they were "returning from maneuvers." But reliable military sources said they could move swiftly into the capital in case of a showdown between de Gaulle and the leftists.

READY TO TALK

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT), France's largest labor union organization, announced it is ready to resume negotiations on pay and working conditions with the government and representatives of industry.

The first major break in the strike by 10 million workers came when the Peugeot Automotive Co., France's third largest auto maker, announced production would be resumed Tuesday morning after the Fight Erupts Near Vital Saigon Bridge

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops today fought their way into a section on the western edge of Saigon that had been held by Viet Cong for six days and killed 200 of the Communists, government spokesman said. At least 50 guerrillas escaped and resumed fighting in the capital.

At the other edge of the city heavy fighting erupted near the Binh Loi bridge, a main artery between Saigon and the huge U.S. air base at Bien Hoa. The Viet Cong force engaged was estimated at 200 men.

A NEW PUSH

As the new battles in the capital raged, a Viet Cong lieutenant colonel who defected to the government side predicted attacks on the capital would continue. He said they were tied to the Vietnam negotiations in Paris.

American spokesmen reported other heavy fighting yesterday in the Central Highlands, along South Vietnam's northern frontier, and on an infiltration route 75 miles from Saigon.

The South Vietnamese Marines broke into the Phu Lam district of Saigon from the southeast. The Viet Cong had been entrenched in the district since last Saturday, beating back counterattacks by the Marines and government rangers with a hail of B40 rockets, rocket grenades and automatic weapons fire. They fired rockets into other sections of Saigon.

South Vietnamese casualties were described by government spokesmen as light in today's fighting. There were no immediate reports of how many Communist troops remained in the district.

COPTER SUPPORT

U.S. helicopter gunships supported the South Vietnamese forces with rocket and machine gun strafing runs in efforts to weaken Viet Cong resistance.

In the jungled Central Highlands yesterday North Vietnamese forces followed their fanatical attack on an American Army infantry hilltop outpost by directing artillery and recoilless rifle fire on two other U.S. bases in the area that borders Laos and Cambodia.

THIRD AIRPORT MISHAP

Light Plane Goes Off Runway End

A family of six escaped injury yesterday when their single engine plane flipped over in the third such accident at Marin County Airport in Novato this year.

Saul Sokolsky of Riverside, his wife and four children were not injured although both wings of the six-passenger Cessna 206 were badly damaged and the nose wheel was sheared off in the crash.

Francis E. Torr, airport manager, said the crash occurred because the plane failed to touch down on the runway soon enough, with the result that it went off the end of the runway.

Torr said that crosswinds have been a factor in past crashes at the airport, but that the runway is aligned northeast to southwest for best year-round wind conditions.

He said the airport has a "wind phenomenon on spring or summer afternoons — slightly crossways to the airport — not a prevailing wind, just a spring phenomenon."

In the plane were Sokolsky, his wife, Madeline, and their four children, all under 12 years old, Eileen, Lawrence, Michael and Daniel.

"If they hadn't been wearing seat belts, they might have been badly injured," said a friend, Seymour Kashin, Marin County transportation director.

In the first accident, William Faust of San Francisco escaped injury on March 13 when his light plane tipped over on the runway.

Torr said Faust, making a "wheel landing," keeping the plane's tail in the air, hit the brakes as the wheels touched the runway, causing the plane to flip over.

The crosswind was a factor in a March 31 crash at the airport in which William Marlar of Colma escaped injury when his plane skidded 250 to 300 feet and went over on its nose.

Marlar had relatively little flying experience at the time of the crash, Torr said.

He noted that the airport has no control tower. "Those landing are expected to know whether it is safe if they elect to land under marginal conditions. Anything could happen to their airplane if they can't control it.

He said the Federal Aviation Agency maintains that the runway direction is the safest for one runway at the Novato location, but that if a second runway were installed, it would point in a different direction.

Marine Waits Sentence In Viet Slaying

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Eight officers of a Marine Corps court martial retired today to consider a sentence for Cpl. Stanley J. Luczko Jr., convicted last night of voluntary manslaughter in the death of an elderly Vietnamese woman 21 months ago.

Defense counsel in closing arguments reviewed character evidence offered at the court martial and pictured Luczko, 22, as a model youth and a model Marine.

Petitions signed by 5,825 people in New England and 256 personal letters asking clemency for Luczko also were presented to the court martial panel by attorney Frank J. McGee Jr.

But the government prosecutor, Lt. William M. Tiernan Jr., argued against clemency and told the court martial:

"The law does not recognize the difference between the yellow skin and the white skin in the taking of a human life without justification or excuse."

The Vietnamese woman was fatally shot while Luczko was on a patrol in the central highlands of South Vietnam.

The maximum sentence that could be set by the court martial here would be 10 years at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge.

A Marine legal officer said the character references from Luczko's neighbors in Gardner, Mass., plus his "outstanding" service record could weigh heavily in Luczko's favor.

It was even possible, he said, that Luczko might walk free after a sentence equal to the 15 months he has spent in the

Gate Span Rust Repair Ordered Despite Protests By Directors

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A controversial $320,000 subcontract to repair rusted suspension cables on the Golden Gate Bridge was approved 9-4 today by bridge and highway district directors.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco made a scathing attack on the engineering firm that proposed the subcontract, arguing that the work should be put out to competitive bidding. The rust was found by the engineering firm, Ammann and Whitney of New York, during its $275,000 inspection of the bridge.

Ammann and Whitney successfully proposed that it subcontract with the American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel.

Leonoudakis said that American Bridge "has not successfully bid competitively on a bridge job in California since 1958. I suspect that the only people Ammann and Whitney consulted was American Bridge, and one can easily see how abuses come about in this area and that's the very reason why jobs of this nature must, according to law, go out to competitive bid.

"To say the least," declared Leonoudakis, "I have lost all confidence in the firm of Ammann and Whitney."

J. Philip Murphy, "one of the world's outstanding bridge builders," said Leonoudakis, had told him that a saving of at least 20 per cent would result if the contract were advertised for competitive bids.

Thus by putting this job out to bid, said Leonoudakis, the bridge district could save at least $72,000.

Leonoudakis also suggested that the bridge district terminate its contract with Ammann and Whitney. This would save the district another $100,000, he said.

"In terms of bridge talk, that is 688,000 25-cent tolls," said Leonoudakis. "I believe they have socked it to us again," he said of Ammann and Whitney.

Leonoudakis said that during his five-and-a-half years as a director "there have been some strange maneuverings, but this one has to rank as the worst and still the squirreliest yet devised."

The bridge district's attorney, Jerome B. White of San Francisco, advised the bridge board that it was their "duty" to approve Ammann and Whitney's proposed subcontract with American Bridge "at any price Ammann and Whitney may deem proper."

Marin County's two representatives on the bridge board, George Ludy of Inverness and Thomas Hardcastle of Novato, supported Leonoudakis' unsuccessful motion to put the subcontract out to competitive bid.

Marin Supervisor Thomas C. Storer, a constant critic of the bridge board, commented that the vote was "absolutely irresponsible."

Students Seize University In Rome—Sympathy For France

ROME (AP) — Students seized control of the University of Rome today as Italy's far left parties stepped up plans for mass demonstrations in support of French workers.

Police units went on alert in case of violence at a twilight rally called by the pro-Moscow People's Socialist party, allies of the Italian Communists.

The Communist party, biggest Red party in the West, issued a second appeal in less than 12 hours for "a vast unity" movement to demonstrate solidarity for militants in France and to agitate for political and social changes in Italy.

More than 2,000 students joined to take over the main buildings of Rome University, marching under a huge red banner onto the university grounds. Police made no move to intervene.

Students swarmed into buildings and blocked entrances to the schools and painted walls with slogans reading: "Red Europe Starts in Paris," "Arms to Workers and Students," "Power is in Rifle Barrels."

Gronouski Is Named Top Humphrey Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appointment of John A. Gronouski, former ambassador to Poland, as executive vice chairman of the campaign staff of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was announced today.

Simultaneously, Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., cochairman of United Democrats for Humphrey, told reporters that a first-ballot nomination of the vice president at the Democratic convention in Chicago has become "even more of a real possibility."

Hanoi Refuses Johnson's Call For Restraint

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam today rejected President Johnson's call for a gesture of restraint by Hanoi to help de-escalate the Vietnam war.

Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief delegate, told the sixth session of the U.S.-North Vietnam talks:

"If the United States continues the war, we shall continue our resistance until total victory."

Thuy told W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, that the Hanoi regime insisted on a complete halt of American bombing without condition and would pay no "ransom."

Harriman read Thuy parts of Johnson's statements yesterday at a news conference at which the president called on Hanoi to match the restraint shown by the United States in restricting the bombing.

Johnson said the United States then would "go far and fast with them and others" to build peace.

A U.S. spokesman, at a news briefing after the 3-hour and 35-minute session in the International Conference Center, said Harriman told Thuy that questions of mutual restraint "are the central issue."

"It is you who have tried to evade them and have refused to discuss them seriously," the American diplomat told the North Vietnamese side.

The "official conservations" here were called to cool down the Vietnam war enough to allow for a full dress peace conference. The talks began May 13 and promptly bogged down.

At today's session, Thuy read a long prepared statement, largely restating Hanoi's so far inflexible attitude that the United States must end bombing and other "acts of war" before peace talks can even start.

Thuy said the United States must stop the fighting to allow

Interest Is Hiked On Savings Bonds

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson announced today an increase in interest on government series E and H savings bonds from 4.15 to 4.25 per cent and on "freedom shares" from 4.74 to 5 per cent, effective Saturday.

Announcing the action from his Texas ranch, the chief executive said the higher bond rates will apply not only to newly purchased bonds but to outstanding bonds until their next maturity date.

SCORPION SEARCH MOVES EASTWARD

Radio Message Feared Hoax; Families Of Crewmen Getting Nuisance Calls

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Navy is now searching in the deep Atlantic for the submarine Scorpion. It has abandoned a search nearer the coast prompted by a radio message purportedly from the missing sub which some officers label a possible cruel hoax.

The Navy ordered 12 ships yesterday to leave patrol assignments near the coast and move seaward. At the same time it released 12 others from further participation in the search.

While a sub on the bottom in the relatively shallow waters of the continental shelf might survive, its hull is not designed to withstand the pressures encountered at greater depths.

While doggedly keeping up the hunt for the lost ship, officers at Atlantic Fleet headquarters reported crank calls were plaguing families of the Scorpion's crew. The callers pose as Navy officers and give the families false information on the conditions of their loved ones, they said.

Some 60 of the Scorpion's men had families in the Norfolk area.

The Navy said the ships moving to deeper waters would sweep eastward from a point 400 miles out of Norfolk to the last known position of the Scorpion.

The Scorpion, a submarine of the Skipjack class with a crew of 99, was scheduled to arrive in Norfolk at about 1 p.m. EDT Monday after a training mission in the Mediterranean. Its last reported position was given on May 21 as about 200 miles south of the Azores.

The Navy said it was abandoning a special search organized when a Navy patrol plane and six ships heard a voice transmission at 8:28 p.m. Wednesday.

The transmission said, "Any station this network: this is the (and then the code word for the Scorpion)."

The transmission was beamed on what the Navy said was the "submarine search and rescue primary frequency," but an Atlantic Fleet spokesman said the frequency was within access of ham radio operators on shore and ships at sea.

And the code name of the Scorpion, he noted, had been used extensively throughout the search. Anyone tuning in on the frequency might have heard it.

Western Union Walkout Scheduled For Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, AFL-CIO, today ordered a strike against Western Union to begin at 12:01 a.m. EDT tomorrow.

"I don't think they're going to operate very much," union president E. L. Hageman said of the telegraph company. "We went on strike in 1966 for two days and they didn't send very many telegrams."

Hageman said the union's national negotiating board voted to call the walkout to coincide with the expiration of the current contract after they examined the company's latest offer last night and found it "insufficient."

The union official said the CTU represents 22,000 Western Union employes througout the nation, with the exception of New York City, where the workers belong to the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO.

He said the union is asking an across-the-board wage increase of 7 per cent each year for two or three years, depending on length of contract. The company, he said, has offered raises over three years of 4 per cent, 4½ per cent and 5¼ per cent.

Bicycle and "walking" messengers, who make up some 1,200 of the union's members would get no raise at all under what the company has proposed because their pay was boosted recently by an increase in the federal minimum wage, Hageman said.

Other issues, he said, include job reclassification, company payment of health insurance premiums for employes' dependents and pension improvements.

The average hourly pay under the present contract, he said, is $2.78.

McAndrew, NBC News Chief, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — William R. McAndrew, president of NBC News and an innovator in network television news coverage, died yesterday at Lawrence Hospital in Bronxville. He was 53.

Innovations by McAndrew, director of the network's news since 1951, included teaming Chet Huntley with David Brinkley, expansion of the network's evening news program from 15 to 30 minutes and the NBC White Papers.

Network executives said news programming increased tenfold during McAndrew's tenure and made NBC competitive with the Columbia Broadcasting System in over-all coverage.

McAndrew, who was struck by television's power to reveal the character of a political candidate as well as report his platform, also expanded NBC's coverage of national political conventions.

"Under the objective lens of a camera, a nominee must be fully accountable for what he says and does," he once said. "Television thus makes visible a candidate's honesty and sincerity, and exposes with equal clarity any sham of pretense."

McAndrew and NBC News received a Peabody Award in 1963 for "outstanding contributions to electronic journalism."

A graduate of Catholic University in Washington, D.C., McAndrew began his news career as a part-time reporter for the Washington Herald.

His first full-time job was as a $10-a-week copy boy for United Press. He soon was promoted to reporter and after two years of general assignments moved to NBC News in Washington.

During World War II, he served as chief of information for the Board of Economic Warfare.

He held honorary degrees from Providence College and Holy Cross College.

He suffered an injury last week in a fall in his Bronxville home.

Survivors include his widow, Irene Byrne McAndrew; two daughters, Mary of New York, an Associated Press reporter, and Mrs. John J. Prendergast of Alexandria, Va.; a son, William Jr., and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

In 1825, children under 16 frequently worked 13 hours a day, six days a week.

Arias Called Race Winner

PANAMA (AP) — Dr. Arnulfo Arias was declared winner of Panama's presidency for the third time yesterday and voiced confidence that this time he may hold onto the post for a while.

Rival candidate David Samudio rejected the result of the ballot count, but Arias was bolstered this time by support of Panama's army, the National Guard.

Arias, 67, polled 41,545 more votes than Samudio, the government candidate, the National Election Board said in a report on the May 12 election.

Samudio challenged the honesty of the county and claimed that the National Guard had committed "an act of force" in supporting the opposition.

Another electoral tribunal controlled by the government said the election board's count was void and Samudio should be declared the winner. But without National Guard backing, this had no effect.

Black Militants Held In Louisville Strife

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Arrests in Louisville's West End climbed to more than 400 today as police and volunteer Negro marshals tried to cope with scattered looting and isolated incidents of sniping.

Police, trying to work without the help of National Guardsmen, arrested about 100 persons, including 20 juveniles, in the predominantly Negro section during a nine-hour period ending last midnight.

Most were charged with disorderly conduct or breach of peace.

Two leaders of the Black Unity League of Kentucky, a militant group composed of teenagers and young adults, were among seven arrested when police stopped a seven-car caravan heading from the West End into the east section of the city. Both men, Sam Hawkins, 25, and Robert Sims, 21, were charged with breach of peace.

The trouble during the fourth consecutive night of racial disorder in the city came despite a plea for calm from the mother of a teen-ager killed in the violence.

"We appeal to everybody to stop this disorder before other mothers and fathers suffer as we are," Mrs. James Groves told a news conference.

Her son, James, 14, and Mathias Washington Browder, 19, were shot and killed Wednesday night in what police said were looting incidents.

Browder was shot by the owner of a liquor store, W. J. Berger, who was charged with manslaughter and released later on a $5,000 bond. Groves was killed by Patrolman Charles Noe. No action was taken against the officer.

AWAITING SENTENCE — Marine Cpl. Stanley J. Luczko, convicted last night of voluntary manslaughter for the slaying of a Vietnamese woman, talks with his mother, Mrs. Stanley J. Luczko of Gardner, Mass., while they awaited a sentence decision today by an eight-man court martial at Quantico, Va. (UPI Telephoto)

Portsmouth, N.H. Naval Prison since his first trial where he was convicted of premediatated murder.

That trial, in Da Nang, Vietnam, led to a sentence of life imprisonment, but the conviction and sentence were overturned by a Navy Board of Review which found legal errors in the proceedings.

The woman, Nguyen Thi Co, was slain while Luczko was leading a combat patrol near Chu Lai on Sept. 22, 1966.

Formal testimony in the retrial wound up after Luczko took the stand to dispute prosecution testimony that he had slain her.

Reagan Slipping In Popularity, Poll Indicates

SAN FANCISCO (UPI) — The Mervin Field Poll reported today that Gov. Ronald Reagan's popularity with California voters has dropped sharply in the past year.

The survey found Reagan's performance rating down almost to the level of former Gov. Edmund G. Brown during the closing months of Brown's administration.

The poll said 30 per cent of those responding felt Reagan was doing a "good job," 36 per cent put him in the "fair job" category, 30 per cent said he was doing a "poor job", and 4 per cent had no opinion. The survey was taken this month.

In a similar poll last June, 41 per cent rated Reagan's performance as "good," 33 per cent as "fair," 17 per cent as "poor," and 9 per cent had no opinion.

Boys Punished For Gun Misuse

Two San Rafael brothers, aged 16 and 14, must start their summer vacation by writing 500-word essays on safety and the proper use of firearms.

They were found hiding in some bushes behind 205 Spring Grove Avenue, San Rafael, yesterday morning after Charles Stewart called police to complain a ricocheting bullet missed his head by two inches while he was in the back yard.

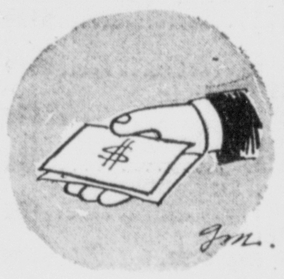
The boys admitted they had been shooting their .22-caliber rifle on the hill behind Stewart's home. Police took their gun, assigned the essays, due June 13, and left the punishment to their angry parents.

Australia is the home of the koala, or living teddy bear.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Contract Break And Penalties



When you break a contract you are to blame for the resulting damage. How much damage is often hard to foresee. The parties, therefore, often agree beforehand to pay so much it they break the contract.

For example, the contract may read: "If the seller does not perform in time, he must pay $50 a day for delay."

The courts will enforce most "penalty" clauses if they are reasonable and not arbitrary and if at the time of the contract is made it is extremely difficult to prove actual damage. Otherwise the payment becomes a true penalty, and the court does not, as a rule, enforce it.

Sometimes the same effect is attained by a bonus. The contract, say, sets out a schedule, and then a series of bonuses if the contract is finished ahead of schedule.

Or Jones Company may agree to remodel a store by July 1 or pay $100 for each day afterwards that the job is not done. If this seems to be a reasonable cost for a delay, and it is extremely difficult to prove actual damage, a court will enforce the damages.

Farmer John agrees to market his fruit through a cooperative. If he breaks the agreement, he must pay a certain percentage of his crop value. As a rule, the courts have enforced such clauses as seem reasonable. For failure by the farmer to perform might defeat the organization's purpose and do it great financial harm.

If the damage clause is fair, and at the date of the contract it is extremely difficult to prove damages, the court will enforce it even though no one suffers actual damage. Thus, suppose Black leases a resort ranch to Smith and agrees to keep up the premises. If Black fails, the agreement may say, he must pay $10 a day until he performs.

Now suppose Black fails to do proper repairs in the middle of the vacation season and Smith sues. Although Smith's suit claims Black's suit failure damages his goodwill, he will have a hard time proving it. The court nevertheless allows Smith to collect the liquidated damages.

Brown enrolls his son Bob in a private school. He agrees to pay a tuition of $500. Later, the school dismisses Bob for good reason. The school can keep the tuition or even recover for any unpaid installments. In this case the court is merely enforcing the entire contract.

FRANCE

Pentacost weekend holiday. A steady trickle back to work was reported in many other industries.

As a side effect of the franc's buffeting, the already weak British pound slipped to a new low of about $2.46.

But the crisis left gold unharmed. The price of the precious metal on London's big market remained stable, easing up five cents an ounce to hit $42. There was no sign of a rush to buy it.

SECRET TRIP

Meanwhile a West German government spokesman in Bonn today said de Gaulle made a flying trip Wednesday to French military headquarters in Baden-Baden for conferences with Gen. Jacques Massu, commander of the 55,000 French troops stationed in West Germany.

Guenter Diehl, the spokesman, said the Bonn government was informed of de Gaulle's visit as it was taking place and had no time to arrange formal greetings normally accorded a head of state.

The disclosure cleared up the mystery surrounding the whereabouts of de Gaulle from the time he left Paris and his arrival at his country estate about 100 miles away more than six hours later.

Jury Deadlocks On Car Joy Ride Case

Trial in Marin Municipal Court of Phillip H. Coit, 19, accused of joy riding and car tampering, resulted late Wednesday in a hung jury.

The youth, of Dallas, Tex., is accused of taking the car of Bonnie Pieczynski, 57 Spruce Road, Fairfax, on April 7, and of tampering with the vehicle. Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas said today it hasn't been determined whether a new trial will be scheduled.

OBITUARIES

Angela Ratto Dies At 73

Requiem Mass for Angela Ratto, 73, a past chairman of the costume committee of the San Francisco Columbus Day queen festivities, will be held tomorrow at Sts. Peter and Paul Church, 666 Filbert Street, San Francisco. Entombment will be at the Italian Cemetery in San Francisco.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

Mrs. Ratto, who had resided in California 65 years and in Marin County the past 15 years, died at her home at 105 Nadina Way, Greenbrae, yesterday after a lengthy illness.

A native of Vareze Ligure, Italy, she had resided in San Francisco most of her life.

She and her husband, Frank Ratto, moved to Greenbrae on his retirement. He had been president of a San Francisco rubbish collection firm.

She was a member of the Vittoria Colonna Club, the Old Lady Institute, and Madonna Della Guardia and a former member of the Italian Welfare Committee.

JACK W. PAHL

Jack W. Pahl, 47, a student at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Strawberry, died of an apparent coronary attack at midnight last night at his home, 101 Carey Hall at the seminary.

According to a family friend, Pahl became ill yesterday about 6:30 p.m. and died five hours later. He had been under a doctor's care in recent months.

A native of Streator, Ill., Pahl had lived in California since 1946. Prior to coming to Marin 10 months ago to study for the ministry, he had lived in San Leandro. He was a veteran of World War II and a member of the Halcyon Baptist Church, San Leandro.

Surviving are his wife, Leona of Mill Valley; a step-daughter, Carol Foreman of Pittsburg, Contra Costa County; a sister Mrs. Roberta Jones of Round Hill, Ill.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Cantos Robinson Mortuary in San Leandro.

S. MEADE BADGER

S. Meade Badger, retired carpenter of 254 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, died yesterday at a local hospital following a lengthy illness.

Novato Police Stop Teen-Agers In Stolen Auto

Two Novato boys, aged 13 and 14, were booked at juvenile hall on a variety of charges today, when they stole the car of the 14-year-old's parents and led police on a chase down South Novato Boulevard.

Police said they saw the boys in the car at 12:30 a.m. When an officer sirened for their car to halt, the inexperienced driver drove away. They were finally stopped by a squad car blocking the road.

When they told officers they would run away if returned to their parents, the boys were booked at the hall, police said.

They were charged with joy riding, failure to stop for a police siren, reckless driving, driving without a license, curfew violations and being beyond parental control.

Cherished Flag, Pole Disappear

When Hans W. Schneider of 35 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, became a naturalized American citizen, friends gave him a large American flag and flag pole to mark the occasion.

Yesterday, to display his patriotism, Schneider hung the cherished flag outside his store, Hans Upholstery, at 1838 Fourth Street.

When he went to take down the banner at 6:30 p.m., he found it was gone.

San Rafel police today were uncertain whether the flag was stolen or collected mistakenly by the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce, which loaned flags to several businessmen for display on Memorial Day.

FRUSTRATING TASK

Watchdog Describes Youth Justice Need

By MARY LEYDECKER

"There have been so many projects — with such relatively disappointing results."

This is the description of attempts to deal with juvenile delinquency that is made by the chairman of the Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission, retired San Rafael attorney James D. Adams.

Not ready to give up, Adams is leading his commission to new studies of the problem while the commission acts as a watch dog over probation, placement, court procedures and other matters connected with juvenile justice in Marin County.

Adams, who was appointed to the commission by his longtime friend, Samuel W. Gardiner, judge of the juvenile court, has "become hooked," he says, on the field of juvenile problems.

He has gone to court to watch about 100 hearings for teenagers.

"Every one of them was in trouble and every one was immature to some extent or other," Adams said.

Although Adams made a career of the law and has great respect for government of law rather than of men, he feels that with youngsters rules and regulations are not necessarily the answer.

"Every one of them (teenagers in trouble) probably needs something pretty sepcial," he said.

"I don't have the answers," he added, but he does have "one simple suggestion." An increase in the number of foster homes available in Marin County would be beneficial, Adams thinks.

At the present there are about 40 such homes.

Adams attended a conference this spring in Sacramento dealing with juvenile delinquency, and he said "that all of the suggestions that came from the conference dealt with enlisting community support and that kind of thing."

"I felt that we already had community support and many organizations working in the field," he said. "So the commission is now trying to coordinate the work of the various groups."

Asked if these organizations had brought any decrease in the delinquency rate, Adams said, "It's so very hard to tell. There are no good figures on the problem."

He explained that Marin County sends such a low number of delinquents to the California Youth Authority that the county gets a rebate from the state.

"We keep our youngsters in the county," he said. He does say, however, that there seems to have been a decrease in the percentage of violent crimes by youngsters.

Whether this is due to programs in the county or because of other factors, Adams wasn't able to say.

Marijuana is a big problem with teen-agers, he added, and apparently youngsters who have smoked marijuana are more likely to go "on a trip" than to do something violent.

Adams quoted the Los Angeles police chief, who said that marijuana in his city was much more prevalent in well-to-do sections than in poorer ones.

In the commission's search for answers in the field of juvenile justice, members are assigned to the various aspects of the system beginning with "intake."

Intake, as Adams describes it, is where a decision is made as to whether a youngster "has to get into the machine." He explained that about three-quarters of the teen-agers who arrive at Juvenile Hall are sent home almost immediately. Commission member John D. Rockwell deals with this aspect, and Lanny Berry watches over intensive supervision, which is a program for some youngsters who are seen more often than usual by probation officers.

Rex Silvernale's special interest is Juvenile Hall itself, and Edwin A. Wells deals with the pre-placement program, which is housed in the former Family Rehabilitation Center. This is where youngsters stay until they are assigned to other institutions or foster homes.

Mrs. Marguerite Finley reports on dependent wards, those children who have not been in trouble but for other reasons are court wards.

Committee Formed To Help Patients Of 'Giant Killers'

A committee designed to provide improved patient care for Marin residents suffering from heart disease, cancer, stroke and related illnesses has been organized.

The committee was set up by the Regional Medical Programs Area Office in San Francisco, which is coordinating a federal program to combat these top three "killer diseases."

Members of the committee are Dr. Norman F. Carrigg of Mill Valley, representing Marin Medical Society; Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer; Mrs. Ilona Bellak, an assistant director of nursing service at Marin General Hospital; Fred H. Brylka, assistant vice president and manager of Crocker-Citizens National Bank's East San Rafael office;

Marin Municipal Court Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.; Dr. Michael Scholl, medical director of the Marin County Medical Department; Dr. John C. Siemens, administrator of Ross General Hospital, and Dr. Albert E. White, physician in charge and chief of staff at Kaiser Hospital in Terra Linda.

The committee is to study medical needs and resources in Marin, acting as an advisory committee to the regional office on the federal program. Marin is in a region that stretches from the Bay Area north to Oregon, and is headquartered at the University of California Medical School campus in San Francisco.

Sheriff Curbs Gypsy Jokers

SPRINGVILLE (UPI) — Tulare County Sheriff Bob Wiley put on a show of force when 80 members of a motorcycle group known as the Gypsy Jokers from San Jose arrived at a camping area near here late yesterday.

Wiley ordered a contingent of 15 deputies, two of them with dogs, into the area along Highway 190 and the Tule River about five miles east of here.

He said the group was orderly and there were no incidents, although deputies said a number of persons moved their camps after the group arrived.

Portsmouth, N.H. Naval Prison since his first trial where he was convicted of premediatated murder.

That trial, in Da Nang, Vietnam, led to a sentence of life imprisonment, but the conviction and sentence were overturned by a Navy Board of Review which found legal errors in the proceedings.

The woman, Nguyen Thi Co, was slain while Luczko was leading a combat patrol near Chu Lai on Sept. 22, 1966.

Formal testimony in the retrial wound up after Luczko took the stand to dispute prosecution testimony that he had slain her.

Reagan Slipping In Popularity, Poll Indicates

SAN FANCISCO (UPI) — The Mervin Field Poll reported today that Gov. Ronald Reagan's popularity with California voters has dropped sharply in the past year.

The survey found Reagan's performance rating down almost to the level of former Gov. Edmund G. Brown during the closing months of Brown's administration.

The poll said 30 per cent of those responding felt Reagan was doing a "good job," 36 per cent put him in the "fair job" category, 30 per cent said he was doing a "poor job", and 4 per cent had no opinion. The survey was taken this month.

In a similar poll last June, 41 per cent rated Reagan's performance as "good," 33 per cent as "fair," 17 per cent as "poor," and 9 per cent had no opinion.

Boys Punished For Gun Misuse

Two San Rafael brothers, aged 16 and 14, must start their summer vacation by writing 500-word essays on safety and the proper use of firearms.

They were found hiding in some bushes behind 205 Spring Grove Avenue, San Rafael, yesterday morning after Charles Stewart called police to complain a ricocheting bullet missed his head by two inches while he was in the back yard.

The boys admitted they had been shooting their .22-caliber rifle on the hill behind Stewart's home. Police took their gun, assigned the essays, due June 13, and left the punishment to their angry parents.

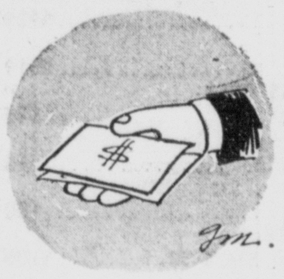
LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Contract Break And Penalties



When you break a contract you are to blame for the resulting damage. How much damage is often hard to foresee. The parties, therefore, often agree beforehand to pay so much it they break the contract.

For example, the contract may read: "If the seller does not perform in time, he must pay $50 a day for delay."

The courts will enforce most "penalty" clauses if they are reasonable and not arbitrary and if at the time of the contract is made it is extremely difficult to prove actual damage. Otherwise the payment becomes a true penalty, and the court does not, as a rule, enforce it.

Sometimes the same effect is attained by a bonus. The contract, say, sets out a schedule, and then a series of bonuses if the contract is finished ahead of schedule.

Or Jones Company may agree to remodel a store by July 1 or pay $100 for each day afterwards that the job is not done. If this seems to be a reasonable cost for a delay, and it is extremely difficult to prove actual damage, a court will enforce the damages.

Farmer John agrees to market his fruit through a cooperative. If he breaks the agreement, he must pay a certain percentage of his crop value. As a rule, the courts have enforced such clauses as seem reasonable. For failure by the farmer to perform might defeat the organization's purpose and do it great financial harm.

If the damage clause is fair, and at the date of the contract it is extremely difficult to prove damages, the court will enforce it even though no one suffers actual damage. Thus, suppose Black leases a resort ranch to Smith and agrees to keep up the premises. If Black fails, the agreement may say, he must pay $10 a day until he performs.

Now suppose Black fails to do proper repairs in the middle of the vacation season and Smith sues. Although Smith's suit claims Black's suit failure damages his goodwill, he will have a hard time proving it. The court nevertheless allows Smith to collect the liquidated damages.

Brown enrolls his son Bob in a private school. He agrees to pay a tuition of $500. Later, the school dismisses Bob for good reason. The school can keep the tuition or even recover for any unpaid installments. In this case the court is merely enforcing the entire contract.

Pentacost weekend holiday. A steady trickle back to work was reported in many other industries.

As a side effect of the franc's buffeting, the already weak British pound slipped to a new low of about $2.46.

But the crisis left gold unharmed. The price of the precious metal on London's big market remained stable, easing up five cents an ounce to hit $42. There was no sign of a rush to buy it.

SECRET TRIP

Meanwhile a West German government spokesman in Bonn today said de Gaulle made a flying trip Wednesday to French military headquarters in Baden-Baden for conferences with Gen. Jacques Massu, commander of the 55,000 French troops stationed in West Germany.

Guenter Diehl, the spokesman, said the Bonn government was informed of de Gaulle's visit as it was taking place and had no time to arrange formal greetings normally accorded a head of state.

The disclosure cleared up the mystery surrounding the whereabouts of de Gaulle from the time he left Paris and his arrival at his country estate about 100 miles away more than six hours later.

Jury Deadlocks On Car Joy Ride Case

Trial in Marin Municipal Court of Phillip H. Coit, 19, accused of joy riding and car tampering, resulted late Wednesday in a hung jury.

The youth, of Dallas, Tex., is accused of taking the car of Bonnie Pieczynski, 57 Spruce Road, Fairfax, on April 7, and of tampering with the vehicle. Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas said today it hasn't been determined whether a new trial will be scheduled.

Novato Police Stop Teen-Agers In Stolen Auto

Two Novato boys, aged 13 and 14, were booked at juvenile hall on a variety of charges today, when they stole the car of the 14-year-old's parents and led police on a chase down South Novato Boulevard.

Police said they saw the boys in the car at 12:30 a.m. When an officer sirened for their car to halt, the inexperienced driver drove away. They were finally stopped by a squad car blocking the road.

When they told officers they would run away if returned to their parents, the boys were booked at the hall, police said.

They were charged with joy riding, failure to stop for a police siren, reckless driving, driving without a license, curfew violations and being beyond parental control.

Cherished Flag, Pole Disappear

When Hans W. Schneider of 35 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, became a naturalized American citizen, friends gave him a large American flag and flag pole to mark the occasion.

Yesterday, to display his patriotism, Schneider hung the cherished flag outside his store, Hans Upholstery, at 1838 Fourth Street.

When he went to take down the banner at 6:30 p.m., he found it was gone.

San Rafel police today were uncertain whether the flag was stolen or collected mistakenly by the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce, which loaned flags to several businessmen for display on Memorial Day.

Pedestrian Robbed In Marinship Area

Franklin Louis Franulic, 23, of 26-A Circle Drive, Tiburon, reported early today he was robbed of $1.50 by three men, sheriff's officers reported.

Franulic said he was walking at Gate 6, Marinship, about 1:55 a.m. when the trio, all Negroes dressed in dark clothing, halted him. One knocked him to the ground, causing minor injury to his right elbow, Franulic added.

A 40-foot tree may absorb 19 gallons of water a day in the height of the growing season.

FRUSTRATING TASK

Watchdog Describes Youth Justice Need

By MARY LEYDECKER

"There have been so many projects — with such relatively disappointing results."

This is the description of attempts to deal with juvenile delinquency that is made by the chairman of the Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission, retired San Rafael attorney James D. Adams.

Not ready to give up, Adams is leading his commission to new studies of the problem while the commission acts as a watch dog over probation, placement, court procedures and other matters connected with juvenile justice in Marin County.

Adams, who was appointed to the commission by his longtime friend, Samuel W. Gardiner, judge of the juvenile court, has "become hooked," he says, on the field of juvenile problems.

He has gone to court to watch about 100 hearings for teenagers.

"Every one of them was in trouble and every one was immature to some extent or other," Adams said.

Although Adams made a career of the law and has great respect for government of law rather than of men, he feels that with youngsters rules and regulations are not necessarily the answer.

"Every one of them (teenagers in trouble) probably needs something pretty sepcial," he said.

"I don't have the answers," he added, but he does have "one simple suggestion." An increase in the number of foster homes available in Marin County would be beneficial, Adams thinks.

At the present there are about 40 such homes.

Adams attended a conference this spring in Sacramento dealing with juvenile delinquency, and he said "that all of the suggestions that came from the conference dealt with enlisting community support and that kind of thing."

"I felt that we already had community support and many organizations working in the field," he said. "So the commission is now trying to coordinate the work of the various groups."

Asked if these organizations had brought any decrease in the delinquency rate, Adams said, "It's so very hard to tell. There are no good figures on the problem."

He explained that Marin County sends such a low number of delinquents to the California Youth Authority that the county gets a rebate from the state.

"We keep our youngsters in the county," he said. He does say, however, that there seems to have been a decrease in the percentage of violent crimes by youngsters.

Whether this is due to programs in the county or because of other factors, Adams wasn't able to say.

Marijuana is a big problem with teen-agers, he added, and apparently youngsters who have smoked marijuana are more likely to go "on a trip" than to do something violent.

Adams quoted the Los Angeles police chief, who said that marijuana in his city was much more prevalent in well-to-do sections than in poorer ones.

In the commission's search for answers in the field of juvenile justice, members are assigned to the various aspects of the system beginning with "intake."

Intake, as Adams describes it, is where a decision is made as to whether a youngster "has to get into the machine." He explained that about three-quarters of the teen-agers who arrive at Juvenile Hall are sent home almost immediately. Commission member John D. Rockwell deals with this aspect, and Lanny Berry watches over intensive supervision, which is a program for some youngsters who are seen more often than usual by probation officers.

Rex Silvernale's special interest is Juvenile Hall itself, and Edwin A. Wells deals with the pre-placement program, which is housed in the former Family Rehabilitation Center. This is where youngsters stay until they are assigned to other institutions or foster homes.

Mrs. Marguerite Finley reports on dependent wards, those children who have not been in trouble but for other reasons are court wards.

Committee Formed To Help Patients Of 'Giant Killers'

A committee designed to provide improved patient care for Marin residents suffering from heart disease, cancer, stroke and related illnesses has been organized.

The committee was set up by the Regional Medical Programs Area Office in San Francisco, which is coordinating a federal program to combat these top three "killer diseases."

Members of the committee are Dr. Norman F. Carrigg of Mill Valley, representing Marin Medical Society; Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer; Mrs. Ilona Bellak, an assistant director of nursing service at Marin General Hospital; Fred H. Brylka, assistant vice president and manager of Crocker-Citizens National Bank's East San Rafael office;

Marin Municipal Court Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.; Dr. Michael Scholl, medical director of the Marin County Medical Department; Dr. John C. Siemens, administrator of Ross General Hospital, and Dr. Albert E. White, physician in charge and chief of staff at Kaiser Hospital in Terra Linda.

The committee is to study medical needs and resources in Marin, acting as an advisory committee to the regional office on the federal program. Marin is in a region that stretches from the Bay Area north to Oregon, and is headquartered at the University of California Medical School campus in San Francisco.

Sheriff Curbs Gypsy Jokers

SPRINGVILLE (UPI) — Tulare County Sheriff Bob Wiley put on a show of force when 80 members of a motorcycle group known as the Gypsy Jokers from San Jose arrived at a camping area near here late yesterday.

Wiley ordered a contingent of 15 deputies, two of them with dogs, into the area along Highway 190 and the Tule River about five miles east of here.

He said the group was orderly and there were no incidents, although deputies said a number of persons moved their camps after the group arrived.

Safe Cracked At Builder's Novato Office

Seven burglaries including a safe-cracking in the office of a Novato building contractor's building were reported today by sheriff's officers.

Charles R. Fredrick, contractor at 320 Deer Island Lane, told deputies early today that burglars entered during the past two days by removing a restroom window screen.

He said they battered the 4-by-4-foor floor safe until one of two doors came off, but nothing was believed taken. The safe contained only non-negotiable papers, he said.

The break-in was discovered by two employees at 7 a.m. today.

Raleigh G. Young, 2300 Las Gallinas Avenue, Marinwood, told officers Wednesday that burglars pried a sliding glass door of his home, entering to steal two electric razors, three watches worth $350 total, five tobacco pipes and a silver vase.

Intruders pried a window screen at the home of Charles E. Mason, 535 Quietwood Drive, Marinwood, yesterday, stealing $40 in change and a watch.

A caron of cigarettes and a flashlight were taken from the home of Newton F. Harrison, Elvia Court, Marinwood, after burglars cut a window screen yesterday.

Walter Schlechtriem, 396 Hickory Lane, Terra Linda, told deputies that burglars removed a window at his home, entering to take a clock and two men's gold rings.

A $300 camera was taken from the home of Peter B. Wrisley, 151 Stadium Drive, Tamalpais Valley, officers said. Entry was via an open front door.

Anita C. Junck, San Francisco, reported someone entered her weekend home at 761 Edgewood Drive, Mill Valley, during the past several days. Nothing was believed taken.

McClosky Sued Over Alleged Birch Claims

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—The co-chairman of the veterans committee for Robert Barry, candidate for the Eleventh District Republican congressional nomination, today sued Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. for $400,000.

The plaintiffs, retired Marine Col. Mitchell Paige of Redwood City, and retired Navy Lt. Cmdr. H. Richard O'Hara of Hillsborough, said McCloskey had incorrectly stated they were members of the rightist John Birch Society.

Holiday Road Death Toll Nears 200; Two Days Left

By UP International

The nation's Memorial Day holiday weekend traffic deaths climbed toward the 200 mark today. The pace was behind last year's record toll.

The National Safety Council said this year's pace for the four-day holiday weekend was slightly behind last year's, when a record 608 persons died on the highways during the four days. The council has estimated 625 to 725 persons will die on the nation's roads this weekend.

A United Press International count at noon EDT showed at least 187 persons had died in traffic accidents since the holiday began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday.

The breakdown:

Traffic	187
Drownings	56
Planes	3
Miscellaneous	27
Total	273

California led the nation with 24 traffic deaths. Pennsylvania had 18. New York had 14 and Illinois and Michigan each had 11.

The worst reported accident was near New Kensington, Pa., where six persons died when their car struck a utility pole along Pennsylvania 56. Two men having a fist fight in the middle of U.S. 96 near Pineland, Tex., were killed when a car struck them.

Driver Fined $220

Thomas Edward Reynolds, 36, of 435 Green Glen Way, Mill Valley, was fined $220 and placed on a year's probation Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. California Highway Patrol arrested him on Highway 101 on Feb. 6.

Candidate Hits Poster Vandalism

Willful destruction of campaign posters by political opponents of Donald O'Leary, Third District candidate for supervisor, was charged today by Henry J. Broderick, general chairman of O'Leary's campaign.

Broderick said a witness reported the driver of a car with bumper stickers favoring another candidate stopped on Tiburon Boulevard near the Cove Apartments. Two women were reported to have jumped out and pulled down O'Leary posters. The car's license number was taken down, Broderick said.

Broderick reported 95 per cent of O'Leary's posters had been destroyed during the past three weeks and called this "wardheeling politics at its worst."

Solo, Group Concert Set At High School

Music students from San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools will present a solo and ensemble concert at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

Solos will be on the flute, clarinet and trumpet. A flute trio and two woodwind quintets will also play.

Admission will be free.

O'Leary Sees Ferry Ports Best Solution

Donald O'Leary, candidate for Third District supervisor, last night reminded voters that long-range plans of the Association of Bay Area Governments call for a second San Francisco-Marin bridge and voiced his opposition to a second bridge terminus in Southern Marin.

Speaking at a coffee held for him at the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan W. Cundall, O'Leary said a southern terminus would not relieve the steadily increasing traffic through that part of the county. Re recommended diverting traffic to a system of Central Marin ferry ports.

Hoover Hits At Ignoring Crime Wave

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover assailed today those who attempt to minimize the nation's crime problem by blaming it on the large increase in the youthful population and fuller tabulations by police.

He said such people "prefer to close their eyes and hope that crime, if ignored, will go away." He said those who try to "explain away the shocking truth behind crime statistics" are doomed to failure.

Defending the FBI's crime statistics, Hoover, writing in the Bureau's monthly "Law 'enforcement Bulletin," listed these comparisons:

In 1960-67 the population increased 10 per cent but the volume of serious crime rose 80 per cent.

In the same period the 10-17-year-old age group increased 22 per cent, but arrests of persons in this group for all criminal acts increased 72 per cent.

"We hear the claim that improved police tabulating methods account for the rise in crime and that now citizens are more willing to report to police," Hoover said. He called these suppositions weak.

Speaking of the FBI figures, he said, "agencies which update their reporting systems are not included in the national trend totals until they have established at least two comparable years under their revised operations."

He said this is done "purposely to avoid any paper increase which might result from the change."

Concerning the possibility that more crime now is reported to police, Hoover said it is generally conceded that armed robbery and murder are consistently reported year after year.

"Consequently, with minor fluctuations, the annual totals for these two crimes should remain fairly constant," he said, yet in 1967 armed robbery increased 30 per cent over the 1966 figure and murder rose 12 per cent.

Hoover added that crime statistics are based only on violations known to police.

$40,000 West Bay Fire Fatal To One

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A cigarette was believed to have been the cause of a three-alarm fire yesterday that destroyed a $40,000 home in the Richmond District and killed Arthur Short, 42.

The blaze was brought under control by 100 firemen and 25 pieces of equipment.

Experts on Law Enforcement Support Robert Kennedy because:

"We are convinced that lawlessness in America and the causes of lawlessness in America are the most serious problems facing this nation today.

"And we are equally convinced that Senator Robert Kennedy is the only man seeking the Presidency who has the experience, the ability and the compassion to understand and deal effectively not only with the problems of law enforcement, but with the causes of crime."

How Kennedy has fought organized crime.

As Attorney General, Robert Kennedy launched the most effective attack against organized crime in the history of this nation. For the first time, the inner workings of organized crime were revealed. He increased indictments and convictions by over 1,000 percent. He obtained the organized crime legislation which had been unsuccessfully sought by the Department of Justice for decades.

He founded the Office of Criminal Justice to provide leadership to the Department of Justice in promoting reform of the system of criminal justice.

As Attorney General, he provided the leadership and guidance for over 33,000 law enforcement personnel. He set a standard for integrity and courage which stands as a model for law enforcement in America.

An article in the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science said that the extraordinary political courage of Senator Robert Kennedy, when he was Attorney General, represents the kind of story that will never be known in all its ramifications. We who know the truth of this courage, agree.

What Kennedy did to prevent crime — and protect the innocent.

As Attorney General, Robert Kennedy fought as hard to prove a man innocent as he did to prove him guilty. He sought and obtained counsel for the poor and established juvenile delinquency programs throughout America in an effort to help young men and women avoid a life of crime.

When he left office in 1964, the New York Times said Robert Kennedy had done more than any of his predecessors for the poor man charged with crime.

What Kennedy would do about riots.

Robert Kennedy has called for full citizen support of local law enforcement agencies and for a broadening of responsibilities so the police can become the natural allies of those seeking a better life. He has branded street rioting intolerable and a threat to every American, black and white. He has said many times and in many places that a violent few cannot be permitted to threaten the well-being of the many. As a Senator, he co-sponsored bills to provide comprehensive assistance to state and local law enforcement agencies.

And, today, when Robert Kennedy calls for an end to rioting and violence, he commands attention and respect in the ghettos of America because he has fought with courage and determination for a better life, equal rights and a full range of opportunities for all Americans.

We have watched Robert Kennedy in action and that is why we, as men who have been involved professionally in enforcing the law, urge all Californians to support Robert Kennedy for President in the June 4 Democratic primary.

Tomales Unification Faces Ballot, After Six Years

Residents in the two-county sprawling Tomales High School District will vote Tuesday on unification of the district with the four elementary school districts within its territory.

It will be the first chance the district voters have had to make their own decision on the proposal after six years of trying to get the issue on the ballot and three refusals by the State Board of Education.

Voters will have two propositions before them: Proposition G, the unification of the high school with its elementary districts; Proposition H, leveling of the bonded indebtedness of all of the districts. They will also elect a new seven-man board of trustees for the new district if it is formed.

Proposition G, would unify the high school district, the Tomales Bay School District and the West Marin Elementary District in Marin County and the Bodega Bay Elementary District and the Watson Elementary District in Sonoma County.

If approved by the voters, the new unified district would become effective July 1, 1969. Approval will require just a simple majority of the voters in all of the districts combined, according to Charles McCully, assistant superintendent of schools for Marin County.

This is the first time that a unification election has been held in the district. Although it was first conceived and discussed in 1961, it was turned down repeatedly by the state Board of Education.

On July 28, 1964, the voters were given a chance to unionize all of the elementary districts. This, if approved by a majority of voters in each of the districts, would have had somewhat the same effect as unification. However, this was defeated in the West Marin District, although it carried with a majority in the entire area.

Subsequent recommendations by the Marin County Committee on School District Organization that unification proposals be put to the voters were rejected by the State Board of Education.

Proposition H on the ballot provides for leveling of the bonds, whereby the new district would assume all of the bonded indebtedness of all of the districts. This measure requires a two-thirds vote to pass. However, should the unification be approved, the state education code provides automatic alternative bond assumption by the new district, whatever the outcome of proposition H.

The bonded indebtedness of the districts involved in the unification are: Tomales High School District, $1,175,000; Tomales Bay School District, $63,000; West Marin Elementary District, $385,000; Bodega Bay Elementary District, $28,000 and Watson Elementary District, none, according to McCully.

If the unification is successful, there will be a new seven-man board of trustees The Tomales High School District has been divided into seven trustee areas. One trustee will be elected from each area with voting done at large throughout the district, he said.

Those running from each area are:

Area 1 — Dr. Bruce Daniels of Point Reyes Station and Lawrence J. Alters of Inverness.

Area 2 — Robert Gallagher of Point Reyes Station, unopposed.

Area 3 — Robert Giacomini of Point Reyes Station, unopposed.

Area 4 — Roy Parks of Tomales, Herbert Angress of Marshall and David Burbank Jr. of Fallon.

Area 5 — Harold Meadows Jr. and Joseph Tremari, both of Petaluma.

Area 6 — Raymond Romelli, LeRoy Erickson and Mrs. Evelyn Mazzucchi of Valley Ford. Another candidate, Mrs. Clara Perucchi of Bodega Bay has withdrawn.

Area 7 — Mrs. Louise Passalacqua, unopposed.

Roy Parks, member of both the Tomales High School District Board of Trustees and the county committee on school district organization, wrote the argument for unification.

He quoted the California law of 1959 for reorganizing all districts in the state into unified districts. The Tomales High School was one of two areas left in the state without an approved proposal. Combining Tomales High School with another high school district, would inflict heavy penalty tax on property owners without improving the local educational program, according to the argument.

The 73 per cent favorable vote for the high school bonds confirmed that the public was interested and supported a good educational program for the district.

The proposed seven-man board of trustees would assure each area in the district of adequate representation, Parks said.

Other advantages for the unified district would be the use of specialized teachers at all levels, more effective use of consultants, better supervision of teachers and curriculum, advantage of bulk ordering and sharing of materials, and better planning of the building program.

Jack L. Mengel, member of the committee on school district organization, wrote the arguments against unification.

The district has inadequate facilities to carry on a good educational program, has limited curriculum offerings and instructional limitations. The proposed unified district would be too small in student population, he wrote.

The travel time required of students is excessive. The expenditure for education per students is considerably higher than neighboring high school districts, according to Mengel.

"This report is not intended to encourage a negative vote, but to point out certain factors affecting the district during the past eight years," he wrote.

Marinwood Tax Ceiling Vote Slated

Marinwood Community Services District will ask voters for a raise in tax rate from the present $1 to $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation at Tuesday's election.

A finance projection committee, headed by Donald A. Duerr, made a detailed study and reported that the district will face a financial crisis as early as next year, if the rate is not raised.

The committee reported that next year's revenue estimate is $84,500, whereas expenditures will be $112,220. By 1972-73, the revenue will be $93,040, but the expenditures will have jumped to $134,825.

SECOND BALLOT

Tax Increase Sought By Sausalito Schools

Like summer television, the Sausalito School District has scheduled a rerun next Tuesday. But unlike TV, the interest should be higher the second time around.

District voters will ballot on a proposal to authorize a maximum $2.40 per $100 assessed valuation general fund tax rate to succeed the $2.25 maximum which expires this year. The authorization would be for four years. Total tax rate for the district this year is $3.225, including a $2.11 general fund rate.

The voters rejected a measure on March 5 to authorize a $2.45 general fund rate for an indefinite period. The proposal lost by 872-786, with only 38 per cent of the voters turning out.

The school board reluctantly dropped the request for indefinite authorization of the new rate in preparing the new proposal.

However, under a section of the 197 Unruh Education Act, all such tax rate authorizations expire in 1971 anyway, and the tax lid is removed then.

If Tuesday's tax rate proposal loses, the district general fund rate will automatically drop to 90 cents, which district officials say will mean drastic cuts in the education system.

Opposition to the measure appears to center on the district's high per-student costs ($1,066 a year) and on inclusion in the district of 264 pupils from public housing in Marin City. Opponents say the burden of educating the public housing pupils should not fall in the district alone, but on the entire county, since the housing project produces no property tax revenue and was created by a county-wide vote.

District officials reply that Marin City, which also includes a substantial number of property owners, more than pays its way in the district because of various state and federal grants for educating disadvantaged students.

According to school officials, reduction to the 90-cent rate would require closing two or three of the district's four schools, ending all busing programs, eliminating all special programs, and increasing class size to more than 40 pupils.

The county supervisors last Tuesday offered to grant the district $43,000 to meet costs of educating public housing students, but only on condition the $2.40 general fund tax rate is approved.

Election Aides Hope Ballot Bugs All Gone

Marin's bug-plagued voting system will be put to another test when voters go to the polls Tuesday.

In 1966, it took two days to complete the count of the ballots.

This year, however, the county elections department predicts less trouble because several improvements have been made in the IBM "votomatic" system which the county bought for $312,989.

The most important improvement is that the ballot cards are on a heavier grade of paper this year, said the assistant county clerk for elections, John F. Musser Jr.

Also, the scoring of the pop-out ballot marks has been improved, he said, and a stronger stylus has been designed for this election. The stylus is used by voters to punch out the scored ballot card.

Musser said the ballot count should go faster this time because persons hired for the election are more familiar this year with the system.

Marin's 217 precincts will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Voters in only 10 precincts must travel more than one mile to vote. In three of these, voters must travel over three miles, Musser said.

The statutory limit of travel to vote is 10 miles.

After the polling places close, Musser explained, election officials will check to see that the number of ballots cast matches the number of voters who signed election sheets before receiving their ballots.

The precinct workers then take the ballots to one of 12 receiving centers throughout the county, which transfer the ballots to the counting center in the Civic Center. There, the ballots are checked for bends or any mutilation that might cause them to stop the ballot counter.

In 1966, Musser claimed ballots had been deliberately mutilated by some voters, thus causing frequent stoppages by the ballot counter. Bent or mutilated cards have to be reproduced by hand, before being fed back into the computer.

The computer was supposed to have been programmed by IBM to automatically bypass invalid ballots, said Musser, instead of simply stopping at each invalid ballot until it is removed by hand.

Bruce K. Thomas of Oakland, IBM's voting systems representative, told the Independent-Journal that his firm's contract with the county did not call for such programming. Thomas also said that such a change could make the county's computer unsuitable for other improvements.

Musser estimated the vote count would be completed by 12:30 a.m. — Wednesday.

Responding to a host of telephone inquiries to his department, Musser emphasized that no write-in votes will be counted for presidential candidates.

The only choices available to voters in the presidential primary are those on the ballot. The Republican ballot has only one choice, a "favorite son" delegation headed by Gov. Ronald Reagan. No delegation for any other Republican was formed in California.

In any event, voters in the presidential primary vote only for a slate of delegates stating a preference for a particular candidate — and do not vote for the candidate himself.

Hub Schools Trying Again To Put Across Bond Issue

Voters in the San Anselmo School District will be presented with the second school bond issue within a year at Tuesday's primary.

Since a $950,000 bond issue was badly defeated in October, 1967, the School district board has decided to follow the advice of the San Anselmo School Citizens' Committee to ask only for $510,000 this time.

The committee suggested that the trustees "go to the community with a bare bones bond issue that would finance only the district's most urgent building needs."

According to the committee's chairman, Richard B. Kreuzer of 40 Crane Drive, the recommendation is an outgrowth of an inquiry into the rejection of the earlier bond issue.

Kreuzer said that "the consensus indicated that voters were voicing an outcry against mounting costs in general rather than lack of school support.

"We concluded that a pared-down bond issue to cover our schools' most immediate needs would be an acceptable compromise to everyone," Kreuzer said.

If the bonds are approved by the voters, the construction will include a six-classroom unit at Red Hill School, a multi-use room at Hidden Valley School and drainage and soil erosion correction at Sleepy Hollow School.

District Supt. Stephen L. Parodi said that the unit at Red Hill School would replace an existing portable classroom and will provide "badly needed" classroom space.

At Hidden Valley School, he said, a multi-use room for physical education and music would free the classrooms now being used on a makeshift basis.

A drainage system at Sleepy Holow School will make usable a third of the grounds which are now soggy for several months a year, Parodi added.

Approval of the bonds would increase the tax rate about 11 cents from the present $3.41 to $3.52 per $100 assessed valuation, Parodi said. He expects a 5-cent to 10-cent decrease in the district's state loan repayment cost, which could pretty well offset the bond cost.

Parodi estimated that the 11 cent increase would cost the owner of a $20,000 market value home an additional $5.06 a year without the decrease in the state loan repayment.

Scuba Driver Drowns In Kelp Bed Tangle

VENTURA (UPI) — A scuba diver drowned off Aancapa Island yesterday when he became tangled in kelp and a rope thrown from shore by his 8-year-old son fell short.

Charles Blair Roper, 32, Santa Paula, was pronounced dead after he was taken to Ventura Marina. Roper was caught in the kelp bed five minutes after he and three other men entered the water.

Czech Maneuvers To Involve Only 'Small' Soviet Units

PRAGUE (AP) — Officers of Warsaw Pact armies have begun arriving in Prague in preparation for joint maneuvers next month that the Czechoslovak Defense Ministry says will involve "only small units" of Soviet troops.

An announcement said they include a number of specialized signal corps men.

Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek said yesterday that no Soviet combat units would take part.

The maneuvers—under the direction of Marshal Ivan Yakubovsky of the Soviet Union, commander in chief of the East European military alliance—will range through Czechoslovakia and parts of Poland. Foreign observers have called the exercises an attempt to pressure Czechoslovakia's liberlization drive.

Defense Minister Martin Dzur said small Russian units would be used to simulate larger ones.

"For example," he said, "a division has several thousand troops but in this exercise it will be represented by two or three hundred men.

Dzur said the Soviet troops were bringing communications equipment "which we ourselves will use for our own maneuvers later in the year."

A Defense Ministry statement noted that "mainly Soviet officers will be involved" in "staff movements."

It described the maneuvers as "one of the regular working measures to raise the fighting potential and integration of staffs, to increase cooperation and strengthen friendship among the armies of the Warsaw treaty countries."

Social Workers Think Hippies Here To Stay

SAN FANCISCO (UPI) — Two social workers told a session of the National Conference on Social Welfare yesterday that the hippie movement was not a passing phenomenon but a "protest against depersonalization" that shows few signs of declining.

David Crystal and Irwin Gold declared in their paper that the hippie movement dramatizes "the distortions of our adult value-system . . .(It) is not entirely a transient, meaningless fad which will be gone with the wind.

"For us the hippie movement is a message and a challenge—a protest against depersonalization, the computerized system of thinking and doing, the distortion and hypocrisy between our styles of living and our alleged sense of ethics and values."

Crystal, executive director of the Jewish Family Service Agency here, and Gold, executive director of the San Francisco branch of the United Jewish Community Centers, also told of a woman social worker who became so identified with hippies that she left her job and became a sort of hippie herself.

"(She) went to establish a commune 30 miles from San Francisco, and it's still there—and I assume she's living happily ever after," Gold said.

Arrigoni Hits Kettenhofen On Density

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Second District, today ripped into his opponent's sample ballot statement as "the greatest misrepresentation of fact I've seen in my life."

The object of Arrigoni's attack was a statement by incumbent Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen that "this past year my emergency initiative, approved by the board, prevented a high density factor in West Marin."

Kettenhofen's "entire history in all work on the West Marin master plan," declared Arrigoni, "was one of working for higher densities than were approved by the county planning commission, or, at first, by his fellow supervisors."

The supervisors at first approved a density of .88 of a dwelling unit per acre, which would have permitted an eventual polulation of 66,000 persons, noted Arrigoni.

However, Kettenhofen then "overturned" the first decision and won a 3-2 vote to allow a 1.15 density, or an eventual population of 124,000 persons, said Arrigoni.

"Kettenhofen deliberately misrepresented the facts in order to make the voters believe something which is not true," charged Arrigoni, adding that voters should "judge for yourselves how much faith you can place in this man's promises when his statement is at so much variance with his own actions."

Mississippi Teachers Pay Visit To Reed Educators

By ELIZABETH VON KAHL

A return visit was paid by Mississippi educators to Reed School District this week.

Douglas R. Bean, superintendent of the Nettleton-Line Consolidated School District, straddling the Lee and Monroe County line, brought along his wife, who is a second grade teacher; Mrs. Q. O. Johnson, supervisor of the district's reading program; Delmo Payne, junior high school principal, and Mrs. Payne, a first grade teacher.

The superintendent reported that Mississippi education is improving. He said the state legislature recently passed a $1,000 yearly raise for teachers who are college graduates.

His district is not contemplating building another Granada School, Bean said. The district has self-enclosed, conventional classrooms. But, with the aid of the Reed District teachers work team which visited there last March, the district started some team teaching. "It has worked out nicely so far," Mrs. Bean commented.

Problems in Mississippi schools are similar to those in Marin, Bean felt. But when asked if there were many cases of pupils smoking marijuana, he said it was not a problem there.

Neither are hippies. "Once in a while, a boy starts growing long hair, but we manage to talk him out of it, without much trouble," Bean said in his unhurried drawl.

In Bean's district of 1,400 pupils, one elementary school and the high school are integrated and the other elementary school has all negro pupils. There have been no problems with integration there," he said, "I guess because we accept it in our area." Bean added that children have freedom of choice of which schools to attend in the district.

Homes in the city of Nettleton (population 1,400) are mostly middle-class, but many children come from rural areas outside the city. The district's attendance area covers 115 square miles. The district gets some federal aid as about 35 per cent of the pupils are in the poverty bracket.

Granada School teacher Nancy Cook commented that on her trip south she found teaching Negro or white children in Mississippi exactly the same as teaching children in Marin. Bean said the visit from the northern teachers "put an added spark in the district."

The Mississippi educators plan to leave Marin today.

Cup, Coins Taken

Mrs. King, Sun Cheer Up Resurrection City

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Buoyed by sunshine and a visit from the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King, residents of muddy Resurrection City organized new demonstrations today in support of their demands for government action to help the poor.

The plywood-and-canvas shantytown in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial was still a muddy bog. Fresh rains yesterday left three to four inches of slimy, yellowish mud around the main entrance.

But the indomitable spirit of the campaigners was reflected in a hand-lettered sign proclaiming: "This mud won't turn us around."

New demonstrations were planned at the Agriculture Department and on Capitol Hill. And a delegation of American Indians taking part in the Poor People's Campaign arranged a conference with officials of the Indian Claims Commission.

Mrs. Corretta King, widow of the slain civil rights leader, visited the camp during a thunderstorm yesterday and gave a big lift to the rain-dampened morale of the poverty campaigners.

Pausing as she strolled through Resurrection City to hug mud-splattered children, she said: "We have a great job to do. We have to save the nation."

Mrs. King also spoke briefly to campaigners in the camptown dining tent, concluding with a quotation from a speech by her husband: "Free at last, free at last, thank God almighty, I'm free at last."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, who has led most of the demonstrations to date, was hospitalized today with pneumonia and Hosea Williams, bearded militant who has led the Southern Christian Leadership Conference on many marches in the Deep South, took over as head of the direct action program.

District of Columbia health officials were worried that an epidemic of pneumonia might break out unless the campground —which has been soaked by rain 11 of the last 14 days — dries out soon.

The rain has delayed installation of sanitation and drainage facilities at the site, and one of the volunteer doctors said the danger of outbreaks of such diseases as typhoid and dysentary was "very high."

Dr. Murray Grant, head of the city Health Department said he was making daily checks on conditions at Resurrection City to determine whether to recommend that the shantytown be closed down and evacuated.

Despite intermittent rainstorms, accompanied by rolling thunder, the biggest demonstration yet of the campaign —in terms of participants —was held yesterday.

More than 1,000 campaigners —black, whites, reds and browns — marched through nearly empty downtown streets to protest what they called genocidal government food policies.

Social Workers Think Hippies Here To Stay

SAN FANCISCO (UPI) — Two social workers told a session of the National Conference on Social Welfare yesterday that the hippie movement was not a passing phenomenon but a "protest against depersonalization" that shows few signs of declining.

David Crystal and Irwin Gold declared in their paper that the hippie movement dramatizes "the distortions of our adult value-system . . .(It) is not entirely a transient, meaningless fad which will be gone with the wind.

"For us the hippie movement is a message and a challenge—a protest against depersonalization, the computerized system of thinking and doing, the distortion and hypocrisy between our styles of living and our alleged sense of ethics and values."

Crystal, executive director of the Jewish Family Service Agency here, and Gold, executive director of the San Francisco branch of the United Jewish Community Centers, also told of a woman social worker who became so identified with hippies that she left her job and became a sort of hippie herself.

"(She) went to establish a commune 30 miles from San Francisco, and it's still there—and I assume she's living happily ever after," Gold said.

Teen-Ager Drowns

Arrigoni Hits Kettenhofen On Density

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Second District, today ripped into his opponent's sample ballot statement as "the greatest misrepresentation of fact I've seen in my life."

The object of Arrigoni's attack was a statement by incumbent Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen that "this past year my emergency initiative, approved by the board, prevented a high density factor in West Marin."

Kettenhofen's "entire history in all work on the West Marin master plan," declared Arrigoni, "was one of working for higher densities than were approved by the county planning commission, or, at first, by his fellow supervisors."

The supervisors at first approved a density of .88 of a dwelling unit per acre, which would have permitted an eventual polulation of 66,000 persons, noted Arrigoni.

However, Kettenhofen then "overturned" the first decision and won a 3-2 vote to allow a 1.15 density, or an eventual population of 124,000 persons, said Arrigoni.

"Kettenhofen deliberately misrepresented the facts in order to make the voters believe something which is not true," charged Arrigoni, adding that voters should "judge for yourselves how much faith you can place in this man's promises when his statement is at so much variance with his own actions."

Mississippi Teachers Pay Visit To Reed Educators

By ELIZABETH VON KAHL

A return visit was paid by Mississippi educators to Reed School District this week.

Douglas R. Bean, superintendent of the Nettleton-Line Consolidated School District, straddling the Lee and Monroe County line, brought along his wife, who is a second grade teacher; Mrs. Q. O. Johnson, supervisor of the district's reading program; Delmo Payne, junior high school principal, and Mrs. Payne, a first grade teacher.

The superintendent reported that Mississippi education is improving. He said the state legislature recently passed a $1,000 yearly raise for teachers who are college graduates.

His district is not contemplating building another Granada School, Bean said. The district has self-enclosed, conventional classrooms. But, with the aid of the Reed District teachers work team which visited there last March, the district started some team teaching. "It has worked out nicely so far," Mrs. Bean commented.

Problems in Mississippi schools are similar to those in Marin, Bean felt. But when asked if there were many cases of pupils smoking marijuana, he said it was not a problem there.

Neither are hippies. "Once in a while, a boy starts growing long hair, but we manage to talk him out of it, without much trouble," Bean said in his unhurried drawl.

In Bean's district of 1,400 pupils, one elementary school and the high school are integrated and the other elementary school has all negro pupils. There have been no problems with integration there," he said, "I guess because we accept it in our area." Bean added that children have freedom of choice of which schools to attend in the district.

Homes in the city of Nettleton (population 1,400) are mostly middle-class, but many children come from rural areas outside the city. The district's attendance area covers 115 square miles. The district gets some federal aid as about 35 per cent of the pupils are in the poverty bracket.

Granada School teacher Nancy Cook commented that on her trip south she found teaching Negro or white children in Mississippi exactly the same as teaching children in Marin. Bean said the visit from the northern teachers "put an added spark in the district."

The Mississippi educators plan to leave Marin today.

Mrs. King, Sun Cheer Up Resurrection City

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Buoyed by sunshine and a visit from the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King, residents of muddy Resurrection City organized new demonstrations today in support of their demands for government action to help the poor.

The plywood-and-canvas shantytown in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial was still a muddy bog. Fresh rains yesterday left three to four inches of slimy, yellowish mud around the main entrance.

But the indomitable spirit of the campaigners was reflected in a hand-lettered sign proclaiming: "This mud won't turn us around."

New demonstrations were planned at the Agriculture Department and on Capitol Hill. And a delegation of American Indians taking part in the Poor People's Campaign arranged a conference with officials of the Indian Claims Commission.

Mrs. Corretta King, widow of the slain civil rights leader, visited the camp during a thunderstorm yesterday and gave a big lift to the rain-dampened morale of the poverty campaigners.

Pausing as she strolled through Resurrection City to hug mud-splattered children, she said: "We have a great job to do. We have to save the nation."

Mrs. King also spoke briefly to campaigners in the camptown dining tent, concluding with a quotation from a speech by her husband: "Free at last, free at last, thank God almighty, I'm free at last."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, who has led most of the demonstrations to date, was hospitalized today with pneumonia and Hosea Williams, bearded militant who has led the Southern Christian Leadership Conference on many marches in the Deep South, took over as head of the direct action program.

District of Columbia health officials were worried that an epidemic of pneumonia might break out unless the campground —which has been soaked by rain 11 of the last 14 days — dries out soon.

GOP Policy Group Rips Reagan; RFK, McCarthy Debate Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ripon Society, a Republican research and policy group, fired a 16,000-word salvo at Gov. Ronald Reagan today rating him "unqualified for any national post requiring a high degree of administrative or diplomatic responsibility."

The charge was in an editorial accompanying a main report.

The principal document did not go into the politics but amounted to a scathing 24-page critique of Reagan's attitudes and performance in most areas of public affairs from his administration at home to his stand on the Vietnam war.

A Reagan spokesman commented on the report by saying "the governor has been attacked by extremist groups before and never pays any attention to them."

The paper described Ripon as an organization ordinarily oriented to issues rather than candidates, and pointed out it has said it would not endorse either former Vice President Richard M. Nixon nor Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination prior to the national convention.

Reagan is regarded as an undeclared aspirant for the GOP nomination.

The main paper quoted Reagan as indicating unfamiliarity with the status of major elements of his state legislative program.

It concludes Reagan sees himself as the "public man, the communicator of ideas, the man responsible for setting the basic thrust and direction of government, but he would rather forget the details of government."

The Ripon researchers viewed Reagan as given to simplistic approaches to problems in disregard of complex factors.

The paper criticized the governor for his stands on poverty programs, mental health service cuts and his alleged militant approach to problems of crime and civil unrest, rather than seeking solutions.

NIXON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon takes his fight for the Republican presidential nomination into the Deep South today on the eve of a weekend strategy huddle to plan what he calls "a brand new campaign."

The former vice presodent meets today in Atlanta, Ga., with the Republican chairmen from the Southern states.

The weekend session in Key Biscayne, Fla., is intended to present a new, less partisan image of Nixon in the hope of attracting Democratic and independent votes he feels are leaning his way.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller met with Southern leaders in New Orleans two weeks ago.

Nixon says he is confident he can carry much of the South in November if he is the Republican nominee.

"The fact I'm going to Georgia indicates I think we have a chance in Georgia," he said, although admitting that "Georgia is in doubt," he told newsmen in here yesterday.

But Nixon made it clear he had no intention of fighting for the presidency on a "hold the South" strategy. Some of his opponents have charged he would wage a conservative campaign that might possibly bring him Southern votes but would alienate many Northern voters.

He told well-wishers here that what most encouraged him after his 73 per cent victory in the Oregon Republican primary was Democrats saying to him: "We can't vote for you in this primary, but we'll be with you in November."

KENNEDY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he'll be there anyway, but he's still trying to needle Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey into joining his televised debate with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Thousands who greeted Kennedy on a whistle-stop tour of the San Joaquin Valley yesterday heard him read the telegram he had sent to Humphrey urging him to participate in tomorrow night's program.

Even when Kennedy learned that the man he regards as his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination was to be in Arkansas and Minnesota tomorrow, he insisted that all was not lost. Kennedy said modern electronics could bring Humphrey into the debate on a split screen from Arkansas or Minnesota.

Kennedy has revised his schedule in order to gain time to prepare for the American Broadcasting Co. panel show to be telecast from San Francisco for viewing at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Although Kennedy was more than an hour late on his seven-hour whistle-stop tour, thousands awaited him under a broiling sun in the valley.

McCARTHY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy is striving to increase his support among Negro voters in California's presidential primary, a race he calls "the important test" of his campaign for the Democratic nomination.

Despite that assessment of Tuesday's contest, McCarthy said yesterday he wasn't going to match Sen Robert F. Kennedy's indication that he would drop out of the presidential race if defeated here.

McCarthy campaigns today in San Diego, Burbank and Pasadena.

Whatever happens in California, the Minnesota senator said "we will carry our issues to the convention in Chicago and we will carry our issues beyond the convention."

Kennedy scored heavily among minority group voters in winning two earlier primaries, notably the one in Indiana on May 7.

McCarthy said, however, that he believes he has been gaining strength among Negro voters.

At a rally in the heavily Negro Watts section of Los Angeles, McCarthy defended Black Power, criticized the House of Representatives for excluding Adam Clayton Powell and said he had a 20-year record of support for civil rights and allied legislation.

WALLACE

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Former Gov. George Wallace announced yesterday he would resume his third party bid for the presidency next month with two campaign trips.

The first foray will be in the Northeast for three days, June 6-8, and the second in the South for 11 days beginning the following week.

Wallace's announcement came from Bill Jones, his campaign coordinator. It ended Wallace's silence on his plans since the death of his wife May 7.

Wallace will fly to Maine June 6 for speeches at Portland and Bangor, then travel to Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maryland in a bid to get on the November ballot in those states.

The southern campaign starts June 11 in Memphis with the first of $25-a-plate fund raising dinners and rallies in 11 cities scattered through eight states.

Transit Plans May Obtain Federal Aid

Exclusive bus lanes or unique uses of bus-ferry combinations, which are under consideration by the Marin Transit District, may qualify for federal funding, according to a letter from the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington.

The letter, from Deputy Director W. B. Hurd of HUD, will be presented at a meeting of the transit district board of directors Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

Hurd wrote that he had reviewed Marin Transit District's proposed work program for fiscal 1968-69 and "I agree with your statement that some of the elements of the program would, on the basis of the brief description furnished, qualify for federal funding."

"Projects, for example, which experiment with changes in service through the use of exclusive bus lanes or unique uses of bus-ferry combinations would be eligible under the research and demonstration program," said Hurd.

Frank L. Nageotte, president-elect of Western Greyhound Lines, will attend the meeting to present Greyhound's attitude on improved bus service in Marin. Transit district directors want to know if Greyhound has any interest in helping the district improve bus service.

Other items on the agenda include reports by General Mgr. Seymour Kashin on the feasibility of an intra-county feeder bus network and on immediate bus service improvement projects.

Kashin will also re-submit his proposed work program and budget for 1968-69.

Sanitary Merger On Corte Madera Agenda

A possible merger with the Ross Valley Sanitary District will be discussed by the Corte Madera Sanitary District board at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the district office.

The Town of Corte Madera wants the district merged with the town, but the local agency formation commission directed that the possibility of joining with the Ross Valley District be explored first.

Chaplain Denies Any Avoid Draft Pressure

BOSTON (AP)—Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr testified today that he had never counseled a young man to refuse to serve in the U.S. armed forces.

The 43-year-old university chaplain returned to the witness stand in his own behalf in U.S. District Court as the trial of himself and four codefendants, including Dr. Benjamin Spock, entered its ninth day.

All five are charged with conspiring to aid, abet and counsel young men to resist the draft.

Under examination by his lawyer, James St. Clair of Boston, Coffin said he never told young men to avoid the draft, but was always willing to lend his support to those, who in good conscience, had decided by themselves to resist it.

He said he took part in a draft card turn-in at the Justice Department last Oct. 20 with Dr. Spock and others to "force the government to prosecute us for apparent violation of Selective Service laws."

The incident is one of those the government has cited in its indictment against the five.

Coffin had to cancel a scheduled baccalaureate address today at Wellesley College to testify.

About 30 Wellesley coeds in academic garb came to the courthouse to express support for him, but were told by court officials they could not enter the courtroom clad in the caps and gowns. A few in regular garb entered the room, but most remained outside.

In earlier testimony Wednesday, Coffin told the all-male jury that he scarcely knew Spock at the time the two are charged with statring an antidraft conspiracy.

Coffin said he had "exchanged a few words" with the pediatrician at a 1965 rally of the Committee for Sane Nuclear Policy in New York.

Coffin said he did not see the 65-year-old Spock again until August 1967, when the government charges the conspiracy started. Coffin, 43, testified he had not met the other three codefendants at the time.

The five defendants are accused of conspiring to aid, abet and counsel youths to avoid the draft. Maximum penalty is a five-year prison term and $10,000 fine.

On trial with Coffin and Spock are Mitchell Goodman, 44, New York writer and teacher; Michael Ferber, 23, Harvard graduate student, and Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director.

Boundary Line Issue On Agenda

Belvedere City Council will receive a petition Monday from seven electors on San Rafael Avenue, asking that a boundary line be changed to exclude their property from Tiburon and place it in Belvedere.

The council meets at 8 p.m. in the community center.

Councilmen have expressed their desire to have the seven homes, at the city's entrance put officially inside the boundary line.

Residential Study

Applications from 11 Larkspur residents requesting permission to continue residential use of buildings in areas not zoned residential will be heard by the Larkspur Planning Commission at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Measure Of Legislator: The Laws He Produces

What makes a legislator effective?

Is his effectiveness based on the sonorous phrases he uses in public addresses, the trauma with which he views with alarm, the magnificence with which he points with pride? Or is it based on what he gets enacted into law?

The answer, of course, has to be the latter.

THERE ARE SOME who are prone to discount William T. Bagley, who has been assemblyman from Marin and southern Sonoma since 1960, because "Bill" refuses to assume the pomposity of the typical politician. He is usually bubbling with enthusiasm. He is quick with the quip and the laugh, but not much for orotund oratory or dire predictions.

But he gets things done.

During last year's legislative session, Bagley dropped 90 bills into the hopper.

But 54 of Bagley's bills were enacted into law.

That, according to the California Taxpayers Association's box score, put Bagley No. 1 among all assemblymen in the number of bills that became law.

Some of them were unimportant bills, such as most of the 14 he introduced at behest of the Marin County Board of Supervisors. But some were tremendously important.

AMONG THEM WAS the one now known as the Bagley Act which requires that meetings of all state agencies be open and public. This was a follow-up of earlier successful efforts by Bagley to plug loopholes in the Ralph M. Brown Act which had been used by local agencies to try to keep the public unaware of how its dollars were being spent. And Bagley followed it up this year with a public records bill which should mark another milestone for freedom of information in California.

Three of Bagley's measures that became law last year are designed to combat racial discrimination in apprenticeship training. Another created the California Marine and Coastal Resources Commission — a major conservation measure. Another to safeguard the public prohibits noncontractual conflict of interest by city and county officeholders.

This year, Bagley is pushing a bail reform bill, a set of compensatory education bills, a school intregration bill, among others.

THESE ARE MEASURES of substance and importance. And their wide range shows that Bagley is not riding a hobby horse for any one class or on any one subject.

BAGLEY'S JUNE 4 OPPONENT for the Republican nomination for Assembly is Charles Clayton Barham, an executive of Holiday Magic Cosmetics. Barham has criticized Bagley for alleged lack of party loyalty.

It is a sad thing for Americans when anybody puts loyalty to party above loyalty to his constituents as a whole. Bagley has quite rightly viewed himself as representing all the people of Marin and southern Sonoma — not just Republicans.

But when it comes to party loyalty, we note that Bill Bagley during his years in the Assembly has served in campaigns for Caspar Weinberger, Richard M. Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller, Barry Goldwater, George Murphy, George Christopher, Ronald Reagan, Robert E. Finch and Houston M. Flournoy. To the best of our recollection, they are all Republicans.

We think the choice for Republicans in the primary is clearly Bagley.

THE PRESS DEMOCRAT

The Redwood Empire's Leading Newspaper

For the first time since he became an Assemblyman in 1961, William T. Bagley faces opposition in the Republican primary.

The San Rafael assemblyman, who represents Marin County and the southern half of Sonoma County, is being challenged by Clay Barham, Holiday Magic executive, who accuses Mr. Bagley of not being a "real" Republican.

Looking at the record, the charge doesn't stand up though it is clear that Mr. Bagley has fought the ultra-right within his party consistently. And it is from the right that Mr. Barham is attacking.

Mr. Barham is supported by William Penn Patrick, his boss at Holiday Magic who ran against Ronald Reagan in the Republican gubernatorial race two years ago. And on his campaign committee there are also a number of members of the American Independence Party, headed by Gov. George Wallace.

And Mr. Barham has waged a lively and apparently well-financed campaign to unseat the four-term assemblyman who has little time to campaign.

"It seems to me more important to produce legislatively than to politic," Assemblyman Bagley said recently. "I have come back through the district as much as possible, but with the obvious limitation of being currently in session and of having a very heavy legislative program."

Mr. Bagley is chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, considered one of the key chairmanships in the Assembly. And again this year he is author of a number of major bills that require time and influence to pilot through the Legislature.

Called "Effective"

Last year Mr. Bagley was praised by the California Taxpayers Association as "one of the most effective legislators in either house." According to the Taxpayers Association he had more bills (54 out of 90) enacted into law and signed by Gov. Reagan than any other member of the Assembly.

His record within the Republican Party also is extensive. Instead of being a "local" politician he has tried to have an impact on state-wide affairs of the party, he said.

Last year, for example, he and Assemblyman John G. Veneman (R-Modesto) persuaded and filed the nomination papers of Houston I. Flournoy. "If he hadn't run I'm convinced that Alan Cranston would be controller today," Mr. Bagley said.

He helped finance both the Flournoy campaign and the campaign of Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch who garnered even more votes than did Gov. Reagan.

He also worked on the Reagan campaign, volunteering his services in the northern California headquarters where he served as liaison to the paid staff.

In addition he actively campaigned for Gov. Reagan in Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, Bakersfield, Salinas and San Jose following a Democratic team and answering their charges.

Aided Murphy

In 1964 he campaigned throughout the state for Sen. George Murphy and in 1962 he spent 2½ months campaigning with Richard Nixon as his legislative assistant in his drive for the governorship.

He also has campaigned for a number of Republicans attempting to get into the Legislatures in districts where they had a chance.

Mr. Bagley will turn 40 next month. He graduated from San Rafael High School in 1945 and from the University of California at Berkeley in 1949 Phi Beta Kappa. He is a graduate of the UC School of Law where he was on the Board of Editors of the California Law Review.

His family includes his wife, Diane, and children Lynn, William Jr., Walter and Shana.

Sausalito's Seven Seas Is A Local Mecca For Seafood

In a waterside community like Sausalito it is expected that at least one eating establishment will specialize in good seafood — and one does.

Seafood is the big menu attraction at the Seven Seas on the Bridgeway.

The place may appear to be mainly bar from the outside, but don't be fooled. There are tables aplenty and I haven't run across anyone yet who hasn't been satisfied with the fare.

One dish you should definitely try is the cannelloni. Crab cannelloni, that is, with a creamy filling of crab and cheese, from a recipe developed by Stella De Moss herself. Seven Seas' bouillabaise needs little introduction on this page. It is one of the favorites of regular diners, many of whom simply wave the menu aside and automatically tuck the napkin under their chins.

Lobster, crab, clams, oysters, whatever suits your mood, are there for the ordering, in various styles of servings but all carefully prepared.

It bears repeating that Paul and Della have installed radiant heating in the outside patio, making it comfortable for outing not complicated by rain. Try the special Sunday fizz brunch on the patio from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Sunday morning selections include an adventure omelet (with crab and shrimp), a three-egg Spanish omelet, shirred eggs with sausage, ham or chicken livers; eggs Benedict on ham and eggs regular styles with ham, bacon or sausage. All are $2.50, including the fizz. If you are a confirmed New York steak and eggs man, add another $1 to the tab.

If you go to the Seven Seas this weekend, you may notice a slight shift in the clientele — more visitors from out of town and a few less of the local crowd. They've left for out of town.

THERE IS A CHANGE of ownership at Herbert's Sherbet Shoppe at 810 Third Street, San Rafael. The Hills want to retire and they are selling out to Vincent Traina and his wife of Terra Linda. They take over the operation June 1 and have already been working there for the last few days to get used to the routine.

Traina, who has been in the real estate business, says there will be a name change also. He's calling the place Fanny's — after his mother-in-law.

Fountain service will be continued, but the menu will introduce a huge "hero sandwich" on French bread. Hours will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. through the week and Fanny's will probably also be open on Saturdays and Sundays. Grilled sandwiches may be added later but look for no dinners; it's strictly a lunch and snack house.

JOE SATTERFIELD, owner of Country Boy Restaurant in Bermuda Palms, San Rafael, has been doing so well with his "all you can eat" operation he's opening another one of the same caliber in Vallejo. It's on Sonoma Boulevard and should be ready next week.

IF YOU DON'T make it to Franchini's Chateau for Sunday brunch this weekend, make a memo to yourself to look in next Wednesday or Thursday night for dinner. It's then the Franchini's are celebrating their seventh anniversary at the Chateau. Champagne is being served with the evening meal. Roy says he would have made this a three-day affair, including Tuesday, but that's election day, so no champagne.

LUNCH SUGGESTION: A "pizza sandwich" at the Round Table Pizza at Fourth Street and Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael. Regular pizza ingredients, but on a soft French roll.

Otherwise, consider the hof brau sandwiches of ham, beef, corned beef, pastrami and so on. Open from noon daily.

VI LOOBY'S Drake Club in Fairfax, which has been getting some first rate entertainment recently, now has the Johnny Allair Trio Friday and Saturday nights, starting tonight. Johnny is a versatile pianist and organist; he's backed up by two excellent musicians, Peter Lind on drums and Tom Cook on the guitar.

JUST THINK of all that cozy restaurant space at La Petite Auberge in San Rafael going to waste at lunchtime.

However, it doesn't always. Groups often hold a mid-day party here and take over the entire place. If you belong to an organization that can muster 45 or more for lunch, check this out. Actually La Petite will hold double that number comfortably.

DICK SALTZMAN and Walt Ulner, who opened this month at Tiburon Lodge with Thursday, Friday and Saturday night entertainment, are celebrating their fourth year of playing together this weekend. Actually they've known each other 20 years or more, but it was a long time before they joined forces as a team.

Dick holds that the acoustics at Tiburon Lodge are just right for their type of music.

IN SAN FRANCISCO: Comedian George Carlin and vocalist Dana Valery opened last night at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant for a 10-day engagement. Carlin is offering his famous one-man "broadcast," in which he assumes the voices and mannerisms of several "local radio station personalities" . . . An Arthur discotheque is coming to the Cannery on Leavenworth Street this summer, joining six other food or night life spots: El Sombrero, the Ben Johnson pub and dining room, Old Brittany, Blupoint Cafe, Shang Yuen Restaurant and Crivello's Oyster Bar . . . Alan Gin is still beating our dance tunes at the Kuo Wah Restaurant in Chinatown. He is known as the "Chinese Frank Sinatra." There are dancing and singing from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. every night but Sunday (no cover and no minimum) and lunch and dinner every day of the week.

OPEN AGAIN after a week of remodeling is Rubini's dinery in Farifax. During the month of June, Les Balmaine, former Rubini's waiter, has a return show of his paintings on the walls of lounge and dining room.

ENTERTAINMENT at the Ark in Sausalito tonight and tomorrow night from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. is shared by the Cleveland Wrecking Co. and the Santana Blues Band. Breakfast show from 2 to 6 a.m. features the Morning Glory and the Phoenix.

Also there's a light show both tonight and tomorrow night by Ben Van Meter. Tomorrow night's show will be emceed by Buddha from KMPX.

Youth Wounds Ex-President

BEIRUT (UPI) — Former President Camille Chamoun, who called in U.S. Marines during the Lebanese civil war in 1958, was shot and wounded today by a young assailant.

The 68-year-old politician's condition was described as "not serious."

Chamoun was just entering the headquarters of his right-wing National Liberal Party when a young man ran up to him and fired two shots into his face and right arm with a pistol at close range.

The would-be assassin was seized by party officials and turned over to police.

Chamoun, who always wears a bullet-proof vest, was president of Lebanon from 1952 to 1958.

Casals Given Two Ovations

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Pablo Casals won two standing ovations when he presided at the opening night of the 13th annual Casals Music Festival.

The 92-year-old self-exiled Spanish cellist directed the third and final number of a program last night that featured the works of Mozart.

On the podium he rose from the conductor's stool and impatiently stamped his foot at the slightest hesitation by any member of the 75-piece festival orchestra.

He was greeted with a standing ovation before he began and again when the number was over. The festival continues through June 12.

Speech Therapy Camp To Help Stuttering Boys

A six-week speech therapy day camp for school-age boys who stutter will be held this summer under the sponsorship of the Marin County Easter Seal Society.

The program, financed by the William Babcock Memorial Endowment, the Easter Seal Society and fees paid by parents, will combine intensive group speech therapy with related recreational and educational activities, according to Dr. James Donovan, Easter Seal Society director.

There is no similar program of group speech therapy for stutterers in the Bay Area, according to Dr. Donovan.

The camp will operate on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from June 18 through July 25 from the Easter Seal office, 555 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

Referral of eligible youngsters, age 7 or over, may be made by speech therapists, physicians or schools. A limited number of scholarships from the Easter Seal campership appeal will also be available, Dr. Donovan said.

Trustees Slate Budget Session

Fairfax School District Board, meeting at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in the district office, will consider a budget recommendation by Supt. H. Reginald Hammond for fiscal 1968-69.

The trustees will also consider amending their transportation contract for the next fiscal year to provide bus service for students living near the top of Bolinas Road. They will be asked to apply for state funds to hire reading specialists.

On Thursday, the board is expected to attend, informally, a meeting between Hammond and parents of the district, who will discuss a proposed family life education curriculum, which includes educational television station KQED's "Time of Your Life" series. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Manor School.

Kiwanis Club Rodeo Slated Sunday In Fairfax

DON'T GIVE ME ANY TROUBLE — Life for a rodeo clown isn't always funny. It can be downright dangerous — when it comes to distracting the bull from downed cowboys. Rodeo clown Tom Kelly will be doing this — and entertaining, too — at the Circle V Ranch on Sunday.

Four rodeo champions will headline the action at the San Rafael Kiwanis Club Rodeo Sunday at the Circle V Ranch in Fairfax.

Scheduled to compete for prize money are: Les Vogt of Clovis, two-time champion bareback rider; Bill Haynes of Oakdale, two-time bull rider champion; Johnny Clements of Chowchilla, champion saddle bronc rider and Bucky McCullar, three-time calf roping champion.

Also starring will be rodeo clown and bull fighter, Tom Kelly of Bakersfield, according to William T. Eckhoff, Kiwanis club president, and Wilford P. Duhamel, rodeo chairman.

Vogt won the state bareback championship in 1965 and 1967, as well as the Northern California championship for 1967. At 25, he has been competing since he was 13, and in intercollegiate events while a student at California Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

Haynes is 1967 defending champion bull rider, a title won also in 1965 when he was awarded all-around champion. He has placed in bareback riding also.

Clements, 1967 saddle bronc title holder, has rated high in both bull and bareback riding. He will also compete in Fairfax in the bulldogging event.

McCullar, who suffered severe burn injuries in 1957 and was told he would never "rodeo" again, was California state champion calf roper in 1962, 1964 and 1965, taking second place in 1964 and 1966.

Kelly, a student of the late bull-fighter, Joaquin Sanchez, began his career at California Polytechnic College as a bareback bull rider.

Bronco busters, wranglers and other cowboy specialists from many parts of the country are expected to participate in the numerous events scheduled.

HOLD TIGHT — A bronc rider's life is a bumpy one. On and off. Bareback horse riders like this will provide plenty of excitement and thrills at the Kiwanis Club rodeo Sunday in Fairfax.

New Heart Patient In Canada, Argentina

COMBINED AP & UPI

A 59-year Canadian butcher and a 47-year-old Argentinian businessman received hearts from two stroke victims today, becoming the first transplant recipients in their countries.

The new operations brought the number of heart grafts to 19. Eight of the patients are alive.

Twenty-one surgeons at the Montreal Heart Institute placed the heart of Mrs. Gerard Rondeau, a 38-year-old mother of four, into the chest of Albert Murphy, who had suffered three strokes since 1959.

Dr. Paul David, the institute's director, said the heart was beating at a "satisfying rhythm" and that he was optimistic for the success of the operation performed by Dr. Pierre Grondin, the institute's chief surgeon.

Mrs. Rondeau's kidneys were also removed for use in a possible transplant later today, a hospital spokesman said.

In Buenos Aires, about 50 physicians participated in transplanting the heart of Emilio Tomasetti, 54, a union official, who died of a stroke three hours before the graft, into Antonio Enrique Serrano.

Dr. Miguel Bellizzi, 42, headed the team at Clinica Modelo, a small private hospital on the city's outskirts. He had studied in the United States.

The physician told the patient's 21-year-old son, Hugo, that "all is going well for the moment."

Meanwhile the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, Philip Blaigerg, was back home today after a week-long series of tests at Groote Schurr Hospital in Cape Town, South Africa.

Blaiberg, who received his new heart in January and has recovered steadily since, was discharged from the hospital yesterday. Hospital officials said the tests had been scheduled for some time and did not signify any change in Blaiberg's condition.

Gehrig's Widow Saved From Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of the New York Yankee's Hall of Famer, today was found unconscious on the floor of her smoke-filled apartment bedroom.

Two firemen crawled down a 100-foot hallway filled with smoke to rescue the 64-year-old Mrs. Gehrig. The firemen carried her to the floor below and revived her with mouth-to-mouth resusitation and a mechanical inhalator.

After regaining consciousness, Mrs. Gehrig was rushed to Bellevue Hospital were she was reported in serious condition.

The fire in Mrs. Gehrig's eighth floor apartment at 211 E. 53rd Street appparently started in a mattress, officials said.

Biafra-Nigeria Peace Parley Collapses

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—Peace talks between Nigeria and Biafra have collapsed and Biafran delegates will return to their war-torn homeland, delegation leader Sir Louis Mbanefo announced today.

The breakdown in the talks came eight days after they began and only one day after breakaway Biafra celebrated the first anniversary of its secession from the Nigerian Federation.

Wife Complains Of Knife-Throwing

Sheriff's deputies yesterday evening jailed John Kanananaul of 905 Drake Avenue, Marin City, for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon after his common-law wife, Diane Daisie Ahrendt, complained he had thrown a knife at her during an argument.

Kanananaul was held on $2,500 bail and was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Lower Voting Age Ballot Drive Gains

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Peace and Freedom party has reached the halfway point in its drive to place an item on the November ballot which would lower the voting age in California to 18.

A spokesman for the party said yesterday that a Memorial Day drive brought the number of petition signers to more than 300,000. The deadline is June 17 with 520,000 required to place the item on the ballot.

Coed Trades In Station Wagon Life For Dorm

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Cherie Gordon's four-wheel bedroom has been beached and now she's living in a domitory just like any other Sacramento State College coed.

The shapely 21-year-old physical education major drew nationwide attention after newsmen learned she was sacking out in a sleeping bag on the floor of her station wagon, "The Old Green Goose," to save money.

The chairman of the women's physical education department was not enthusiastic, however, and wrote Cherie a memo strongly hinting the faculty might not approve her teaching credentials unless she changed her ways.

Cherie says that even before the memorandum arrived she had given up sleeping in the station wagon and moved into the dorm.

Fairfax To Talk Of Rec Hiring

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the pavillion, will consider recruitment of a new city recreation director.

Ronald C. Samet, the city's part time director, will resign in the fall. He has recommended a new director's position based on three-fourths time at a salary of $3,600.

The commission is also to consider a site plan for improvements to Andy Peri Park.

Threat Of Violence Hangs Over Commencements

A miasma hangs over American college campuses as the time for Commencement approaches.

In the light of recent happenings, one wonders whether the parades of graduates may be disrupted by bearded hordes demanding that the college president vacate his place on the platform, or Black Power advocates protesting because the Commencement speaker is a Caucasian.

It would not be surprising. Such a threat has already been voiced at San Francisco State College. And if they should do so, it would probably follow that the Commencement would be called off in deference to the protestors, and that the students who strove, studied and sometimes skimped toward this day would have to receive their diplomas by mail. For one must not antagonize the minorities!

THE PRESIDENT of San Francisco State College flees to Africa to escape a campus torn by riots that followed his earlier yielding to the demands of a handful of students and faculty members.

Two great private institutions, Stanford on the West Coast and Columbia on the East, became scenes of violence in which a few students, augmented by hoodlums off the streets, seize college buildings, defy authority — and win their demands.

At campus after campus across the nation, the pattern is repeated. It has become almost a ritual: the dissidents make impossible demands, then riot when they are not met. Yielding to violence and threats, the college authorities grant part of the demands. The regents or trustees adopt tough-sounding statements of policy. The violence is renewed, with more demands. The statements of policy are forgotten, mere meaningless scraps of paper. Again the authorities yield. While the school is laid waste, they prate of "dialogue."

Over-educated fools among the faculty join the student demonstrators. When they are disciplined for it, they cry "academic freedom!" And their sycophants among the student body riot anew in their behalf. All order vanishes. Anarchy takes over what should be the halls of discipline.

THE TROUBLE-MAKING groups on campus operate under different names at different schools. But the organizing effort behind the nationwide college anarchy has been well established as that of the Students for a Democratic Society.

The name of this organization has as little to do with its aims and tactics as does academic freedom with the nonsense of the perpetual juveniles on faculty who support the rioters. What the SDS really is was shown quite clearly at Columbia.

There, a huge portrait of Karl Marx bedecked the entrance of a classroom building. A red flag flew from the roof. Scrawled on walls was the slogan: "Lenin won, Castro won, and we will win, too."

It is no idle boast. They are winning. So far, they have won just about every round. The utter helplessness of the men supposed to run our colleges has been appalling.

What they win, of course, is another matter. Certainly it will not be freedom — any more than it was for the Russian workers who blindly followed Lenin.

A Widower Quail Carries On

One of Nature's small dramas was unfolded in Kentfield last week when a father quail appeared in our garden shepherding and calling signals for a covey of powderpuff baby quail. His lady was nowhere in sight and it seemed a bit unusual but we thought probably she was still nesting a few unhatched eggs.

Male quail are good fathers. They lead the covey, scout for danger, and tell the young what to do in a practically running conversation. The female follows the lead of the male.

A neighbor told us he saw the female dead by the side of the road. He said that when the male saw him, it tried to draw his attention by its broken wing trick. And running along under the wing were the tiny babies.

It's a tough job for a widower to raise children alone —but father quail is up to it.

Air Transport Of Fresh Produce May Doom Refrigerator Car

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — One of the outstanding examples of a changing world is the spectacular growth in air shipment of California fruits and vegetables, to markets not only in the eastern United States but also in foreign countries.

The growth is reported by Max K. Johnson, chief of the California Department of Agri-Agriculture's bureau of market news.

It was more than half a century ago that California began culture's bureau of market vegetables to eastern markets, and until the past few years, there has been little change in the modus operandi.

The innovation of the iced railroad car made fresh fruit and vegetable shipment possible, and the Pacifc Fruit Express had special cars constructed to handle the crop. The cars were iced with big chunks of the cold stuff hauled down from storage warehouses in the Sierra, and much of the ice was hand sawn out of frozen lakes during the winter.

Modern refrigeration changed this pattern, and faster freights speeded up the transportation time between field and consumer, but it still takes nearly a week for California's fruits and vegetables to reach the eastern consumer via fast freight.

Via air freight, however, is a different story. The huge airplanes especially constructed for freight hauling can deliver produce to the eastern markets before the freight train is well over the Sierra Nevada.

Just as passenger planes have virtually eliminated the crack transcontinental trains on major railroads, so the air cargo plane is on its way toward eventual elimination of the refrigerated freight train, according to statistics from the bureau of market news.

In 1950, about 100 carlot equivalents of fruits and vegetables were flown east. In 1967, this increased 22 times, with 2,200 carlot equivalents being flown to market. And this year, the department expects 3,000 to have been shipped by air when the season closes.

In addition, the markets for California fresh fruit and vegetables are being increased by the air shipments. Last year, a few carloads went to England, Germany, Italy, France, and other European points. This year, it is expected the total will increase.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Parents Endorse Mill Valley School

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Almost two years ago our two sons transferred to Mill Valley's Alto School from a very good school in Englewood, N.J., and our whole family are Alto fans. Although our boys are bused across town to Alto, we all are happy with the caliber of instruction, the spirit of the student body, and the method of reporting. The one thing we miss about Englewood is the more heterogeneous student body there, and now our superintendent is planning to bring in some big city children (using federal and foundation funds).

Conferences with parents and teachers, combined with students' self-evaluations annotated by teachers, strike us as the most accurate and helpful way to keep tabs on actual progress and to pinpoint areas of needed individual improvement. As a publisher of college books, including a series in education and psychology, I will testify that Alto's reporting method is in harmony with the latest theory and practice. My wife, an elementary school teacher in San Francisco who did graduate work at the Bank Street College of Education, agrees. . . .

Free-style Splash At Sports Scribe

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It would seem to me to be rather inconsistent for sports editor Jim Gilmartin to express himself in any form on the county age group swimming. Apparently his interest in its news items has always been a "leave it out — it's only local" policy, rather than a "thank you — I'm interested."

The I-J even co-sponsors a large, well-run, quality swim meet every year he does not attend. As a point of interest, does he even know the names of the teams in the county or for that matter who the coaches are he tlks about? . . .

Subdivision Fees Don't Cover Costs

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Many thanks to Bryce Anderson for his informative piece describing the wide variations in filing fees for subdivision maps.

In a rapidly growing area like Marin, proper administration and supervision of subdivisions is vital if we are to have good development and protect our fragile environment. I am aware that some developers resent all constraints, but there are others who feel that good controls on development have long-run values for them.

The staff work involved in subdivisions includes administrative and processing time, conferences with the subdivider, detailed engineering and field inspection. The time requirements vary with the size of the subdivision. . . .

In San Anselmo, the city engineer informs me that the fees come nowhere near covering the city's costs for processing, inspection and engineering. The difference, of course, has to come out of general funds — another burden for the overloaded taxpayer. By contrast, the fees charged by the county, as described in Mr. Anderson's article, look more realistic.

I have referred the article to our mayor and city engineer with the suggestion that an upward revision of San Anselmo's fees be considered.

Alvarez Family Thankful For Aid

Editor, Independent-Journal:

My family and I would like to thank you for your kind rememberances.

It is through the help of people like you that I am strengthened to meet every step in my daily life. One of the greatest factors in my holding on and in the improvement that I have made, is due to the wonderful knowledge that I am not alone in this fight. Truly this has been an important factor in the progress I have made.

We all are so grateful to you and to the many people who have contacted us through reading your article in the paper. I am especially grateful and I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Amendments Wreck Bill For Handicapped

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The hope of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cronin that the educational needs of their son Brian will be assured by passage of SB 95, as reported in Mary Leydecker's excellent article (May 20), will be frustrated if this bill passes in its present form.

Mrs. Cronin should be advised, as should Sen. John F. McCarthy, that SB 95 has been recently amended by administration supporters to limit the state program for educationally handicapped minors to 15 per cent increased funding per year and to reduce payments to school districts operating classes under the program. . . . The educationally handicapped program desperately neds more funding, not less.

However, SB 1206, sponsored by Senator Harmer, would effectively destroy the program — and the futures of those children who must have such specialized education. . . .

SB 95 has been temporarily tabled by the special committee on educational finance. . . . If its limiting amendments are not removed, the existing educationally handicapped program — and the future of Brian Cronin — will not only be crippled, but thousands of children will be denied their opportunity to be served by even the minimal programs now available.

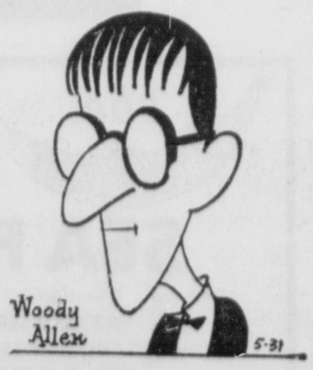
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

That very funny fellow, Woody Allen, offers a devastating parody of the prize-winning movie, "Bonnie and Clyde." At the point where Bonnie reads the ode she's written to immortalize the Barrow Gang's exploits, Clyde's semi-literate brother Buck gasps admiringly, "Know what you've done, girl? You've managed to combine the intellectual disillusionment of T. S. Eliot with the ambiguous symbolism of Baudelaire — and still come up with a poem that absolutely stinks!"



Roger Allen, to prove his assertion that there's nothing in the world like a cute six-year-old daughter to greet a father after a hard day at the office, tells of one such lass who threw her arms adoringly around her homecoming pater's neck, and cried happily, "Guess who threw up at school today?"

MARQUIS CHILDS

Nixon, Kennedy, McCarthy All Leave Out 'How' Of Black Aid

WASHINGTON — In his long glide toward the presidential nomination, Richard M. Nixon qualifies among all the candidates of both parties as No. 1 in the homogenize scale. His campaign rhetoric is successfully tailored to incorporate the fears and frustrations of the moment with the gentle hint that the magic of the Nixon touch can bring unity at home and peace abroad.

The broad generalities he utters often coincide with what so desperately needs to be done. This is true in his approach to the problem of Negro employment and Negro opportunities in the core cities.

It's no longer enough, Nixon said in the first of a series of radio talks, that white-owned enterprises employ greater numbers of Negroes. That is needed, yes, but with it must go an expansion of "black capitalism," black ownership, black employers, black businesses. This declaration drew for Nixon approval from militant Negro leaders where he is weakest.

IN THE SAME address he ruled out as a "cruel delusion" talk of massively increasing the federal budget to pour additional billions into the cities. He had publicly called for a spending cut of $8 billion as against the $6 billion that President Johnson insists will wreck his programs for rehabilation of the ghettos.

Nixon did not say how black capitalism was to be achieved. Those with expert knowledge believe that this simply cannot come about without massive participation by the federal government.

In appearing before the president's riots commission, Barkeley G. Burrell, a successfull Negro businessman in Washington and president of the National Business League, testified that "only the federal government" could initiate the essential financial support and cooperation.

The Small Business Administration makes a contribution, however minor. SBA says that $60,000,000 will go this year in 2,000 loans to minority citizens. These tend under the restrictive terms proposed by Congress to be fairly hard loans with repayment beginning early in the term of the loan. They are not, as Burrell notes, the kind of equity capital he pleaded for in his statement to the riots commission.

ALL THE EVIDENCE indicates that private capital is very reluctant to invest in the core cities. The risks are too great and the returns too small. The insurance companies' pooled fund of $1 billion is geared by tradition to a mortgage operation. Black enterprisers say these massive investors with their huge resources are simply not equipped to oversee a small-loan operation required to initiate black-owned businesses.

Fundamental problems such as government re-insurance for ghetto business are unresolved. In Watts in Los Angeles, where in 1965 the fire struck first, in Detroit, and in Newark reconstruction has scarcely begun. Washington's Fourteenth Street, where rioters in early April hit hardest, is one long facade of empty, boarded-up store fronts.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, in his position paper on bringing business to the ghettos, offered a number of spcific proposals. He would provide long-term credit through a "new fund" starting with $400 million a year. Yet his principal reliance, too, is on private enterprise given tax and other incentives by the Federal government.

Eugene MCarthy, Kennedy's rival in California, is most consistent in saying that only massive help from the federal government can stop the decay and possibly avert another outbreak of violence. But he does not say, nor do any of the candidates, how the money is to be found. And that "how" looms large as Congress votes on the size of the cut in the budget as the price of a tax increase.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Central Bankers Give U.S. July 1 Deadline On Dollar

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Put a big circle around July 1 on your calendar — for it is one of the most important deadlines now facing President Johnson and Congress.

That's the date that the central bankers of Europe have given President Johnson to obtain passage of his 10 per cent surcharge tax.

If the long-delayed tax boost isn't enacted into law by then, these powerful international money men say they will be forced to start "cashing in" part of their $16 billion American for U.S. gold.

This drastic financial move, if ever undertaken, could touch off a run on the dwindling U.S. gold reserves by private foreign holders of another $15 billion.

President Johnson gave this report to Democratic congressional leaders during a recent White House meeting at which he urged immediate action on the combination $10 billion tax boost and $6 billion expenditure cut package.

THE KENNEDY CAMPAIGN — Sen. Robert Kennedy is having a rough sledding in his efforts to nail down control of delegations from his native New England to the Democratic National Convention.

Of the 125 delegates already chosen in Massachusetts, Maine, and New Hampshire, the New York senator can count on only 6½ first-ballot votes for his presidential candidacy at Chicago.

By this time in 1960, the late President Kennedy, then a senator from Massachusetts, had more than 120 first-ballot votes lined up in what is generally known as Kennedy country.

His Washington campaign office has sent Robert Kenney a report showing Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Kennedy's primary sparring partner, had 93 first-ballot votes before the Oregon primary, and Vice President Hubert Humphrey, 19½. In addition, Humphrey will soon inherit six votes from President Johnson in New Hampshire.

Although it is being widely speculated that Kennedy will control most of New York's 190 delegate votes, Kennedy's own private tally indicates Vice President Humphrey may wind up with as many as 60.

According to both the Kennedy and Humphrey soundings, each of the three Democratic hopefuls will get a share of delegates in Connecticut and Rhode Island, with the delegations being officially unpledged.

The 72 Massachusetts votes already are in the McCarthy column as a result of the senator's victory in the April 30 presidential primary as the only Democratic aspirant listed. Under the Massachusetts primary law delegates are committed to vote for the primary winner on the first convention ballot.

Although most of these delegates would be expected to switch to Kennedy on the second ballot, Humphrey's strong write-in vote in that state could influence these switches.

Bolinas Channel To Be Dredged Despite Row With Supervisors

The Bolinas Harbor District's days may be numbered, to judge from the county supervisors' action Tuesday, but meantime the district is going ahead with its extensive study and work programs.

One proposed project, the dredging of Bolinas Channel in the lagoon, may be a necessity if there is to be a lagoon at all.

There seems to be a great gnashing of teeth when anyone metions dredging the lagoon. Residents are evidently still leery of the marina-boatel development plan the harbor district came up with two years ago.

The development plan undoubtedly loomed large in the board of supervisors' vote to end the district's life and take over zoning and development jurisdiction. (A bill by State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R. Marin, to extend the district's life was reported out of committee the following day.)

But the current dredging project is a necessity, according to Norman T. Gilroy, the district's planning consultant. Here is his case for the proposed dredging, which he terms an emergency matter:

HEAVY RAINS in the winter of 1966-67 brought extra tons of silt into Bolinas Lagoon. In addition, mudslides blocked Shoreline Highway, and county road crews cleared some of them by pushing the mud into the lagoon, adding to the sediment problem.

Some channels in the lagoon silted up to the point of no return — that is, mud "lenses" formed so water coming down later simply fans out and trickles slowly seaward instead of moving fast enough to scour its own channel.

Bolinas Channel, which runs between Kent Island and the village of Bolinas, was particularly damaged. Boats now have trouble getting through several parts of the channel.

There are other dangers. With the channel silted up, tidal flow is cut down and there is less oxygentation of the water. This could damage the biological balance of the lagoon.

THEN THERE IS the Bolinas sewer system, which dumps sewage from an outfall line near the lagoon mouth. Normally this disperses in the ocean and the lagoon without causing problems. But with Bolinas Channel slowed up, the sewage may become trapped in ponds at low tide.

The district says dredging must be done before the channel is beyond reclaiming — which means this years. The district luckily got an offer from a firm with a new type of dredge which will do the work as a demonstration project, at a cost roughtly a fourth of the usual dredging rates.

BOLINAS LOST another main channel some 25 years ago in the same way Bolinas Channel is threatened. Aerial photos show a large channel existed until 1939 across the center of Kent Island. It began silting up between 1939 and 1942, and by 1946 it had disappeared entirely, to the detriment of water ciruclation in the lagoon.

Bolinas Channel is "a fundamental part of the circulation system, and to lose it would be catastrophic in terms of preservation of the lagoon," Gilroy warns.

There is concern over conservation of wildlife in the lagoon. The district board was assured last winter by ecologist Joel F. Gustafson that the channel dredging would not disrupt the lagoon's balance of plant and animal life. Whether that will convince other conservationists remains to be seen.

Professor Gustafson also warned last year that the lagoon was a classic case of the final stages of sedimentation. What has happened to Bolinas Channel, if not undone, might speed up those final stages — and then it won't matter whether the harbor board of the supervisors is in charge of what's left.

Earnest Youth Ponder Problem Of Little-Disciplined Parents

WASHINGTON — A panel of distinguished students met at Wavering Univers[illegible] last week to discuss the pressing topic of the day: "What is wrong with our parents?"

Cal Holden, class of '70, said the restlessness and unhappiness attributed to most parents these days could be blamed on the fact that students have been too permissive with their parents.

"We haven't stood up to them," he said. "We let them buy us cars and clothes and pay tuition and give us vacations, and the more we let them do for us, the more surly and unmanageable they become."

MARY BETH LOU, '71, agreed. "When you spare the rod, you spoil the mother. I find parents are so much happier when you tell them what you want to do, instead of asking them what they want to do. Parents are like children. They need discipline. I have a great relationship with my parents only because when my father and mother get out of line I let them know it."

Dick Duncan, '69, said: "It seems to me that parents have too much money to spend. Everything's too easy for them. They have no real values. I think you would have to blame the economy for this. Advertisers are constantly appealing to parents. Because of their purchasing power, parents are made to think they're important, and they get an inflated opinion of themselves.

SHERRY CERF, '72, was one of the few to dissent with the panel.

"I think we're doing too much generalizing about parents. The minority of activist parents give the majority of parents a bad name. I think you'll find the average parent reasonable and interested in most things. Oh, they have kooky ideas about pot and sex, but when it gets to serious matters I find them level-headed."

Larry Massee, '70, said: "It seems to me the inability to get through to parents is a communications gap and students are to blame. We never ask where parents are going or what time they're coming back. When they try to tell their problems, we ignore them and pretend they're inconsequential. But their problems, no matter how minor they seem to us, are important to them. Most students spend so much time demonstrating and defying the college administrations that they don't have any time to devote to their own mothers and fathers."

"Larry's right," Esther Bird, '72, declared. "And I have a good illustration to prove it. The other night my father told me his business was bankrupt and he would have to go on relief. Now that didn't seem important to me, but for some reason it seemed important to him. So I listened to his problem, and he felt so much better afterward because I showed an interest. It's little things like this that build bridges between students and their bewildered parents."

Herb Sargent, '68, added: "I think we have to face up to the fact, whether we like it or not, that parents will be the biggest problem of the next generation. I suggest that we set up a study group to find out, first, how deep parent discontent is; second, what remedies can be taken to keep this discontent from getting out of hand, and third, we should suggest ways of channeling adult activism into socially acceptable patterns."

The proposal was adopted unanimously and the Ford Foundation agreed to underwrite it.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Death Of Charles Marcus Is Loss Of A Loyal, Good Man

Fusselman

I first heard it over the radio on Monday and then found the story that evening in the paper. Charles Marcus, my long loyal friend had gone over the horizon and will not be around anymore.

We met just a short time after he came here, almost 40 years ago. Although I was 11 years older than Charlie we were always contemporaries.

He was uniquely different — always there to perform the unglorious jobs with a quiet gentle manner of one who loved his fellow man and took great joy in being able to serve. The long list of organizations given in the I-J was prime evidence of this friend of mine's capacity for doing good.

HE WENT WITH me on many of my trips to Sacramento and elsewhere. We would talk of things close to a man's heart without the hestitation often felt about letting one's hair down.

Up until a few years ago he would often telephone and come down to talk something over that he thought would be good to bring about. Invariably, I would be awed by the genuine goodness of this friend of mine.

He had a great admiration for his father-in-law, Jacob Albert, one of Marin's all time greats. He had the affection for him of a son for a father.

His wife, Alice, and son Warren have every reason to always be proud of the fine man who was theirs. They just don't make many like him, I tell you, Charlie, we will miss you a lot.

THE THIRD paragraph from the last in the column on the Friday just past reads, "Furthermore if the assessed values should drop 4 per cent, the rate would just have to be raised, unless there is a sizeable reduction in the budget." It should have read, ". . . to 4 per cent . . ."

Those two little letters "t" and "o" make a considerable difference.

After the election is over next week, this present board, which will continue until the end of the year, will have its work cut out for it. It will take something more than campaign oratory, more than the arrogant dust-flicking mannerisms usually indulged in by one element of the board.

The board members will have to quit talking about tax rate and apply themselves to the dollar cost of budget. Last Tuesday's presentation by hungry people and the appeal for food for children should have shocked them out of their dream world of grandeur to a realization of the gravity of their position, of having permitted themselves to be painted into a corner.

WHEN ONE READS of their concentration of debate on small segements of the overall problem, it is to shudder over what the future holds for the taxpayer, if there isn't a halt to this grandeur kick.

Cambodia Rejects U.S. Note On Captive GIs

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian government rejected today an American protest against imprisonment of two U.S. soldiers captured aboard a Philippine tugboat in the Mekong Delta May 20.

A Cambodian note to the Australian Embassy here said Washington's demand for release of the two military policemen was "unacceptable."

The note said the two men would be charged with illegal armed entry in accordance with Cambodian laws.

It made no reference to an offer in a government newspaper by Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, to release the two men, Jerry A. Tester and Ronald J. Lehrmann of the 560th Military Police Company, in return for two bulldozers "to be used for Cambodian agricultural development." In Washington the State Department said the offer wasn't official.

Cambodia has no relations with the United States, which is represented here by Australia.

On Saturday, the Australian Embassy passed on to the Cambodian government an American protest claiming that the two men's entry into Cambodian waters was due to "a navigational error."

The Cambodian note said the ship "passed a clearly visible Cambodian border post on the riverbank and ignored signals ordering it to turn back."

The tug was chartered by the U.S. Command in South Vietnam for hauling barges in the delta.

In Boone, N.C., Mrs. Albert L. Tester, mother of one of the soldiers, said she was determined to pursue the bulldozer idea.

"If the government won't trade a bulldozer for him," she said, "I'll borrow the money, buy one and make the swap myself."

Desert Booster Pair Sentenced

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A Munich court has imposed suspended one-month jail sentences on two Americans—a physicist and a coed—after finding them guilty of trying to incite U.S. soldiers to desert.

Court officials said the two were Kenneth Knudson, 27, a physicist working in Geneva, and Cathleen Schaubelt, 20, of Western Springs, Ill. Both appealed their sentences.

Miss Schaubelt, a student at Loyola University in Chicago, was said to be in Europe for a vacation.

Knudson and Miss Schaubelt were accused of distributing leaflets outside a barracks in Munich giving GIs advice on how to desert.

LBJ Serves Guests 'Light' Mexican Lunch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson served what he called a "light lunch" to visiting Prime Minister and Mrs. John G. Gorton and ranch guests yesterday.

The Mexican-style midday meal included enchaladas, tacos, beans, tamales, chile conqueso, guacamole salad, strawberries with whipped cream and cookies.

Coast Kennels Permit To Get Another Hearing

An application to build breeding kennels near Muir Beach will get another hearing before Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center.

J. Lou Kessler wants to build breeding kennels for 50 dogs on a 20-acre parcel of land on the south side of Frank Valley Road, about three-fourths of a mile west of Shoreline Highway.

The request for a use permit for the kennels was heard May 13, and Cordill ruled that the area was not suited for kennels.

Cordill later learned that Kessler did not attend that hearing because the official notice for the hearing gave the wrong date. The zoning administrator set aside his decision and set another hearing for next Monday.

Eight other items will be heard by the zoning administrator during Monday's all-day hearing. All eight are requests for variances, most of them involving construction that encroach on setback requirements.

Sonoma Art Display

Art work by graduating seniors of Sonoma State College is now on exhibit in the foyer gallery and art department wing of Darwin Hall on the Rohnert Park campus. The exhibit of oils, prints, acrylics, sculpture and ceramics will continue through July 5.

Marin Churchmen Explore Racial Tension Answers

Possble action programs to ease racial tensions in Marin County were discussed by Marin County clergymen and church laymen at a meeting at the civic center Wednesday night.

The meeting, sponsored by the Marin County Human Rights Commission, was called by Rev. Francis Geddes, a member of the commission, to "mobilize the religious community to meet this (racial) crisis."

Reverend Geddes named Rev. John J. O'Connor of the Catholic Social Service Agency as chairman of an ad hoc steering and planning committee to formulate actions programs.

The assembled group of 25 religious leaders discussed various methods of alerting the religious community to the nature of the racial crisis and to the changes needed to end it, Reverend Geddes said. The problems of white racism and the need for cooperation across denominational lines were also discussed, he said.

The group also called for an endorsement by the religious community of the findings of the Kerner Committee, he noted.

Austin J. Thompson, executive director of the human rights commission, spoke to the group on the existing employment, housing and law enforcement situation in Marin County, Reverend Geddes reported.

Thompson told the group that the county needs a centralized headquarters for employment and job training programs, Reverend Geddes said.

Baar Says Storer Lacks Leadership In Industry Lure

Louis H. (Bud) Baar, a candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, today charged that his principal opponent, incumbent Thomas T. Storer, "hasn't given enough leadership" to attract commercial ventures to Marin.

Baar praised the San Rafael Planning Commission's approval Tuesday of a $4 million convention center at Terra Linda as "a fine example of staff work and decisive leadership which should be followed by the planners on the county level.

"Fortunately, the property was not in unincorporated county territory," said Baar, "or we would be waiting for months while the county planners vacillate and argued about how many angels could dance on the head of a pin."

Board To Consider Architect Hiring

The San Rafael Board of Education will consider a contract with the architectural firm Marshall and Bowles for planning Short and Glenwood Middle schools at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the administration building.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of the employee fringe benefit plan.

WHERE MILK REALLY COMES FROM

Pre-school children who belong to the four Creative Play Groups of the YWCA in Mrin made a visit to the dairy ranch of George Giannecchini in Tennessee Valley this week and found out that the milk they drink doesn't just come from the grocery store. The children presented the dairyman with a special award in appreciation of their visit to his ranch, an annual outing for the play groups.

THE CHILDREN had a look at other animals on the ranch including the pigs, and saw how they were fed and cared for. Mrs. Ronald Branch is supervisor for the four YWCA Creative Play Groups located at the YWCA in San Anselmo, at Scout Hall in San Rafael and at the Mill Valley Methodist Church facilities. A SQUIRT OF fresh milk is observed by the youngsters as ranch hand Kirby Smith milks a pet cow by hand to show the time-honored method. They also saw the cows being milked by machine and were able to see the processing method from the cows to the dairy co-operative for bottling. During the ranch visit the children also help feed the horses, chickens and geese.

Mme. De Gaulle, Prim Thrifty

PARIS (UPI)—An American woman tourist in Paris, seeing a picture of President and Mrs. Charles de Gaulle in a newspaper, remarked to her husband, "Poor woman, I wonder how she can live with that man!"

The quiet little woman who has been first lady of France for the last 10 years seems to "live with that man" quite comfortably and the role she plays in the austere general's life was more or less established at their first meeting.

They were having tea with friends who had arranged their introduction when young Capt. De Gaulle became so excited talking about military affairs that he accidentally spilled a cup of tea on pretty Yvonne Vendroux's dress.

The diminutive 20-year-old, whose chief worry was that the tall captain might think she was too short, smiled. That was nearly 50 years ago and she has smiled ever since, when others frowned.

Madame De Gaulle's unwavering loyalty to her husband has kept her at his side in situations often diametrically opposed to her simple, housewifely inclinations.

DURING THEIR World War II years in exile in London, for example, she had to serve as his English translator during important political discussions even though, left to her own devices, she seldom discusses politics.

Her countrymen refer to her as "Tante Yvonne," a nickname that mingles much the same mixture of admiration and sarcasm implicit in her husband's satirical label, "Le Grand Charles."

Originally coined by a humorist, the nickname has come to be a symbol of her bourgeois virtues—which not all French consider a compliment.

She is still a thrifty bargainhunter, devoted to her charities and church-going. She is inclined to a somewhat Victorian primness, and has made it clear that low cut gowns and gossip provoking behavior are not welcome at the presidential palace.

HER SCALE of values can be measured by her requests when she and her husband came to live in the Elysee Palace: A comfortable bed for her husband and two rooms facing the rose garden for their private quarters.

From the president himself, she asked only that they return for one weekend a month to the secluded home she found during a walk through the countryside in 1943, La Boisserie near the tiny village of Colombey-les Deux-Eglises.

The 18-room house, surrounded by trees and set well back from the road, has been the scene of some of their happiest, most relaxed moments as well as the one great personal tragedy of their lives.

It was there while in postwar retirement that De Gaulle used to play every evening with their daughter Anne, their favorite child, who was mentally retarded. It was there that she died at the age of 20.

IN HER MEMORY they founded the institution Anne de Gaulle, a home for mentally retarded girls in an ancient chateau in the Chevreuse Valley, that belonged to Madame De Gaulle's family. The cost of the project was almost too much for the De Gaulles, and at one point they were nearly forced to sell their country home.

It was then that the future premier, Georges Pompidou, at the time a director of the Rothschild Bank, stepped in and discreetly found the necessary donations to keep the foundation going. This is the reason, say those close to Madame De Gaulle, that she allows Pompidou a certain familiarity that she does not tolerate from other members of the government.

When other financial difficulties arose for the institution, Madame De Gaulle persuaded her husband to sell his memoirs.

THE PRESIDENT no longer has time to visit the Anne de Gaulle home, but Madame De Gaulle goes once a week. It is her favorite charity but not her only one.

She still knits and sews for the poor and enlists the wives of her husband's government members in her work. Some found this a bit tiresome and tried to buy clothes to donate. This did not satisfy Madame De Gaulle.

"It matters little if it is not perfect as long as it is done with the heart," she was quoted as saying.

DANIEL DRAPER has fun trying out the seat and controls of the farm machinery on the ranch in Southern Marin. The youngsters find the ranch visit both fun and educational. The children's groups also visit the Sequiera Ranch in Marinwood.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Do All The Door-To-Door Salesmen Stop At Her House?

DEAR HELEN:

During the Depression hoboes used to mark the houses of easy hand-outs. I'm beginning to think salesmen and charity drive people also mark up generous ones. I seem to get 'em all!

I'm a patsy for a sob story, you see. When a young fellow tells me he's selling candy for the Youth Betterment League, I buy about 25 cents worth for a dollar. I've fallen for everything from Braille for Blind Indians to save a veteran. Later I found out from the Better Business Bureau that these phonies were working only for the betterment of their own wallets.

But still they come. I've watched salesmen head straight for my house and bypass at least half the other houses on the block.

Also, it seems I get twice the sales-pitch phone calls that my friends get.

Is it possible that door-to-door and phone salesmen exchange information on the easy-marks, so that we get more than our share of their business? — CAN'T SAY "NO," BUT LEARNING

DEAR CSNBL:

I doubt it. Your less-bothered neighbors may have no solicitors signs on their doors and unlisted phone numbers.

P.S. You're very wise to get the names of all doubtful charities or sales outfits and check them out with the Better Business Bureau. Cheating can't be stopped unless it's reported. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You recently printed a letter from a young man who said he was afflicted with the worst scourge of mankind — homosexuality. Thank you for telling him that it wasn't necessarily so — that one experience doesn't mark him for life. Often he is lured into this by an older man who tells him he can never change .So he drifts on, hating himself and punishing himself, sure he isn't fit for a normal relationship.

While there are some who are born homosexuals, I'm sure with most, the problem is psychological. I know, for I was one of them. I lived in constant fear and shame, trying to hide my guilt, yet believing I had no choice. My gay friend made sure I kept on believing it.

When my mother finally found out, I wanted to die at first. But it was the best thing that ever happened to me. She wouldn't let me give up, found the psychiatric care I needed. It wasn't easy. Sex is a powerful drive, and without her help, I could never have changed.

I'm glad to say that I am now a normal, loving husband and father. — ONCE A FREAK

DEAR ONCE:

Thanks you for writing the letter I hoped someone would write! Homosexuals can be cured but only if they leave off the self-loathing and ask for help.

So many men — and women too — tell me they hate their lives but feel doomed because shame won't let them discuss their problem. To those I say: a psychiatrist does not censure, and your families will usually stand by you. Call the mental health association in your city and ask for referral to an expert. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Soon, I hope, the stigma will be gone from homosexuality, so that two consenting adults will not be pilloried by society. Seduction of the young is wrong and should be punished, but when two different ones choose of their own free will live together, it is nobody's business but their own, and they should not be condemned.

My partner and I have been together for 15 years. We have been better citizens than most. We do no one any harm. We are truer than most mixed couples, and we're happy because we are no longer lonely. Our friends accept us. Someday others will too — I hope. — THE TWO

Ballerinas To Depict American Indian Life

A ballet with 105 young ballerinas dancing as Indian hunters, farmers and fire-worshippers will highlight the 23rd annual Marin Ballet Aquacade, June 8 and 9 at Peacock Beach Club. Performances begin at 2:30 p.m.

"Impressions of an Indian Village" will depict the colorful life and religious ceremonies of the American Indian, centering around the worship of crops, fire and hunting.

Two other ballets will feature swimming with dancing. "Romantic Waltzes" with music by Tchaikovsky and "This Is My Country," a tribute to the U. S. Armed Forces during which 81 swimmers will form an American flag in the pool. According to Mrs. Ralston Hodgson, ballet aquacade director, the Marin County Marine Corps Reserve color guard and other services representatives will be on hand.

There will be nine synchronized swimming numbers, with one performed by a team trained by Olympic champion Ann Curtis Cuneo of San Rafael.

Two hundred and fifty girls, ranging in age from 4 to 18, will participate in the annual aquacade, proceeds from which will be donated to the Marindale School for Orthopedically Handicapped Children in Terra Linda.

Mrs. Monte Ambinder of Greenbrae is chairman and Mrs. L. H. Strauss of San Rafael is ticket chairman.

Cleric's Poetry In Magazine

The book, which will be published by Eizo Press of Berkeley on June 15, is the first separate publication of this poem by Brother Antoninus. Photography was done by Allen Say.

Brother Antoninus lives at the Dominican priory in Kentfield.

Concerts Set For Outdoors

Music under the gentle Inverness skies is promised (hopefully) by Inverness Music Festival directors for the weekend of July 26. There will also be evening indoor concerts in St. Columba's Church for this annual community event.

Two afternoon outdoor concerts — a piano recital by Wanda Krasoff and Kurt Weill's "Lost in the Stars" — are scheduled for the amphitheatre on the grounds of St. Columba's. Both concerts will be at 3 p.m.

Miss Krasoff will perform July 27, in a concert of works by Vivaldi, Bach, Chopin, Villa-Lobos and Liszt.

The concert opera, "Lost in the Stars," featuring Eugene Jones, will be performed July 28.

The three evening concerts in the church will be at 8 p.m. On July 26, the festival will open with the Brecht-Weill song poem, "Der Yasager." On July 27, a chamber concert is scheduled and July 28, "Dido and Aeneas" by Henry Purcell will be given.

Solosits, the Inverness Community Chorus, flutist Darrell Parker and pianist Fae McNally will perform.

The festival, under director McNally, is in its fourth year.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National PTA magazines and the "film report" of the Film Estimate Board of national organizations. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael or Mill Valley libraries.

FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY:

"Charlie, the Lonesome Cougar" — Disney . . . amazing and highly entertaining adventures of cougar as he grows up from kitten to cat and becomes pet of logging camp in Pacific Northwest high timber country.

"Counterpoint" — During the Battle of the Bulge a world-renowned American symphony orchestra, on tour for the USO, is captured by the enemy . . . well integrated into film's plentiful action, music gives war adventure special distinction . . . for music lovers.

"Jungle Book" — Disney . . . animated musical comedy inspired by Kipling's Mowgli stories, background scenes lovely . . . delightfully entertaining.

"Rosie" — Played by Rosalind Russell, more Auntie Mamie than ever . . . a lavish modern comedy with faint echoes of King Lear . . . laugh provoking.

"Sound of Music" — Joyous, happy film filled with breathtaking beauty of majestic Alps, music and song . . . superb entertainment.

"Yours, Mine and Ours" — An ex-Navy man with 10 children and a Navy widow with eight children are married . . . Battle lines formed on both sides are finally withdrawn when a baby is born and there are 19 children who finally agree to become one family. Casting is good.

ADUTLS AND TEENS:

"The Corrupt One" — Is so continuously sadistic in its violence, torture and sex that its juvenile melodramtic plot seems incidental . . . two rival gangs of criminals steal an ancient emperor's treasure.

"Elvira Madigan" — Tragic love story in a Swedish film of rare beauty . . . charm of leading players, the haunting score based on theme by Mozart, fusion of exquisite color heighten effect of this deeply touching idyll.

"In the Heat of the Night" — An exciting film that reflects old and new attitudes. Sidney Poitier as detective and Rod Steiger as sheriff make the most of their opportunity to react to each other . . . absorbing but sobering mystery.

BORDERLINE (Most sources say adults only):

"Cool Hand Luke" — Is a brutal downbeat story about a non-conformist prisoner in a southern road construction prison camp . . . Paul Newman is excellent in the title role . . . depressing.

ADULTS ONLY:

"The Graduate" — Young man returning from college becomes involved in a torrid affair . . . plot becomes a tangled mess . . . absurd melodramatic ending.

"Secret War of Harry Frigg" — Well-intentioned comic look at human foibles attached to matters of military rank is mostly lighthearted escapism, but Paul Newman's anti-establishment hero is nicely played.

The Vietnamese regard men and women walking arm-in-arm as vulgar.

College Concert Fare Announced

How Will Dime Loot Be Spent?

NEW YORK (AP) — Investigators face the problem of figuring out how a band of hijackers plans to dispose of five million dimes—a shipment weighing more than 12 tons.

The gang of at least three thieves seized the $500,000 shipment in a Railway Express Agency truck near Fort Lee, N.J., at gunpoint Wednesday.

The shipment of newly minted dimes in 500 sacks was enroute from the U.S. Silver Depository at West Point, N.Y., to the Federal Reserve Bank in Oklahoma City.

The driver, Charles Depew, 52, of Newburgh, was released at about 4 p.m. Wednesday near the town of Esopus, about 75 miles north of New York. He flagged down a state police car to report the hijacking.

The empty truck was found abandoned at 2:30 a.m. yesterday at the railroad station at Blue Point, about 50 miles east of New York on the south shore of Long Island.

A Treasury Department spokesman in Washington said such shipments are made routinely to Federal Reserve banks around the country. He said the shipment was insured and the government would suffer no loss.

The FBI, and New York and New Jersey state police were conducting a joint investigation.

Depew said that at one point his captors, apparently tired of driving, stopped in Kingston and took him to a movie theater where they saw about an hour of "Yours, Mine and Ours."

Reagan Selects Aides As Minority Contacts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today that a Negro or Mexican-American "community consultant" will work in each of the state's six social service centers to aid minority groups.

"We're not going to go out and promise an instant tomorrow," Reagan said. He emphasized the new state officials will listen to complaints and "then attempt, within the framework of the law," to make sure all citizens have the same rights and opportunities.

Reagan said that in meetings he held two months ago with minority group representatives across the state, he discovered a lack of communications with his office.

Reagan announced the appointments at a news conference, which his news director, Lynn Nofziger, asked be limited chiefly to the scheduled topics.

But Reagan criticized the Democratic Party in his prepared statement, mentioning "the high expectations raised by those in the other party, especially at the federal level, and their massive failure to deliver on those promises."

Reagan said the group, which was present at the news conference, was appointed May 1. They are: Ralph Morales, expoliceman assigned to the East Los Angeles center; William Thompson, insurance agent, Richmond Service Center; John Alston, retired Los Angeles policeman, Venice center; Charles Booker, former state service center program officer, San Francisco; Ted Patrick, printer, San Diego; Arthur Parr, owner of public relations firm, Watts, and Lawrence Harrington, State Employment Department management analyst, Sacramento.

Endorses Baar

Louis H. (Bud) Baar, a candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Third District, yesterday was endorsed by the Point Reyes Light, West Marin weekly newspaper. The incumbent supervisor, Thomas T. Storer, "went along with the conservation crowd in southern Marin," the light said in an editorial, but Baar "will consider our position before making decisions."

Camera Taken

George K. Gray of 126 Ridge Road, Fairfax, reported to San Anselmo police that someone had stolen a camera from his gym locker at Sir Francis Drake High School Wednesday. He said the camera is valued at $259.

Rec Board Asks Session On Programs

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission, faced with threats of budget cutbacks by city councilmen who feel their instruction programs compete with private business, has asked for a meeting with the city council.

Commissioners asked at their Wednesday night meeting that Parks and Recreation Dir. Andrew Snyder arrange a meeting with the council, preferably prior to budget hearings, "to exchange ideas and reevaluated operational procedures."

Snyder said today that commissioners want to review their duties and repponsibilities and improve their working relationship with the council.

The meeting was prompted, he said, by assertions of Councilman Fred Jensen that city-sponsored dancing classes, judo instruction, guitar and slimnastics programs compete with private business.

Mayor C Paul Bettini has predicted some programs will be cut at budget time.

The commission received letters of praise for the instruction programs Wednseday night from former pupils.

Commissioners said they have received no direct complaints from private instructors hurt by the recreation program, but will investigate if anyone does complain to them.

THE FINISHED PRODUCT — David Loring, watched by Diony Welch, puts finishing touches on the gleaming car he designed and built, beginning with mud from Richardson Bay. This is the Mantis, L-2S. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

MOLDED COMFORT — Diony Welch tests fibreglass seat which will be joined to fibreglass frame of body Loring is designing to fat a Volkswagen, Porsche or Corvair frame and engine.

STUFF DREAMS MADE OF

Sporty Cars Begin With Bay Mud

By ALAN JONES

To most people, Richardson Bay Mud is just that stuff that smells so bad when the tide goes out.

But to David Loring, it's a basic tool of his trade and the stuff dreams are made on. The dreams in this case are the lowslung, sculptured fiberglass car bodies which Loring turns out at his small shop at Waldo Point.

"It's a cheap way to make things," Loring said. "I'm surprised someone hasn't done it before."

Car designers usually work in modeling clay, which used by the hundredweight can be expensive, especially for someone starting from scratch as Loring has done.

Loring started out on the East Coast, where he said he hit on the idea of using mud in a dream. Next day he got 200 pounds of mud from a brickyard and used it to resculpture a sports car he was working on.

Later, he worked in Southern California for a repair firm specializing in fiberglass, learning techniques with the material. He also took design classes at the Los Angeles Art Center.

He moved to the Bay Area three years ago, first to Oakland where he took first and second Oakland Roadster Show, the only show car competition he ever entered.

Moving to Waldo Point, he found an endless supply of sculpturing mud right behind his shop.

Starting with a framework, he pats and molds the mud onto the frame and then works it down with clay sculpture tools to get the ultimate shape of fender or hood he wants, adding or scraping off mud as needed.

When the shape is right, he drapes layers of fiberglass over it, and the catalytic resin in the mixture cures the fiberglass into permanent shape. Then the fiberglass form is pulled off, washed free of mud, and is ready for use as a mold to produce a fiberglass car body.

MUD PACK — Loring, assisted by Peppe Vanvliet, lays glass cloth over model designed of Richardson Bay mud. This will create the fibreglass mold from which will ultimately emerge a new Loring custom car body.

Between working sessions, mud on an unfinished design can be kept soft by spraying with a thin layer of plastic or resin to keep in the moisture.

The cars Loring turns out are low, squat and organic looking, set up to go onto a Volkswagen, Porsche or Corvair frame and engine.

The current model, which he has labeled the L-2, is a hardtop which stands little more than three feet high and is entirely one-piece, the two doors its only separate parts. The $525 price includes seats, which are molded directly to the sides of the car. A metal brace-roll bar is built into the roof.

The maroon L-2 Loring is setting up now carries a VW engine and running gear.

Two other hardtop bodies are under construction in the shop. Also on the floor are a convertible body design expected to sell for $475, and a Lotus Formula 1 car which is to be raced this season by a friend of Loring's. Loring has shortened and redesigned the racer's nose section.

The shop also turns out, on request, dune buggies which can be powered by VW or Corvair engines.

Another new design, the L-4, is in the works, in the $495 range. It will be built in hardtop and semi-convertible designs, which resemble the racing Ford GT-40. The body will surmount a tubular space frame to enclose a "midship" V-8 engine suitable for competition.

Loring's shop can produce about three car bodies a week, each one weighing less than the two doors of a standard VW. The body is usually sold as a kit with the buyer assembling it to the frame of his choice. The shop can turn out the entire car on request, but it takes a month.

The shop also does fiberglass repair on production cars such as Corvette and Lotus.

Six copies of the L-2 have been sold already, one being fitted in Half Moon Bay for racing with a Coventry Climax engine, which was the workhorse of Formula 1 racing a few years ago.

Loring does not recommend that basement mechanics try designing their own cars. For the L-2, he estimates he spent 3,500 hours in design and tooling plus approximately $5,000 setup costs. Even with free mud, it isn't cheap or easy.

The mud, Loring suggested, would be a good cheap medium for sculptors or other designers.

He admitted it has some drawbacks. The consistency varies, and sometimes the mud must dry a while before use.

And there was the time he had just finished a fender design when the surface started moving and out popped a small mud crab.

"But it was supposed to be an organic design anyway," he said.

Water Well Being Drilled Just In Case

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District board has awarded a contract for drilling a well on Bolinas Creek for an emergency water supply, but George F. West, director, said "We don't expect any shortage" of water this year.

The board awarded the contract Wednesday to Weeks Drilling and Pump Co. of Sebastopol for $1,400 to drill a well and install a pump for the extra water supply.

Weeks and a Cotati firm submitted estimates for the project early this month.

West said the new well will be an alternate water source in case it is needed. "And it looks like we're getting to the point where we'll need it." Population in the district is growing and putting more demands on the system, he said.

"It isn't that bad, but there are a lot more people living here than ever before. We don't expect any shortage, it's just in case." West said the district wanted to develop the extra source before it was needed instead of waiting until there was a shortage.

He said the district has had a water shortage only one year in the 12 years he has lived in the area. In 1959 or 1960, he said, water use was curtailed. "No one was out of water, though."

Last winter's shortage of rainfall has depleted the district's existing water sources.

Crank Caller Reports Bomb At Hospital

A bomb hoax by telephone last night resulted in a search of Marin General Hospital by sheriff's officers, firemen, and hospital personnel. There was no evacuation of patients, however.

Deputies said a hospital switchboard operator, Josephine Cooney, reported a woman telephoned at 8:10 p.m., declaring twice in a low, deliberate voice that, "There will be a bomb at 10 o'clock," before hanging up.

Deputies, members of the Kentfield Fire Department, and about eight hospital employees searched the hospital unsuccessfully. In addition, a fire drill by hospital personnel was staged at 10 p.m.

The search was ended at 10:10 p.m.

Thief Enters Car

William C. Spencer, caretaker at the Marin Rod and Gun Club in San Rafael, complained to police yesterday that someone stole a flashlight and tools, valued at $20, from his car the night before. The thief pried his car window, he said.

Youngster Found Frozen To Death In Ice Machine

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy froze to death early today in a commercial ice cube vending machine at a service station.

Police said the victim, Antonio Hand, was found by an employee of the service station who noticed the lock on the machine was broken.

The boy apparently had crawled inside the machine to retrieve ice cubes, police said, and was trapped when the door closed.

Sgt. Jerome DeGross said the boy's shoes were off and the child probably used them to pound on the door. "No one could have heard the boy's screams," DeGross said, "because the door is so well insulated."

The boy was reported missing last night by his mother who told police Antonio went out "to get a bottle of pop" and never returned.

THE HOUSE AT THE TOP
We mean just that. The lot is level, yet at the top of Buckeye Circle, with a breathtaking view. The back portion is wooded like a park, with a small creek and your own picnic area. The house is nestled on the front of this spectacular lot, and is brand new and probably the only one of its kind in this area. Built on the lines of a Tahoe ski lodge, the walls are heavy log construction, yet the interior is very plush, with the finest acrilon carpeting, all-elec. kitchen with avocado green appliances, marble top vanities in the bathrooms, cathedral ceilings in the staircase and upstairs bedrooms, natural cedar ceilings accentuate the exposed beams thruout. A rear sun deck is extended over the creek. Spanish tile floors in the kitchen, laundry room and the bathrooms. The whole house is completely insulated beyond what this area calls for. A heavy shake roof completes this truly top house. Price only $32,000.

GOLDEN WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sinclair of Strawberry review 50 years of marriage. Tomorrow, they will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their son's home in Mill Valley. (Independent-Journal photo)

GOLDEN WEDDING

Life Of Roving For Strawberry Couple

A Scottish-born couple can look back on a lifetime of roving when they celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary tomorrow at the home of their son in Mill Valley.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sinclair, of 120 Ricardo Road, Strawberry, were born in the Scottish village of Dunfermline, but it was years and many miles later before they met in the big Canadian city of Vancouver.

Both Sinclair and Eleanor Suttie had brothers who were soccer enthusiasts and had played on the same team in Scotland. When the brothers met in Vancouver, it was only a matter of time until Sinclair was brought home for dinner at the Suttie house, where Eleanor was the lone sister to six brothers.

They were married in Vancouver May 21, 1918, and lived there until 1923, when Sinclair was transferred to Seattle. He was a freight supervisor for the Canadian Pacific Railway, handling ocean cargo on the railroad's freighters as well as rail traffic.

When Sinclair retired in 1954, the couple moved to La Crescenta in Southern California to be near their daughter, then five years ago moved to Mill Valley to be near their son, Alexander Sinclair, and his wife and daughter.

As members of the railway's pensioners group, they took extensive trips, traveling three times to their native Scotland, to Europe, to Alaska and elsewhere. They made their latest trip to Scotland two years ago when both were 77 years old.

The traveling apparently will be curtailed in future, Sinclair having undergone a recent gall bladder operation which reduces his mobility. But they are still enjoying themselves, as plans for Saturday's party show.

The celebration will start with a champagne open house for family and friends from 4 to 6 p.m., then dinner for the family at Sabella's restaurant on Richardson Bay.

The Sinclairs' daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Duffy of Glendale Highlands, will fly in for the celebration, as will a niece, Mrs. David Suttie, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pritchard, from Vancouver. Several friends from Marin are also expected.

Lutheran Church Leader To Resign Due To Illness

NEW YORK (AP) — Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, an international Christian leader and president of the Lutheran Church in America, today announced he was giving up his church post for reasons of health.

The word came from New Rochelle Hospital, where Dr. Fry, 67, is a patient. Associates said he entered the hospital last week for tests, and that he is "gravely ill."

Dr. Fry is the long-time chairman of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, its interim policymaking body, as well as head of its executive committee. It includes most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

Quentin Inmate Reports Wound

A San Quentin inmate walked out of his cell in the prison's north cell block this morning to report that he had been stabbed, prison authorities said.

Richard Leonard Hall, serving time for a San Francisco sex offense, walked to the prison hospital under his own power and was reported in good condition there, with a stab wound in the lower left rib cage.

He could not or would not identify his assailant, the prison said. The weapon, a ladel handle converted to an 11-inch-knife, was found in Hall's cell.

Suez Canal Opens Door For Invasion Of Mediterranean

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Choked with the hulks of 15 vessels, the Suez Canal today is more battle line than waterway.

But beneath the smokes of politics and war, noticed by no one except a few biologists, heavy traffic of a sort still moves through the canal.

The Red Sea is invading the Mediterranean. In ever-increasing numbers representative species of the rich fauna of the Red Sea are establishing themselves in the Eastern Mediterranean.

So far about 140 life forms, mostly animal and mostly invertebrate, have crossed the Isthmus of Suez. Eighty per cent have come over in the last 40 years and the overwhelmingly majority of these are believed to have arrived in the last 10 years.

The influx is accelerating with the removal of a natural barrier in the canal, and the colonists are doing well.

Two of the 24 species of fish to immigrate, in fact, the lizard-fish and another tropical species, have become so abundant they now constitute the principle Israeli fishery.

Some ecologists are alarmed at the invasion. The Mediterranean is the least-fertile of any saltwater body, and is among the poorest in both flora and fauna. These scientists are worried that harm will come from competition between the vigorous aliens and the native life forms. They are traditionally suspicious of the effects of man's engineering on the delicate entente between food chains and the physical environment.

To them the canal is a sewer of biological pollutants.

Other ecologists, though also wary of the hand of man, think there may be room for the colonists. The disagreement centers principally on whether or not the native species have adapted to utilize their habitat as fully as possible. This second group of scientists feels that they haven't, that there are many ecological niches — ways to make a biological living — not now being used.

They argue that the colonists may adapt to these niches and make the Mediterranean ecology richer and more productive.

The debate over the desirability of a migration through the canal has been going on almost since the waterway was opened in 1869. The question long remained academic, however, because the canal runs through the highly-saline Great Bitter Lake. Floored with solid salt, the lake created a salinity barrier that few organisms could cross.

Then, 10 years ago, the Egyptians dredged the canal from an average four meter depth to an average of 12 meters, in order to accommodate deeper-draught vessels. The tripled depth greatly increased the flow of water through the canal, thus diluting the salinity derived from the Bitter Lake.

Not long after the dredging the current biological invasion began. Before the dredging, the salinity of the canal ranged from 80 parts per thousand up to 100 pars per thousand, compared with up to 45 parts per thousand in the quite-saline Red Sea and the oceanic average of about 35 parts per thousand.

After dredging, the canal's salt content dropped to its present level of around 42 parts per thousand, entirely commensurate with invasion.

Beyond the salt barrier lay another factor that may initially have discouraged Red Sea life forms. The Mediterranean proper is much fresher than the Red Sea, with salinities ranging up to 39 parts per thousand. At the time of the Nile flood each year the eastern end of the Mediterranean received vast quantities of fresh surface water, making it fresher still.

Certain life forms had adapted to this annual situation, notably a commercially important anchovy-like fish. Though they eventually adapted to it, the fresh water was not so much to the liking of the Red Sea forms.

With the building of the Aswan High Dam the annual flooding ended.

Instead of the valuable water pouring into the sea and being wasted, it will go to irrigate fields. The salinity of the sea will stay high. The first effect of this already has been felt; the anchovies that had adapted to the flooding have all but disappeared.

The comparative barrenness of the Mediterranean derives from its geological history. The sea is a vestige of the Great Thetys Seaway, which ages ago separated the land masses that are now Europe from a land mass to the south. The Thetys Seaway was a tropical ocean with tropical life forms; these persisted as land rose and the boundaries of the present-day Mediterranean were formed. Then came the glaciers, which reached almost to the Mediterranean and which served to fill the shallow sea with frigid water. The tropical forms died out.

The Red Sea, a remnant of the Thetys Seaway which remained tropical throughout glaciation, should be able to provide life forms which can fill gaps in the food chain.

The Red Sea offers one of the richest marine faunas in the world. There are great numbers of species of triggerfishes, goatfishes, scorpionfishes, gobies, blennies, parrotfishes, labrids and damselfishes, plants, invertebrates, and many other tropical groups. All these offer constitute a pool of vast adaptive potential.

OHIO MYSTERY

Span Collapse Sparks Fear Of Other Spans

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — A bridge failure is a peculiarly horrifying kind of disaster. Most people take bridges for granted, and they must — especially ones that they cross every day. Yet in the back of many minds is a grain of mistrust that makes the shock all the more profound when some bridge does collapse.

A bridge can stand 40 years — the Silver Bridge that spanned the Ohio River between Point Pleasant, W. Va., and Gallipolis, Ohio, was built in 1929 — and then in a minute or so (on Dec. 15, 1967 for the Silver Bridge) it lies on the bottom of the river. (And 36 persons are dead.) Individual citizens and officiail bodies all want to know why.

Three federal commissions are investigating the Silver Bridge disaster. The wreckage is being lifted from the river bottom and laid out in a nearby field where painstaking examination of each piece may find the component that failed first and possibly learn why it failed. And the reason, if it is ever found, may be something entirely unforeseen.

Nature has trumps up her sleeve that human beings often don't know were in the deck. The Tacoma Narrows bridge in Washington state literally shook itself down. The cause of the shaking was a mild wind that blows frequently through the Tacoma Narrows.

This wind excited a natural vibration mode of the bridge structure and repeatedly reinforced the vibration until the whole structure shook like a galloping horse (because of this the bridge was nicknamed Galloping Gertie).

Finally, one day in 1949, the bridge came down. A large crowd, including movie photographers, had gathered to watch.

Galloping Gertie had been designed to withstand the pressures of violent storm winds, but nobody had thought that a fairly light wind could find a resonant vibration — a vibration that reinforces itself — and bring the whole structure down.

The late Dr. Theodore von Karman, who was called upon to explain to one of the investigating commissions how this could happen, told a reporter of his awe at having been called to consult with the representatives of all that was best in modern technological society — and he listed them with their multiple titles from government, engineering and industry.

"And who did you represent?" said the reporter. "I?" said the physicist, "I represented the wind."

The Silver Bridge didn't gallop, but it did shake, as many people who used it noticed. Could some part have shaken loose?

Silver Bridge was constructed in a rare way. It was suspended from chains of steel bars instead of the wire cables that are usually used in suspension bridge construction. The bars, which were 2 inches wide and 12 inches long, were held together by steel pins.

One of these pins might have shaken loose, suggests Dr. Carl Shermer, chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering at Ohio University. If a chain broke in this way, unequal stresses would have pulled over the towers and the whole structure would have come down.

The chances of finding that this did happen are not very good. Even if investigation discovers that pins are missing from their eye-holes, the probability is greater that they fell out as a result of the collapse than as its cause.

Another of Dr. Shermer's speculations is that stress due to the bridge loading may have found a flaw or caused a crack in one of the bars and finally brought about a rupture. He discounts overloading of the structure as a possible cause, however, even though the presence on the bridge of an over-the-limit truck at the time of the disaster has led other people to suggest it. Dr. Shermer figures that the structure as a whole was probably not overloaded.

If the extra-heavy truck had caused failure it would have been a deck failure, dropping a portion of the deck and the offending truck into the river but leaving the rest of the structure standing.

Corrosion is a third possibility, especially if it occurred at a critical point such as the base of a tower. But corrosion would have been discovered during inspections or repaintings of the bridge.

Of the three federal working commissions: One, under the Office of Emergency Planning, looked into ways of rebuilding the bridge. A second, the National Transportation Safety Board, is seeking the cause of the collapse. The third, by the Bureau of Public Roads, is investigating other bridges built before 1936 for safety procedures and inspection practices. In addition the private Association of American Railroads is investigating 190,000 railroad bridges, and state authorities are rechecking 500,000 highway bridges.

Meanwhile, people in the Ohio Valley are just a little nervous about other bridges that have similar steel bars in their construction, especially the Silver Bridge's twin, 75 miles upstream.

Student Farmers Receive Awards

Four students at Tomales Joint Union High School have received gold awards for their achievements in Future Farmers of America.

The awards were presented Tuesday in Santa Rosa as a climax to the 1968 Farm Program Competition sponsored by the Wells Fargo Bank.

Basis of the program is a supervised farm project completed by each boy in his high school years as a requirement of vocational agriculture and membership in the Future Farmers of America.

Winners of the gold awards were Bob Borello, Pat Hendren, John Schuck and Ronald Souza.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pityriasis Rosea Is Rash Having Link To Fall, Spring

VAN DELLEN

One morning Mabel woke up with a red scaly patch on the right side of her chest. The eruption was approximately one inch in diameter, and she immediately thought it was ringworm, but the red scaling area slowly continued to enlarge.

About 10 days later, she was horrified, her entire chest was covered with minute red spots. The next day, the rash appeared on her abdomen and back, and extended to the thighs and legs. She consulted her physician and was greatly relieved when told it was pityriasis rosea, and not ringworm.

THE DOCTOR TOLD her: "If you develop a skin disease this is the one to get." It is the least bothersome because it is mild, seldom recurs, and all victims recover with or without treatment.

The original lesion is known as the herald or mother spot. After a week or two the rash spreads and follows the folds or lines in the skin. The new patches also are oval, but smaller in size and are pinkish salmon or chamois colored. Slight itching may be noted. A tiny blister may develop in the center of the lesion. When this breaks or dries, the middle area lightens and crinkles like cigarette paper. These daughter spots may develop over any part of the body. But the face, neck, and hands seldom are involved.

THE CAUSE IS not known. The rash is mildly contagious, however, suggesting a viral origin. It occurs frequently in the spring and fall. Now and then the eruption occurs when a garment is donned that has been stored for some time. Although the rash lasts for 6 to 12 weeks, it tends to fade after the first few weeks. The individual would not know anything was wrong unless he looked in the mirror.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

CRACKING JOINTS

L.P. writes: What could be causing excessive cracking in the joints? By joints, I mean knees, elbows, shoulders, and wrists. I am a woman in my early 20s.

REPLY

The cracking stems from stretching of the fibrous tissues that surround the joint. When the fingers are pulled, the snapping sound may also originate from within the joint as a result of two moist surfaces separating. I assume that you do not have arthritis.

UNUSUAL CRAMP IN TOES

Mrs. V. writes: I am having trouble with my left foot. I can raise the toes up but have to push them down. Would you have any idea why this is happening?

REPLY

This is unusual because gravity will cause the toes of even a paralyzed foot to drop. In contrast, when a cramp develops in the foot, the toes rise, and it may be difficult to push them down until the muscles relax.

NONSMOKER IN SMOKE

M H. writes: Would a heart patient suffer ill effects if he sat in a 9 by 12 room for two or three hours in the company of an incessant smoker of long cigars and cigarets?

REPLY

Nonsmokers also suffer from air pollution and they should leave when the smoke gets too thick.

GOLF WITHOUT TENSION

G. S. writes: Can a man with a spastic bowel play golf every weekend?

REPLY

Yes, provided the game is relaxing and he takes those extra strokes with equanimity. Overwork, fatigue, and tension are the most common causes of spastic bowel.

TODAY'S HELATH HINT — Eliminate hazards in the home.

Farming Still Ranks First Among British Industries

LONDON (SS) — To the surprise of many people, including Britons, agriculture is Britain's largest single industry. Its output is double that of the coal mines, one and a half times that of the car industry, and its receipts, wich last year totalled almost 2,000 million pounds or $4.8 billion, are greater than those of steel and railways combined.

These facts were emphasized at an international conference on the applications of electricity in agriculture, held recently at Silsoe, in Bedfordshire.

The president of the Farmer's Union, G. T. Williams, claimed that productivity in British agriculture had in recent years risen about three times faster than the national average.

"In 30 years," he said, "we have progressed from producing a third of the food required for a population of 48 million to producing half the food required for a population of 55 million — and the technological revolution is not yet over."

Delegates from universities and research establishments pointed out that farmers have been forced to specialize by economic and social pressures. This has led to intensive mechanization, notably in the control of plant and animal environment and in the harvesting and conservation of crops.

At Reading University, 50 miles west of London, intensive effort is being devoted to light and its chemical effects on plants.

Artificial light to lengthen or shorten the days is widely used in the laboratories there, and also at several other horticultural establishments, to persuade plants that winter is summer or autumn is spring, and so obtain fresh produce or blooms at any time of the year.

The ultimate aim is to identify all the specific plant photoreceptive pigments and their various photochemical responses. This could be a long haul.

Artificial light is likewise being used in Britain as elsewhere to persuade hens to lay more eggs and to keep them laying for longer periods. By adjusting the diet of laying hens, and at the same time subjecting them to a "hot" phase in the diurnal cycle, egg production can be maintained while food intake is reduced by 20 per cent. In such practices, nutrient deficiencies must be carefully guarded against.

With sheep, the careful control of light and environment can bring equally rich rewards. Already the period between fertility cycles in breeding ewes has been reduced by eight weeks, simply by extending the length of the day early in the year.

Farmers hope to be able to produce three crops of lambs in a two-year cycle. This should be a useful intermediate stage in the development of intensive sheep husbandry.

Specialization as applied to crops is a more straight-forward matter, though the vagaries of the British weather have to be contended with. Throughout the country, the premier crop is grass — occupying three-quarters of the total acreage — while wheat, barley and oats are the main arable crops. The need with both types of crops is to save part of what is grown in eight months of the year for use in the other four.

Advanced methods of storage that limit infestation and prevent rotting are readily available, and researchers are continually seeking better and cheaper alternatives.

What then of the agricultural future of Britain? The prospect of using computers to determine optimum sequences for the growing and marketing of crops is foreseen, and the possibility of using plastic domes, covering 50 acres or more, to give controlled atmospheres.

It must be remembered, however, that British farmers, like their cousins elsewhere, are first and foremost businessmen. While they are "itching to expand," in the words of the president of the Farmer's Union, they must ruthlessly set aside their dreams and look to their bank balances. Capital investment is the key to their future.

Innocent, Guilty Verdicts After Trial

A Marin Superior Court jury Wednesday night found Julio Sanchez Garcia, 31, innocent of lewd behavior with a 13-year-old girl, but convicted him of a misdemeanor count of exposing himself.

The verdicts came at 11:15 p.m., eight hours after the jury began deliberations. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled judgment for 9 a.m. on June 26.

Garcia, of 136 Park Street, San Rafael, had been accused of both counts of the behavior in San Anselmo on Aug. 29. Trial started Tuesday.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, today was endorsed for re-election by the Marin County chapter of the California Republican League, a statewide GOP volunteer organization.

"Bill Bagley is clearly the man for the job," said William A. Exline of San Rafael, chapter president, in a press release by the Committee to Re-Elect Assemblyman William T. Bagley. Exline praised Bagley for "his vigorous representation of his constituency," and declared Bagley "must be returned to Sacramento."

Michael Wornum and his family enjoy the outdoor life of Southern Marin, sailing on the Bay and hiking through the hills. Here their friend, nationally-known photographer Ernest Braun, has photographed them coming down Mount Tamalpais above their Mill Valley home. Left to right are Claudia, 12; Mrs. Barbara Wornum; Amanda, 14; five year old George on his father's shoulders; and Christopher, 13.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE RESIDENTS OF SOUTHERN MARIN

We, your fellow residents in Southern Marin, urge you to vote for Michael Wornum for Supervisor next Tuesday, June 4th.

An Architect-Planner by profession and a former Mayor of Mill Valley, Michael Wornum was twice elected to the Mill Valley City Council and served with distinction for eight years on that body. He is now a member of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and is very active with many civic organizations.

Intimately concerned with the everyday life of our county, Michael Wornum has his business offices in Sausalito, his family home in Mill Valley.

A graduate of the University of California where he is currently lecturing on urban planning, he is a fourth generation Marinite and was a Royal Air Force flight officer in World War II.

Michael Wornum's campaign emphasis on such subjects as tax relief, transportation and conservation, and his deep concern for the future of our country, make him, in our opinion, the best candidate to represent us on the board of supervisors.

If we all vote for Wornum for Supervisor next Tuesday, we will be spared the heavy expense of a fall election and at the same time get the best man for the job.

Sincerely,

COMMITTEE FOR WORNUM FOR SUPERVISOR

Terra Linda Heads Into Tourney Semi-Finals

By GARY TISCHLER

They ran a double feature in the final game of the opening day of the fifth annual Redwood Baseball Tournament of Champions at Albert Field in San Rafael last night.

The first half had the Terra Linda Trojans making like Mission Street ragtags the morning after Saturday night, flirting shamelessly with disaster against El Camino.

The second part saw John Wayne and the 7th Cavalry, played by two-gun Logan and whiplash Timmel, come to the rescue and pull a hot 6-3 victory out of the fire before an estimated crowd of 800.

Catcher Craig Logan hammered a pow-wow tying solo homer in the sixth inning, then followed with a run-scoring go-ahead double in a beautiful eighth while Timmel survived some early manhandling to win his 11th straight game, setting a TOC strikeout record of 16 and powdering a lofty two-run homer as the Trojans landed in the semi-finals tonight at 8 o'clock against run-happy Richmond.

In the other opening games, Richmond squashed Pittsburg, 16-1, mostly on an unbelievable lengthy 14-run fifth inning, Montgomery upset St. Elizabeth's 3-2 and Oakland Tech set down Tennyson, 6-3.

That pits Tennyson vs. St. Elizabeth's at 2 o'clock and El Camino vs. Pittsburg at 4 in consolation games today and Montgomery vs. Oakland Tech at 6 p.m., followed by the amazing Trojans against Richmond at 8.

Here's how the Trojans rose from a less than sweet start to a magic finish.

They hopped off to a 2-0 lead in the first two innings, getting one in the first on an error, a stolen base and a couple of wild pitches and another in the second on a single by Dewey Forry and a double by Gary Trono, who had scored the first run.

It was a shaky lead.

Timmel, winner of 10 straight league games with a string of 14 shutout innings, gave up a pair of hits in the second and lost the lead in the third when El Camino picked up two more hits and got help from an overthrow by Logan.

He fell behind in the fifth on two more hits.

This is the way it stood in the top of the sixth: The Trojans trailed 3-2, El Camino had its ace Dennis Gorman (9-2) on the mound, they had committed three errors, one each by Logan and Timmel, they had scratched for just two hits while El Camino had slashed the shaky Timmel for seven safeties.

Time was running out for the Trojans. It would be their last bats, with the bottom of the order coming up and only 10 minutes left in the 1:45 time limit unless a tie could be had. Gorman, the third El Camino pitcher, hadn't allowed a hit in his two innings of fast work. Disaster was just around the nearest out.

Up comes Logan, nothing for two to his credit in addition to the error.

The second pitch by Gorman was right down the pipe and Logan took a gusty cut, cracking the ball 320 feet over the Terra Linda banner in right centerfield and it was a tie game.

Logan's swat was like an aspirin for the Trojans' case of the blahs.

They played errorless ball the rest of the way while Timmel got a second wind, and didn't allow a hit the rest of the way.

The Trojans didn't cut the tie until the eighth around 10:35

Bobby Unser Pulls Off Surprise At Indianapolis

A Real Tear-Jerker
At The Movie House

SHOW TIME — I went to the movies yesterday. Saw a real tear-jerker at the Tamalpais Theater titled "Did Parnelli Hit Granatelli In The Belly With Some STP Jelly?" The second feature was "My Old Falmeout" starring Joe Leonard.

Yep, the closed-circuit telecast of the Indianapolis 500 was a real gasser. It had its villains and good guys, pathos and comedy. It has to rank as the greatest race since the human race.

The crowd of approximately 1,000 in the Tam flick house — including a surprisingly large turnout of women drivers — loved every minute of it, booing the villains in the turbine cars and cheering lustily for the good guys in the piston racers. But that's understandable. I didn't see a single turbine car in the theater parking lot; everyone who drove there did so in a piston job. Downright chauvinism, I calls it.

Strange Time For Cheers

The theater audience was so anti-turbine that many actually cheered when Graham Hill crashed his jet-job into the wall. These, apparently, are the same people you will see chasing ambulances and tow trucks on the highways this weekend singing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

That Indianapolis is heartbreak alley was displayed at the very start of the race by Mario Andretti. When the announcer said, "Gentlemen, start your engines," guess whose engine wouldn't start. A gentleman next to me named Ned Dean of Mill Valley figured Mario forget his key and had to cross some wires to get it started.

And Only 199 Laps To Go

Anyway, the pit crew got Andretti going by pushing the klunker and it lasted one whole lap before conking out — just 199 laps short of the finish. Andretti then jumped into another car as a substitute driver and it quit after 25 laps. Later, TV announcer Chris Economaki, a Dale Carnegie dropout if there ever was one, who out-Lon Simmons'd Lon Simmons with his ridiculous interviews, asked Mario if he was disappointed. Economaki won the "Understatement of the Year" title. Next he'll ask the Pope if he's a Catholic.

YES, INDIANAPOLIS is where they invented crying towel and Andy Granatelli, the colorful STP man, holds the concession. For the second year in a row his turbine specials fizzled out within sight of certain victory. Last year his driver, Parnelli Jones, pooped out within seven miles of victory. Yesterday, when Joe Leonard had a flameout 22 miles from never-never land in Granatelli's STP car No. 60, I found myself feeling sorry for a millionaire for the first time in my life.

My seatmate, Mr. Dean, diagnosed car No. 60's ailment: "Granatelli forget to feed it STP." My only observation on the subject is it's a damned good thing Mr. Leonard didn't have that jet engine in an airplane.

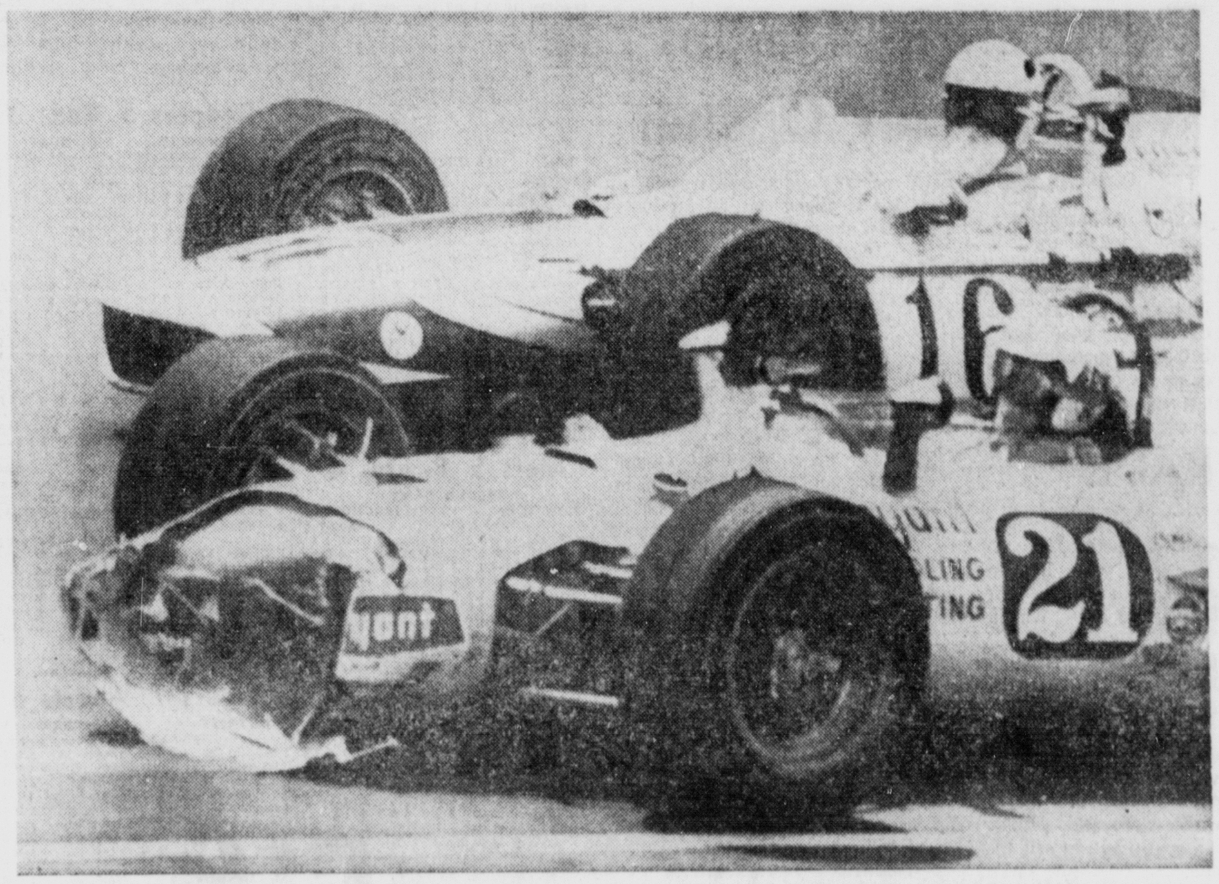
'Car No. 54, Where Are You?'

Joe Huffaker of Novato was in the theater audience only because he thought the feature was "Car No. 54, Where Are You?" A few years ago Mr. Huffaker, a designer and builder of racing machines, designed and built car No. 54. Driven by Walley Dallenbach, it placed 17th yesterday, completing 146 laps.

I think the television people deserve a medal for an outstanding job. A theater seat was better than a grandstand seat because because you had 16 cameras working for you and you didn't miss a thing.

And in the lobby there was plenty of goodies like hot dogs, soft drinks, donuts and coffee. And, of yes, cases of STP.

And as for winner Bobby Unser: I'm waiting for word that they found an aspirin in his gastank and will disqualify him.



BROKEN NOSE — With his racer's nose broken, Arnie Knepper speeds around curve during yesterday's 500-mile race at Indianapolis. Knepper's car, which later went out of the race with a broken oil tank, was damaged by debris from wreckage of Al Unser's car. Next to Knepper's car is car No. 16 driven by Bob Veith of Santa Rosa. 'Couldn't Believe It,' Says Winner

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Unser had a grin on his face and an undetermined amount of prize money in sight as he discussed his victory—and the failure for the second consecutive year of the imposing turbines—in the Memorial Day 500.

"I couldn't believe it," Unser said after whipping across the finish line in front after the three powerful turbines entered by Andy Granatelli had faltered and failed—one within sight of the finish line. They included the leading qualifiers and the race leader for 32 laps.

MISSED CHANCE

"I feel they missed the best chance they had in their lives," Unser said. "I said before the race if Granatelli didn't win this one he ought to pack up and go home. The best I can figure, the good Lord just didn't want them to win."

Unser's prize money will be announced tonight at the traditional victory dinner.

It depended on attendance, cut by prolonged rain that made the infield a quagmire, and on the accessories Bobby carried on his American Eagle and its turbocharged Offenhauser engine.

Fans, meanwhile, to whom the $750,000-or-so purse has only an academic interest, marveled at how close yesterday's script came to following that of 1967, and how true it is that a race driver who won't be beaten often isn't.'

RACING FAMILY

The 34-year-old Unser, who has had two racing brothers, a racing father and two racing uncles, simply charged until his strongest competitors—notably the favored Lotus turbines—fell apart. He has done that—beating whoever faced him—in four straight U.S. Auto Club championship races.

The stick for his own low gear failed, costing him precious seconds on the three compulsory pit stops. He saw his brother Al crash in the southwest turn, noted he was apparently unhurt, and continued charging.

These Unser boys were running on the track where their brother Jerry was killed in 1959. They also lost an uncle in a stock car test run.

COASTS OFF

Bobby, winning for the first time, led three times in the race but appeared hopelessly behind Lotus turbine driver Joe Leonard with the end almost in sight. Then, with 20 miles to go, Leonard's turbine died and he coasted off the track, just as Parnelli Jones did last year in the original turbine with 7½ miles to go.

S. A. Silbermann, head of the speedway technical committee, said the Pratt & Whitney turbines have a governor which shuts off the engine if the throttle is advanced too quickly. Leonard's trouble came when he got the green light after a minor accident had slowed the pace.

A national organization of race writers and broadcasters had picked the three turbines to finish one-two-three. They were driven by Graham Hill of London, Leonard, of San Jose, Calif., and Art Pollard of Medford, Ore.

Hill, the 1966 winner, never led and crashed after 111 of the 200 laps after losing a wheel. Pollard's turbine quit after 188 laps. The technical committee called it a gear box failure.

Nobody was hurt in the race, which brought sunshine for the first time in eight days. The lead changed eight times in fu-

Giants Get Chance To Snap Drysdale's Shutout Streak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No team likes being shut out but if the San Francisco Giants don't avoid a whitewash tonight they'll find themselves in the National record books.

The Giants, leading the league by 1½ games, will run into Don Drysdale, 5-3, gunning for his fifth straight shutout. He's already tied the National League mark and the major league record is five, set way back in 1904. It'll be the first of a three-game series.

McCORMICK

The Giants have an ace in a sleeve too-the left arm of Mike McCormick, last year's Cy Young Award winner. But McCormick has had problems this season and, after being hit hard early in the campaign, is only 4-5.

If San Francisco is looking for a plan of attack against Drysdale they might consider trying to close the 6-foot-6 Dodger's mouth. They didn't do it against Steve Carlton, 6-1, yesterday and the result was a 6-0 shutout by the rangy St. Louis Cardinals' hurler.

"I put my order in early," Carlton grinned. "I told Lou (Brock), Mike (Shannon), Curt (Flood) and Charley (Orlando Cepeda) that I wanted six runs.

Carlton figured he needed them, because he had an 0-4 career record against the Giants going into the game.

FINALLY

"It took me three years to beat them and I finally got them," Carlton said. "That's what counts. "I can't really tell you much about the Giants, because I usually don't last too long against them."

Carlton got the bulk of the runs in the first inning when Shannon and Tim McCarver whacked successive homers. Shannon's seventh homer of the year came with Cepeda on base.

Cepeda had knocked in Julian Javier with the first run. Then McCarver cracked his third homer and loser Ray Sadecki, 6-5, went to the showers.

The Cards added a pair off Lindy McDaniel in the seventh when Brock singled and Javier tripled him home. Javier scored on Flood's single.

TROUBLE

Carlton pitched his way out of trouble. In the fifth inning, Carlton let the first two men reach base and got one out on a foul out. Then Ron Hunt triggered a line drive to left-center that sent Brock scurrying to the wall for the catch.

"I was really scared in that inning," Carlton said. "Because that's the inning they put up the big W (for win) for a pitcher. And I saw some guys on the bench loosening up their arms and I thought Hunt's ball was going out."

"That was the first time in a week I hit the ball out of the infield," Shannon grinned. "That was a feat in itself."

RELAXED

Shannon admittedly had been hitting horribly lately and he said he just finally decided to relax.

"I think the fact that me, Cepeda and McCarver were all going bad added to the pressure," Shannon explained. "If one of us was going bad, we knew the other would pick us up. But all of us going bad at the same time made it worse."

Weekend Army Duty For Oakland's Kubiak

OKLAND (AP)—Just when things are going well for the Oakland Athletics, a fellow named Sam is calling.

Second baseman Ted Kubiak, who has been the spark in three straight Oakland wins over the American League champion Boston Red Sox, will miss the three-game weekend series that starts in Oakland Coliseum tonight at 7:30 against the California Angels.

Kubiak and outfielder Joe Rudi must spend the weekend with Uncle Sam in Washington. Both are members of a national guard unit.

TOUGH

It's particularly tough on Kubiak who has collected six hits in the last three games.

He had a double and single and drove in a run as Oakland defeated Boston 6-2 yesterday

"Four games is the most I have ever played in a row in the majors," Kubiak said. "Just when I was getting used to playing I have to go away."

Earlier this week Kubiak heard rumors that he might be traded to Baltimore. "That's all right with me," he said. "I just want to go some place where I can play."

Kubiak is now a permanent and happy infielder for the Athletics. Oakland Manager Bob Kennedy credited him with putting life in the team.

With Kubiak gone for the upcoming series with the Angels, John Donaldson will be back at second base. Floyd Robinson will replace Rudi in left field.

That shouldn't pose much of a problem for the Athletics. Donaldson and Robinson bat from the left side of the plate and two of California's three probable starters in the series are righthanders.

DOBSON

Oakland's Chuck Dobson, 2-4, takes the mound against Sammy Ellis, 3-5, tonight. In tomorrow's twilight game John Odom will probably go against California southpaw George Brunet. The Angels' Jim McGlothlin and Jim Nash are due to start Sunday.

Kennedy made it clear that Kubiak would be back at second base as soon as he returns from his Army duty.

Next month Kubiak will miss two weeks when he takes his summer training with the Army.

After that, he'll be away only for one weekend a month for the remainder of the season.

Marin Mets Win A Pair

Marin Mets, newly-organized semi-professional baseball team, swept a Memorial Day doubleheader from the San Francisco All-Stars yesterday, 9-1 and 1-0.

Steve Ammon, Tony Reese and Jim Devine paced a 13-hit attack in the opener, each with three hits, including a home run by Devine. Bill McNally was the big runs-batted-in star with a bases-loaded double.

Pitcher Bob Walsh went the distance for Marin, yielding five hits and striking out seven batters for his third victory without a loss.

In the nightcap catcher Bob Dandreano's sixth inning home run gave batterymate Roger Nizolack all the help he needed in posting his second victory of the year against one loss. Nizolack scattered five hits.

Weiskopf Leads In Atlanta Golf

ATLANTA (UPI)—Tom Weiskopf, the long-belting golfer whom many are fitting into Jack Nicklaus' mold, doesn't know how much longer he has before he has to pack away his clubs and answer a call to arms.

Playing on a week-to-week basis while he waits to hear from his draft board, Weiskopf figures he doesn't have any time to waste; he'd better grab as much golf cash now as he can since it probably will be awhile before he gets another chance.

With this thought tucked in the back of his mind, the rangy, 25-year-old Weiskopf took a one-stroke lead into the second round of the Atlanta Golf Classic today as he goes after the $23,000 first prize that would make him the year's leading money winner.

He's earned nearly $86,000 already since January and the only golfer ahead of him for the year is Billy Casper who has more than $104,000 but who isn't playing here this week.

Wieskopf, gaining his edge with an eagle-3 on the next to last hole, shot a 4-under-par 68 in yesterday's opening round of this $115,000 tournament.

LOG JAM

That gave him an uneasy stroke lead over a logjam of seven runnerups that included the ever-threatening Nicklaus himself as well as PGA champion Don January, Tommy Aaron, Chris Blocker, Ray Floyd, Bert Yancey and Eldridge Miles, a former stockbroker who didn't even have a spot in the tournament until virtually the last minute.

Another stroke back at 2-under-par 70s were Bob Lunn and Monty Kaser, the 1-2 finishers in last week's Memphis Open, along with 6-foot-6 George Archer who has earned nearly $80,000 this year and Lee Trevino who's earned half that much.

CERRUDO 71

San Rafael's Ron Cerrudo was in a four-way tie at 71, three strokes off the pace.

Weiskopf started on the back nine of the rugged, 7,053-yard Atlanta Country Club course yesterday. He made the turn in 3-under and was 5-under after a dozen holes. But he took a triple-bogey just two holes later when he overshot the green and needed three more shots to get on.

There were plenty of disappointments in the opening round as only 16 of the 144 starters were able to break par. Arnold Palmer had a 76 and, complaining again about his hip, hinted he might withdraw.

Terra Linda Trojans Win Tourney Opener

p.m. to the delight of a howling house of partisan fans.

Dave Edson, who had drawn three walks, blooped a little pop in back of second that the El Camino shortstop dropped in a bid at a running catch. Logan came up again, rippled another one, this one inside the fence for a double and scoring Edson with the go-ahead run, off the fourth El Camino hurler.

In came No. 5, Gary Harmon, who fanned the next two batters. Timmel, who singled in his last trip, then tore into one and sent it flying high for two sweet insurance runs and a 6-3 lead.

El Camino went out quietly, one-two-three in the eighth.

Timmel, despite the shaky start, hung in there tough, struck out 16 batters in eight innings for an even two an inning to break the old mark of 15 in a game set by Bob Netto of Santa Cruz in 1963.

The win was Timmel's 11th straight. The Trojans will try to land in the finals with probably both Rick Edwards and Jerry Goodrick seeing mound duty against hot-hitting Richmond tonight.

rious competition.

Leaders were Leonard, first seven laps; Bobby Unser, laps 8-56; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., 57-89; B. Unser, 90-112; Leonard, 113-119; B. Unser, 120-165; Ruby, 166-174; Leonard, 175-191, and B. Unser, 192-200.

As the turbines crashed or died, turbocharged Offenhausers, perfected only this year, powered nine of the 11 cars which were still running when Bobby Unser crossed the finish line.

It was a great day for Gran Prix racer and All American Eagle auto builder Dan Gurney, Santa Ana, Calif. He applauded as Bobby Unser set a race record of 152.882 m.p.h. in an Eagle and followed him across the line in second place.

World road racing champion Denis Hulme of New Zealand finished fourth in another Eagle behind Mel Kenyon of Lebanon, Ind., who had a Gerhardt-Offy.

FEW RUNNING

Unofficially, others running at the finish were Ruby, fifth; Ronnie Duman, Indianapolis, sixth; three rookies—Billy Vukovich, Fresno, Calif., seventh; Mike Mosley, La Puente, Calif., eighth, and Sam Sessions, Nashville, Mich., ninth—Bob Grim, Indianapolis, 10th, and Bob Veith, Santa Rosa, Calif., 11th.

Vukovich, whose father won the 500 twice, and Gary Bettenhausen, whose father was a longtime 500 contender, were impressive newcomers. Gary was eliminated by hitting debris from Al Unser's wreck. Both their fathers died in Indianapolis accidents.

All-Star Cricket On Tap In Kentfield

Cricket associations from Northern and Southern California will clash tomorrow and Sunday in special all-star matches at College of Marin in Kentfield, 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. each day.

Marin Cricket Club representatives on the Northern California team are vice captain Ken Serpanchy and Barry Oldham.

Hub Softballers Split Twin Bill

Sohner Tree Service of San Anselmo clinched at least a tie for the Petaluma Softball League championship Wednesday night by dividing a double-header for a 5-1 won-lost record.

Jess Munyon's eighth inning triple powered Sohner to a 5-3 victory over Good Spot. Winning pitcher was Morey Swarm who limited the losers to one hit over the last six innings.

Sebastopol blanked Sohner in the nightcap, 3-0, handing Morey Swarm his first loss after nine straight victories.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Interesting Baseball Day

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

National League baseball consumed 12 hours, 52 minutes on Memorial Day from the time the first pitch was thrown at Pittsburgh until the last out was recorded at St. Louis.

In between, some interesting things happened.

—Like the St. Louis Cardinals scoring six runs—their highest total in three weeks.

—Like the New York Mets sweeping a doubleheader.

—Like Bob Aspromonte driving in two runs on a force out.

—Like Ed Kranepool driving in two runs.

The Cards, locked in a hitting slump that dumped them to fourth place with 11 losses in 13 games, woke up with a 6-0 victory over San Francisco. Houston battered Atlanta 11-0, New York swept a twinbill that started in mid-morning from Pittsburgh 6-3 and 5-4, and Los Angeles dropped Cincinnati 5-3. Chicago's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

Thirteen doubleheaders had come and gone since the Mets last swept one. But the ingredients were right yesterday.

First, the opponents were the Pirates, victims of the last Met sweep back in August, 1967. Then there was the bizarre 10:30 a.m. starting time. And then, perhaps most startling, there was Kranepool driving in two runs.

Kranepool had been up 95 times without an RBI this season. The Pirates were so confident they could handle Ed that they walked rookie Kevin Collins intentionally, loading the bases in the third inning of the first game.

But Kranepool singled for two runs and New York was on its way to the victory— eighth in 10 decisions for rookie Jerry Koosman.

The Mets completed the sweep for Dick Selma's fourth consecutive victory. New York scored all its runs with two out in the fifth inning—a rally started, appropriately enough, by Don Bosch's first hit of the year.

Houston had almost as much fun against the Braves, collecting 15 hits—three each and three RBI apiece by ex-Braves Denis Menke and Lee Thomas.

Aspromonte also had three runs batted in and two of them came in a most interesting fashion.

The bases were loaded in the eighth inning when Aspro lined to center. Rusty Staub at third and Lee Thomas at second took off but Jim Wynn, thinking the ball would be caught, held up at first.

Felipe Alou trapped the ball and Staub and Thomas scored but Wynn was cut down at second for the out. Two RBI, one force play.

Associated Sportsmen Schedule Dinner For Its Past Chairmen

STEVENS

A letter from Clarence Wilson of the Associated Sportsmen, Dsitrict 3, reports a very successful annual outing of the clan at Lake Pardee. About 300 persons attended, some in trailers, some in campers and some in private cars.

Clarence also announced a gala get-together dinner meeting at the Veteran's Memorial in Walnut Creek. The occasion will be to pay homage to the many past chairmen of the District 3. It is suggested that members and unattached anglers run a heavy line around the date — June 8, 1968. A swell bunch of boys and women will be attending. Remember the time and the place and resolve to be there at 7 p.m. As Clarence put it: "To honor all chairmen while they are still with us."

Wilson, himself a past chairman, lives in Castro Valley, but whenever or wherever the action on matters pertaining to the business of District Council, you'll find him in the midst of it.

THE ACTIVE participants who went to the sea after salmon on Monday and Tuesday of this week, and worked the area off Double Point, hit the jackpot. Reports from several sources were terse and very much to the point. As Bussy Gorman of Lee Anderson's Boat, Bait and Tackle headquarters in Oakland reported, "All boats back in port at 1 p.m. with limits of striped bass." Bussy added a very exciting report of the bass-fishing boat, Wilma H., fished off Hunter's Point and took one 10 pound bass and two weighing 18 pounds each.

SORRY, BUT striper striving generally is still in the doldrums. Some bass have been taken as it is always the case, but it has not been good in the San Francisco and San Pablo bays. Quite a few stripers have been taken in the Delta area, but they have mostly been small.

WORD FROM the Bethel Island Chamber of Commerce reported that night fighing for catfish "has been moderately productive with best action with clams as bait. Dutch Slough, Holland Cut and Quimby Island being featured as to areas; and clams have proved quite effective. Pete Neilsen brought in a 9 pound cat while fishing at night with clams."

The overall picture of bass fishing in the back country is not at all bright. High, gusty winds have kept most anglers at home or confined to the few spots where the winds don't bother.

LOOKING OVER reports in previous years, I noted the bass fishing was good in June 1940, '41 and '42. Good also in June to December. If history repeats itself, better days are coming and here's hoping.

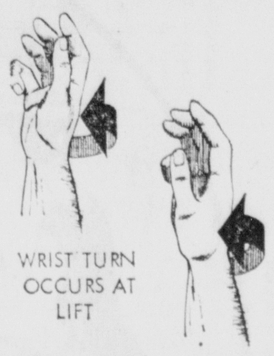
Rick Barry To Play In Tiburon Softball

The Radio KYA Oneders softball team, starring a gentleman better known for shooting a ball than hitting it — pro basketball star Rick Barry — will play a benefit game against the Little League managers and coaches of the Tiburon-Belvedere area tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at the Del Mar School in Tiburon.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Although my wrist is firm and unflexed throughout the swing, I allow it to turn as I release the ball. The counter-clockwise turn is slight, as illustrated, and occurs as I "lift" the ball with my fingers. This produces a moderate hook.

6,643 See First Night Horse Race

SAN MATEO (AP) — A crowd of 6,643 helped inaugurate California's first night racing last night, one week later than scheduled because of a mutuel clerks-Bay Meadows management dispute over night differential pay.

Mutuel handle for the nine-race quarter horse program was $296,998, compared with $172,918 wagered during the daytime opener at Bay Meadows last year on May 25. The attendance was only slightly above last year's daytime average.

A $600,000 lighting system was turned on after the second race, the first two being run in "saved" daylight.

Meet Tam High's Mr. Zip

By GARY TISCHLER

Speed is kind of relative.

It comes in jet trails, roller coaster dips, GTO roars, and rocket thrusts, and when measured against these, the churning feet of boys on a hot cinder track are almost as fast as a slow motion retake.

But close up at the finish tape, Alan Lee is anything but slow motion, and never has been.

He may or may not wind up with the tape between his teeth at today's and tomorrow's 50th running of the California State track and field meet. The odds being what they are in a state meet (big), he probably won't, but stranger things have happened.

Lee, a senior at Tamalpais High School, is the best Marin County Athletic League sprinter since 9.7 Dean Lazzarini of Drake. Some say he may be better.

Ever since he sped to a 9.9 in the 100 as a Class B runner, Lee has been sort of a faceless wonder, an anonymous speed whiz.

FURTHER FAME

This year, Lee brought further fame to himself and the MCAL by winning both dashes 9.8, 21.8) and anchoring the Indians' winning 440 relay team at the division and north coast meets, sending himself and the relay team into the State meet.

Athletic fame and Lee are not exactly kissing cousins. He is not a "hey-look-at-me" boy who hangs ribbons and medals on his chest.

There are still a host of Tamalpais students who don't know Lee from one of the Grateful Dead. Part of the reason is that Lee doesn't invite the attention that his track achievements have brought him. Coach Bruce Grants reports that he's one of the few athletes he's known who doesn't wear his varsity letter on his jacket.

BRAHMS AND BANG

A big part of the reason is that the whole world doesn't revolve around the 9.8 seconds or so from start to finish. He would just as soon be known as a fellow who dickers in the bubbly confines of a chemistry lab, a guy who makes phone calls urging people to back Bobby Kennedy, a guy whose ears perk up to the strains of Brahms and Beethoven as well as the crack of the starter's gun.

A good student (B average), he has a hefty life off the track. He can give you a detailed account of a comparative oxygen experiment, ("I'm sort of a scientific fiend," he says), then run into his activities as co-chairmen of a Marin Youth for Kennedy organization.

"It gets hectic sometimes," he said. "You get funny answers from people sometimes when you call them urging them to vote for Kennedy."

Lee comes by the varied interests and activities naturally. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lee of 19 East Blithedale, Mill Valley are not exactly slouchers when it comes to activities.

Mrs. Lee used to be in opera circles and is a member of the San Anselmo Festival Theater group while Mr. Lee, a supervising engineer with Bechtel Corporation, is also an amateur painter.

RUNNING THRILL

Still, Lee is no reluctant runner.

"I like the thrill of running fast," he said. "I like running to the best of my ability and maybe a little more."

It's just that he isn't an ahletic bug.

"I went out for football once," he said. "But let's face it. I'm just too small. Besides, it's too brutal a sport."

Lee did go out for cross country, mainly to keep in shape for tack.

"I'm actually pretty bad. Down in the middle of the junior varsity which isn't too good," he said. "But it's a lot of fun."

Wins Feature Race

Car No. 8, sponsored by D & S Garage of San Rafael and driven by Wally Kent of Concord, won the 50-lap main event Wednesday night at the special pre-Memorial Day trophy races at Vallejo Speedway.

Lee would have had an outstanding season as a junior but for an ankle injury that resulted from not being properly warmed up. Now he jogs over a mile prior to a meet and during it. It keeps him busy.

COLLEGE PLANS

Grant thinks Lee could become a good 440 man in college and Lee agrees. They agree on many things.

"You might say, I'm his protoge," Lee said. "He's helped me a lot."

Lee has been running in an MCAL field pretty much devoid of competition, except for San Rafael sophomore Bob Peterson.

"He's going to be a great one," Lee said. "He's tall which is good. And you wait, he'll be doing 9.7, 9.6 pretty soon. I helped him out a little during the season, but then he got too good."

But he likes to talk about other things.

"I want to be a marine bacteriologist," he said. "I'd like to read more. With so much going on in the world, I fell bad about not keeping up with it. It's like that Kennedy thing. I agree with the people and I want to do something about it."

Lee is hoping that he will do well enough at the state meet to attract some scholarship attention. The wonder is that he hasn't already.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

Even The Best May Overlook The Power Of The Queens' Role

If you want to be popular in bridge circles you must develop your skill. You cannot afford to rely on your jack, as today's hand clearly shows.

DUMMY TAKE

Declarer won the first trick in dummy with the king of spades and led out the ace and jack of clubs. East naturally played low, and dummy's jack won the trick.

Unable to develop the clubs, South could win only seven tricks. Down two, for a loss of 200 points. South failed because he relied on his partner's jack.

South cannot possibly develop four club tricks by leading out the ace and jack. Even if one opponent has K-x of clubs, the other must have 10-x-x-x; and the suit will still produce only two tricks.

CLUB SETUP

South must hope for K-x-x of clubs in the East hand of 10-x of clubs on either side. And since East will not take the king of clubs on the second trick, South must rely on his own queen instead of on dummy's jack.

After taking the ace of clubs, declarer leads the jack of clubs from dummy. East shrewdly plays low, but South overtakes with the queen of clubs. Fortunately for him, this holds the trick.

GAME MAKER

If only small clubs fell, South would return a club, hoping for a 3-3 break. Since the ten of clubs actually falls, South returns the nine of clubs to drive out the king. Declarer gets back with the ace of spades to cash the rest of the clubs, making game and rubber.

"What if West holds the king of clubs?" somebody is sure to ask. In that case South cannot make his contract. South should be willing to go down three instead of two half the time to improve his chance to make the contract the other half of the time.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, you respond one spade, and partner bids two no trump.

You hold:

♠ Q J 5 4 2
♥ 9
♦ Q 5
♣ K 7 6 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs.

If partner has three-card support for spades he will now bid three spades and you will go on to game in spades. Otherwise, partner will bid three hearts or perhaps three diamonds, and you will wind up in thre no trump.

Marin County's "day" at the California Exposition along the bank of the American River in Sacramento will be Aug. 2.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, May 31, the 152nd day of 1968 with 214 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Saturn and Venus. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1902 the Boer War ended as Great Britain and the South Africans signed a peace treaty.

In 1913 Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan declared the 17th constitutional amendment in effect—providing for popular election of U.S. Senators.

In 1951 Radio Moscow claimed television had been invented in 1907 by a Russian. TV actually was developed in U.S. laboratories in the 1930's.

In 1962 Adolph Eichmann was hanged for his part in the murders of six-million Jews during World War II.

A thought for the day: British poet Robert Browning said, "Every joy is gain, and gain is gain, however small."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Detroit Truck-Trailer Builder Buys East Bay Designing Firm

Pacheco, Inc. of Alameda, designer and manufacturer of container, trailer and bulk commodity handling systems, has been acquired by Fruehauf Corp. of Detroit, manufacturer of truck-trailers and a large producer of intermodal shipping containers.

William E. Grace, president and chief executive officer of Fruehauf, said the assets and liabilities of Pacheco were acquired by the issuance of 306,400 shares of Fruehauf's common stock.

In business in the Bay Area for more than 47 years, Pacheco also builds dredges, offshore platforms, barges, tugboats, hydroelectric cranes, gates and hoists, as well as custom equipment for general industry. As a division of Fruehauf its sales for 1968 are estimated to be in the $20 million to $25 million range.

AMERICAN EXPRESS CO. directors have authorized a new and higher quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share, payable July 1. On March 25, American Express approved a three-for-one stock split. Prior to the split the annual dividends were equal to $1.40. The new rate of 20 cents per share represents an increase to $2.40 per year on the old basis.

THE RUCKER CO., Oakland, and Shaffer Tool Works, Brea (Orange County), have agreed in principle to the merger of Shaffer into Rucker. Final details are being negotiated. When completed, Shaffer will be operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary with its present management and operations remaining intact. Rucker sales for 1967 amounted to $50 million and it is anticipated Shaffer will add $14 million in sales in 1968.

GENERAL BREWING CORP. directors have declared a special cash dividend of 50 cents per share of common stock outstanding, payable June 28. It is reported to be a distribution from non-recurring income received by the corporation in settlement of a shareholders' derivative suit.

WESTERN GREYHOUND LINES has elected Frank L. Nageotte president, replacing William H. Starling, who has reached mandatory retirement age. Nageotte had been vice president and assistant to Sparling since early 1967. He is a 21-year veteran of Greyhound's transportation and executive departments.

WELLS FARGO BANK chairman of the board H. Stephen Chase has announced his retirement, climaxing a 41-year banking career. He will continue as a member of the board and as a director of the bank's subsidiary, Wells Fargo Bank International Corp.

EMPORIUM CAPWELL CO. has reported sales for the first quarter in fiscal 1968 at $37.4 million, an increase of 4.4 per cent over 1967. First quarter earnings for 1968 were $1,133,688, a decrease of 14 per cent. The drop was said to have resulted from pre-opening expenses of the Capwell Fremont store and real estate and construction costs for Almaden Fashion Plaza.

EDISON BROTHERS STORES, INC., which operates Leed's Shoe Store at Northgate Fashion Mall has reported record high sales and earnings for the first 16 weeks of 1968. Sales of $65 million represented a 19.5-per cent increase from the corresponding period last year. Earnings of $2,616,000 or 62 cents per common share rose 26.5 per cent.

American Express Merger Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A plan to merge American Express Co. and Fund American Companies was announced yesterday by officials of both firms.

American Express is a leading international travel and financial company. Fund American is a holding company whose principal subsidiaries include the Firemen's Fund Insurance Companies plus various investment and mutual fund companies.

The transaction would involve a tax-free exchange of convertible preferred stock of American Express for the outstanding stock of Fund American. The total combined assets would be in excess of $3 billion.

The proposal is subject to the preparation of a formal agreement and approval by the respective boards of directors and shareholders.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

$10-15 Issues Are Simply Speculations

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have done extremely well following your column advice. To mention just one, I have tripled my money in American Hospital Supply. Now my daughter, single and working, would like to invest for growth. She would like to buy several $10 to $15 stocks. We know we can depend on your sound judgment.—S.R.

A. Let me clear up one misconception as to share price. Most $10 to $15 issues are speculations rather than investments and a beginner does not have the necessary knowledge to "tend this kind of garden."

Buying fewer shares of a higher-priced issue is a sounder policy for a novice.

Cook Coffee, recently split two for-one, trades at a moderate level relative to anticipated 1968 earnings. This Ohio-based supermarket chain has expanded operations into the discount department store and sporting goods fields. An impressive record of sales and earnings growth has been compiled and sales target for 1970 is $1 billion.

A modest commitment in this growing concern should work out well for your daughter.

Q. I recently exercised an option to purchase stock in the company that employs me. On the certificates is stamped a legend to the effect that the shares have not been registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, are for investment, and cannot be transferred unless registered. Will I have any difficulty selling the stock if I want to at some future time?—H.R.

A. This is a complex situation that varies from one company to another. Since an option such as the one you have exercised usually permits the employee to purchase stock at a discount from the going market rate, the company in order to protect its stockholders places some form of restriction on resale or transfer. I suggest that you either consult your company's attorney — or your own — as to the exact conditions regulating your stock purchase.

Looking Ahead

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Nearly two-thirds of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's 1967 net income was retained to help provide for future growth and about one-third was paid out in dividends to stockholders, the firm's annual report shows. Of the company's $127.1-million in earnings, $79 million was retained and $48.1-million went to shareholders.

Spending Cut By Johnson Helps Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today although pre-weekend profit taking pared earlier gains. Trading was active.

Analysts cited President Johnson's statement that he is willing to go along with a $6 billion spending cut to get the $10 billion tax increase as the main reason for market strength.

Prices near the close included:

Glen Alden, up ⅜ at 16⅝; Occidental Petroleum, up 2 at 47½; Hooker Chemical, up 2⅛ at 56¼; Inland Steel, up 3⅛ at 37⅝; American Telephone, unchanged at 48¼; EG&G Inc., off 2¼ at 62⅛; Great Western Financial, up 1⅝ at 20¼; First Charter Financial, up 3⅜ at 31¼; and IBM, up 10½ at 356¼.

Gains outnumbered loses by welle over 2 to 1.

The list was buoyed by greater hopes that Congress finally would enact a tax increase linked with a $6-billion spending cut since President Johnson said he would accept that package.

Steels and savings-and-loans were upside favorites. The steels rose on forecasts of greater profits while savings-and-loans looked to better times if credit were loosened as the result of the expected tax increase.

U.S. Steel and Republic Steel ran up more than a point, Inland Steel about 2½, and Bethlehem about a point.

Among the savings and loans, First Charter Financial and Great Western Financial spurted 2 points or more, Imperial Corp. about a point, and California financial a fraction, all in very active trading.

Glen Alden, up a fraction, edged out Occidental Petroleum as the most-active stock. "Oxy" ran up more than 2 points after publication of a bullish article in a financial magazine.

NAZI HELMET VERBOTEN AS HIGH SCHOOL GARB

Students at San Rafael High School are forbidden to wear sandals which are not supported at the toe and heel. They may not wear garments bearing slogans of questionable taste, and they may not wear extreme headgear, such as Nazi helmets and jingle bell hats.

These were among the specifics in a dress and grooming policy announced to the students this week.

An announcement from the school administration office declared, "We do not believe that style of dress nor manner of hair should be mandated. We do believe that teachers should guide youngsters if they feel that individual styles are not desirable for whatever reason.

"Grooming and dress are expected to be within limits of decency, cleanliness and appropriateness for school."

Cliff Climbing Youth Found Injured On Monterey Beach

MONTEREY (UPI) — For two days, the Pacific surf licked at young Douglas Smith as he lay stranded by back and leg injuries on a secluded Monterey County beach.

Smith, 18, Cupertino, told rescuers yesterday he fell from a steep cliff above the beach Tuesday. He was unable to move because of his injuries.

At high tide, waves rolled over the teen-ager.

He was found at the water's edge yesterday by two hikers. Law officers struggled for two hours to remove him from the small cove, but were rebuffed by the rising tide. He finally was carried out by Navy helicopter.

The sand-covered Smith said he was trying to scale the almost vertical 30-foot precipice at Rocky Creek, 14 miles south of here, when he fell.

He was taken to a Monterey hospital, treated for back and leg injuries, then transferred by ambulance to a Cupertino hospital. His condition was "satisfactory."

British Press Magnate Booted

LONDON (AP) — The sudden downfall of British press magnate Cecil King rocked Fleet Street today and boosted the political stock of Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The 11-member board of the $290 million International Publishing Corp., fired King, 67, because of the vendetta he launched against Wilson earlier this month.

King had been chairman of the corporation and refused to resign. The board said he had intervened in politics "in a personal sense rather than in the more objective sense."

Hugh Cudlipp, 54, was named to succeed King, his colleague for more than 30 years.

Teen Sisters Say Slayer Made Threats

STOCKTON (UPI)—Two teenage sisters told today how they were held hostage by a man with a terminal disease who robbed and killed two store clerks to get money for an operation.

The girls were leaving a downtown parking lot Wednesday when the bandit fled with $3,193 from a clothing store where he had killed the two clerks and wounded two others. He forced the sisters to drive him 90 miles to San Francisco where they were released unharmed.

While being questioned by Stockton police, Ramona Reynaga, 18, and her 14-year-old sister Lydia said the lanky gunman threatened to kill them if police were notified. He told them he needed money for surgery on a terminal disease he did not specify.

Meanwhile, police throughout Northern California pressed their hunt for the killer, identified as Balazar Estolas, 29, of Twitchell Island, an asparagus cutter and a former U.S. Marine.

The killer walked into the clothing store Wednesday evening, picked out four items of apparel, then began shooting at employes with a .38-caliber pistol. Killed were Pellegrini Chieri, 24, and Giosue Mariani, 74. Two others received minor wounds.

The robbery however, won't finance an operation. The bandit flung the loot into the rear seat of his car, then changed his getaway plan, and bolted into the sisters' automobile.

San Franciscan Hurt In Wreck

A San Francisco man escaped with minor injuries yesterday after his motorcycle crashed head-on into a car on Crest Farm Road, south of Fairfax.

Edward L. Murray, 22, was treated for multiple scrapes and bruises at Marin General Hospital.

His motorcycle came around a curve on the wrong side at 6:45 p.m. and hit an oncoming car, driven by Maj. William W. Ware, 35, of 295 Westover Circle, Hamilton Air Force Base, according to the California Highway Patrol.
